The Industrial Solutions segment provides components for industrial sectors like the aerospace, defense, oil & gas, medical, and energy markets. Lastly, the Communications Solutions segment supplies components for the data and devices and appliances markets. We expect the company will benefit over the intermediate term from its investments in electric vehicles, factory automation, the cloud, and renewable energy.

We forecast that the company can continue to grow earnings-per-share at about 8.0% annually over the intermediate term, which guides our 2028 earnings-per-share estimate of about $9.82. Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Avg. P/E	13.0	15.3	18.0	14.9	15.3	17.0	15.3	20.3	19.9	17.4	20.9	18.0
Avg. Yld.	2.2%	1.9%	1.9%	2.3%	2.1%	1.8%	2.1%	2.2%	1.5%	1.6%	1.7%	1.7%

Over the trailing nine and five years, TE Connectivity has averaged a P/E ratio of 16.6 and 18.0, respectively. We estimate that a P/E ratio of about 18 could be fair for the business over the intermediate term. Today, the stock offers a low but growing 1.7% dividend yield, which is not likely to entice income-oriented investors.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	28%	28%	34%	34%	32%	30%	32%	44%	30%	29%	35%	31%

The business has averaged a low payout ratio of 32.3% over the past 9 years, and we expect the dividend to continue to be safe. We believe TE Connectivity has a competitive advantage due to its expertise in the field of electronics, components, and networking for aerospace, medicine, defense, and other industries.

As of the most recent quarterly report, TE Connectivity held $1.1 billion in cash, $7.6 billion in current assets and $21.7 billion in total assets against $4.3 billion in current liabilities and $10.2 billion in total liabilities. Additionally, long-term debt stood at $3.9 billion.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

TE Connectivity is a growing sensor and connectivity company that is likely to benefit from secular trends in electric vehicles, factory automation, the cloud, and renewable energy. At today's price, we rate the stock as a hold with total return prospects coming in at 6.4% annually, driven by an estimated 8.0% annual earnings-per-share growth rate and a 1.7% dividend yield, potentially offset by a valuation headwind.
