Overview & Current Events

SEI Investments was founded in 1968 and over the last 50+ years has grown into a market capitalization of $8.3 billion. SEI is a global provider of investment processing, investment management, and investment operations solutions for financial institutions and advisors. SEI has about $400 billion in assets under management and around $900 billion in assets under administration. The company should produce about $1.9 billion in revenue this year.

SEI reported second quarter earnings on July 16th, 2023, and results were better than expected for both the top and bottom lines. Earnings-per-share came to 89 cents, which was three cents better than expected. Revenue rose just 1.5% year-over-year, but expectations were for a slight decline, and it outperformed by $9.5 million.

Revenue from information processing and software servicing fees included a $10.5 million one-time gain from an existing customer that was acquired by another customer. Revenue from assets under management, administration, and distribution fees declined from lower AUM in equity and fixed income programs during market depreciation periods. The company also experienced outflows from customers.

Operating expenses rose due to higher personnel costs from business growth, competitive labor markets, and the impact of inflation on wages and services. They also rose due to investments in compliance infrastructure due to new regulatory requirements, as well as higher personnel costs.

The company posted free cash flow of $53 million in Q2, and retired 1.3 million shares of stock for $76 million, or $58.56 per share, on average.

We now see $3.60 in earnings-per-share for this year.

From 2013 to 2019, SEI managed to double its earnings, and looking forward, we believe that strong growth can continue. SEI saw higher earnings-per-share in each year since 2011, until the COVID-impacted 2020. We are forecasting 6% earnings-per-share growth over the next five years. We see SEI achieving this result through continued revenue expansion as more customers adopt its SEI Wealth Platform, and its relatively newer IT services, as well as assets under management and advisement growth. We see mid-single-digit revenue growth as the primary driver of earnings going forward. SEI also buys back stock at low single-digit rates and is seeing margin expansion with its higher revenue. The key is revenue growth as SEI invests heavily in its future, and revenue growth has slowed materially.

SEI's dividend growth has been decent in recent years but it is not a high-income stock at this point. We see dividend growth going forward, but keep in mind that investors own SEI for the earnings growth potential, not for the yield, and that is not going to change anytime soon. Indeed, the payout ratio remains very low and given how much SEI invests in its platform on a regular basis, in addition to share repurchases, we expect the payout ratio to remain fairly constant.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028
Avg. P/E	18.4	19.0	24.4	22.6	22.3	20.3	15.8	18.3	16.0	15.3	17.5	18.0
Avg. Yld.	1.4%	1.3%	1.0%	1.2%	1.0%	1.0%	1.2%	1.3%	1.3%	1.4%	1.4%	1.5%

SEI's price-to-earnings multiple is higher than our last report, and it is now trading at 17.5 times this year's earnings, which is slightly under our estimate of fair value at 18 times earnings. The stock's historical range is fairly narrow at 16 to 22 times earnings. We therefore see a small tailwind to total returns due to valuation expansion as the stock is trading below fair value. The dividend is not a priority for SEI as it continues to spend cash on its products and services to fuel future growth. This is not a stock one owns for the yield, and it yields just under that of the S&P 500.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	33%	12%	23%	24%	25%	20%	21%	24%	20%	22%	24%	26%

The payout ratio is very low as earnings-per-share expansion has outpaced dividend growth in recent years. There may come a time when the dividend is a significant source of returns, but SEI is understandably focused on growth today.

SEI's competitive advantage is in its platform and services, which allow it to drive efficiencies and lower risk for its clients. That does not make it immune from economic downturns, however, as the Great Recession dinged revenue and earnings meaningfully. Given the industry SEI serves, it is reasonable to expect material weakness during a recession, so that is something investors should consider.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Overall, SEI looks like a slightly undervalued stock with modest growth potential. We are forecasting 7.9% total annual returns going forward, comprised of the 1.4% current yield and 6% earnings-per-share growth, in addition to a small gain from valuation expansion. SEI may become an income stock in the future, but it is still very much in its growth stage, so that is a long way off. We're reiterating the stock at a hold rating after Q2 results.
