Overview & Current Events

Republic Bancorp is a financial holding company that is headquartered in Louisville, Kentucky, and provides both traditional and non-traditional banking products to its customers. It has 42 full-service banking centers in five states, with most of the centers in Kentucky, and has a market cap of $911 million. The bank offers savings, checking and money market accounts while it also originates residential mortgage loans, home equity loans, commercial real estate loans, credit lines and offers personal and business banking services. Republic Bancorp is characterized by conservative management and thus it has raised its dividend for 22 consecutive years.

In late July, Republic Bancorp reported (7/21/23) financial results for the second quarter of fiscal 2023. It grew its loans 19% over the prior year's quarter. Its net interest income grew 19% thanks to higher interest rates charged on loans. On the other hand, the cost of deposits significantly increased due to heating competition and non-interest expense rose. As a result, earnings-per-share decreased -12%, from $1.22 to $1.07, and missed the analysts' consensus by $0.09. It was the second consecutive earnings miss after seven consecutive quarters of earnings beats.

Most banks faced material loan losses due to the pandemic in 2020, but Republic Bancorp proved resilient to that crisis thanks to its disciplined business model. The bank grew its earnings-per-share 3% in 2020 and 6% in 2021. The stock came under pressure earlier this year due to the sell-off of regional banks after the collapse of Silicon Valley Bank and Credit Suisse but it has retrieved its losses. We remain confident in the prospects of this prudently managed bank.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Republic Bancorp has exhibited a solid performance record over the last decade. It has grown its earnings-per-share at a 15.9% average annual rate over the last decade and at a 12.9% average annual rate over the last five years. The bank is trying to grow by expanding its reach via digital channels and acquiring smaller peers, while it is also doing its best to reduce its operating costs. In addition, the Fed has been raising interest rates aggressively in an effort to restore inflation to its long-term target. This creates a tailwind for Republic Bancorp, as it enhances its net interest margin, i.e., the difference between the interest rate it charges on its loans minus the interest rate it pays on its deposits. However, due to this tailwind, the earnings of this year form a somewhat high comparison base. We thus expect 3.0% growth going forward.

Republic Bancorp is currently trading at a price-to-earnings ratio of 10.4, which is lower than its 7-year average price-to-earnings ratio of 11.5. The cheap valuation has resulted primarily from the sell-off of regional banks in the aftermath of the collapse of Silicon Valley Bank and Credit Suisse. We expect Republic Bancorp to endure the ongoing downturn without any issues and thus we expect the stock to revert to its average valuation level over the next five years. In such a case, the stock will enjoy a 1.9% annualized gain thanks to the expansion of its valuation level.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

| Year   | 2013 | 2014 | 2015 | 2016 | 2017 | 2018 | 2019 | 2020 | 2021 | 2022 | 2023 | 2028 |
| Payout | 57%  | 54%  | 46%  | 37%  | 35%  | 26%  | 27%  | 29%  | 29%  | 30%  | 33%  | 35%  |

Republic Bancorp is characterized by disciplined management, which is focused on maintaining pristine credit quality metrics. Non-performing loans are only 0.34% of total loans while net loan charge-offs are only 0.01% of total loans. Thanks to its prudent strategy, the company has proved resilient to recessions. In the Great Recession, the worst financial crisis of the last 90 years, when most banks incurred severe losses and cut their dividends, Republic Bancorp continued growing its earnings and its dividend. The bank proved resilient throughout the pandemic as well.

The conservative strategy of the bank results in slower growth during boom times but much more reliable performance during downturns. This helps explain the superior dividend growth record of Republic Bancorp, which has raised its dividend for 22 consecutive years. Given its solid payout ratio of 33% and its defensive business model, the bank can keep raising its dividend for many more years.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Republic Bancorp is a high-quality bank, which has proved resilient to recessions. The stock came under pressure earlier this year due to the collapse of a few banks but it has retrieved all its losses, with an 18% rally since our last research report, as the bank has easily endured the financial turmoil. We expect the stock to offer a 7.8% average annual return over the next five years thanks to 3.0% earnings-per-share growth, its 3.2% dividend and a 1.9% annualized valuation tailwind. We have lowered our rating from “buy” to “hold”. In addition, investors should be aware of the low trading volume of this small-cap stock.
