Overview & Current Events

Uniti Group is a Real Estate Investment Trust (i.e., REIT) that focuses on acquiring, constructing, and leasing out communications infrastructure in the United States. In particular, it owns millions of miles of fiber strand along with other communications real estate. In its recent past it has faced challenges due to its largest tenant filing for bankruptcy and renegotiating its lease with Uniti. However, the REIT is now on firmer footing and is pursuing growth opportunities. On August 1st, Uniti Group released its Q2 results, reporting a Q2 FFO of $0.34, which exceeded expectations by $0.04. However, the revenue of $283.7 million showed a slight year-over-year decrease of 0.1% and missed expectations by $7.1 million. The company has revised its 2023 outlook due to transaction-related and other costs incurred to date. The updated 2023 outlook includes: Revenue projected to be in the range of $1,154 million to $1,174 million, Adjusted EBITDA estimated to be between $915 million and $935 million, and AFFO expected to range from $373 million to $393 million. It's worth noting that the 2023 outlook excludes future acquisitions, capital market transactions, and additional transaction-related and other costs not mentioned in the update.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
AFFO/S			$1.78	$2.61	$2.51	$2.51	$2.08	$1.72	$1.68	$1.75	$1.20	$1.35
DPS			$1.64	$2.40	$2.40	$2.40	$0.00	$0.60	$0.60	$0.60	$0.60	$0.60
Shares¹			150.5	155.8	175.4	183.1	193.3	232.9	236.3	237.3	238.7	240.0

Since the IPO in 2015, Uniti Group has struggled to grow AFFO per share as it has been weighed down by a heavy debt burden and significant troubles with a very large tenant. Eventually it was forced to renegotiate its lease and as a result has taken a hit to cash flows. However, the REIT is on much firmer footing today and is looking to reignite growth.

It is primarily working to drive this growth through refinancing its debt at significantly lower rates in order to generate increased cash flow from existing revenue streams while also leasing up its under-utilized assets. In the near-term, however, higher interest rates are delaying this tailwind, resulting in the large decline in AFFO per share expected in 2023. By adding leasing to its assets it can generate extremely high returns on investment capital as additional customers require minimal additional capital expenditures, but bring in strong cash flows. As a result, we expect Uniti Group to generate 2.4% annualized AFFO per share growth over the next half decade off of this year's lows.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028

Uniti Group (UNIT)

Updated August 23rd, 2023 by Samuel Smith

With Uniti poised to grow AFFO per share at a steady clip moving forward while interest rates are rising, we assign a fair value P/AFFO multiple of 5x, which should provide a tailwind to total returns moving forward.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout			92%	92%	96%	96%	0%	35%	36%	34%	50%	44%

While Uniti Group's balance sheet is far from rock solid, it is on firmer footing and continuing to improve as management works to refinance debt to improve the maturity ladder as well as reduce interest costs. Furthermore, the trust is retaining a lot of cash right now thanks to the low payout ratio which it is using to deleverage and pursue growth opportunities which should in turn reduce leverage further.

Uniti's fiber assets are critical infrastructure in the regions in which it operates and therefore the REIT should enjoy fairly stable cash flows in the face of a recession. While its assets are mission critical, there is nothing unique about Uniti Group that gives it a durable competitive advantage. As a result, it lacks meaningful pricing power and therefore is unlikely to drive abnormally high profitability over time. The main source of total returns will be a combination of its stable cash flowing business model and multiple expansion to compensation for the current deep discount in shares.

Given the low payout ratio, significant growth upside, and the mission critical and recession resistant nature of Uniti's assets, the dividend looks safe for the foreseeable future.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Uniti Group offers investors very attractive 13.8% annualized total return potential thanks to its sky-high dividend yield, growth potential, and deeply discounted valuation. That said, it is a fairly speculative investment due to its high leverage burden. As a result, we rate it a Speculative Buy.
