Overview & Current Events

Tootsie Roll Industries, Inc. traces its roots back to the late 1890's when its namesake product, the Tootsie Roll, was first created. Today, the company sells a wider variety of candy and gum products. Other well-known brands include DOTS, Junior Mints, Andes, Charms, Blow-Pops, Sugar Daddy, and Dubble Bubble. Tootsie Roll has a dual class share structure with the Chairwoman and CEO, Ellen R. Gordon owning approximately 57.1% of common stock and 82.8% of Class B shares effectively giving her control of the company. Total revenue in 2022 was about $681M.

Tootsie Roll reported Q2 2023 results on July 25th, 2023. Net sales were up 12% to $158.8M for the quarter versus $142.1M in the prior year. In the same period, net earnings rose to $14.7M compared to $12.0M. Diluted EPS increased 24% to $0.21 per share from $0.17 on a year-over-year basis. Tootsie Roll had a difficult 2020 as retail operations, work routines, and impulse buying were disrupted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Indeed, restrictions on large gatherings limited group social events further affecting sales. However, 2021 was significantly better. The momentum has continued into 2023 because of higher sales volumes and raising prices, but margins are under pressure.

Inflation is a concern and input costs are rising for labor, ingredients, freight and delivery, fuel, packaging materials, energy and manufacturing supplies impacting profit margins and net profits. The company raised prices in response.

Tootsie Roll did not provide guidance for 2023 because of the challenging inflation impact on margins.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
EPS²	$0.83	$0.88	$0.93	$0.96	$0.90	$0.86	$0.96	$0.89	$0.97	$1.10	$1.13	$1.31
DPS	$0.32	$0.32	$0.35	$0.36	$0.36	$0.36	$0.36	$0.36	$0.36	$0.36	$0.36	$0.36
Shares³	75.0	73.9	72.7	71.7	70.7	70.1	69.0	68.0	69.1	70.3	67.7	64.4

Tootsie Roll should achieve on average 3% earnings per share growth moving forward to 2028, mostly via small amounts of revenue growth driven by incremental product innovation and price increases. Influences on earnings per share growth include commodity input and freight cost inflation on the downside, and volume and price increases and operational efficiencies to the upside. Earnings per share growth will also benefit from ongoing share buybacks. The company has reduced share count from about 75.9M in 2011 to 69.1M in 2021. We expect the share count to decrease 1% on average annually. However, COVID-19 adversely impacted revenue and earnings in 2020 because business closures resulted in lower order volumes and sales. But volumes and revenue has climbed since 2022.

The regular cash dividend was last increased in 2016 and is currently $0.36 per share. We are not expecting an increase of the regular cash dividend in the near future. But saying that, the payout ratio is only ~32% and there is room for an increase. The company issues a 3% stock dividend each year in addition to the regular dividend giving a ~4% effective yield if an investor sells the stock dividend annually.

¹ Anticipated since the Tootsie Roll has not yet announced the dividend.

² Earnings per share and dividend per share data is not adjusted for the 3% annual stock dividend.

³ Share count is in millions.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028
Avg. P/E	30.3	27.5	29.5	33.0	38.3	35.0	36.6	37.1	33.7	32.7	27.1	30.0

Tootsie Roll's stock price is down again since our last report, despite posting solid results. The company had another decent quarter, but costs are elevated. We believe that a reasonable long-term multiple is 30X, lower than the trailing 10-year average, because of limited float and changing tastes to healthier options and smaller sizes. Our fair value estimate is now $34. Our 5-year price target is now $39.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	39%	36%	38%	38%	40%	42%	38%	40%	37%	33%	32%	27%

The company's competitive advantage is the brand strength of its core product, the Tootsie Roll, and its lack of direct competition given the uniqueness of the product. Some of the company's other brands are also well known. But saying that, Tootsie Roll tends to move slowly with product changes and growth initiatives. Also, 37% of sales are to three customers and the loss of one would impact the firm. Tootsie Roll's balance sheet is very conservative. The company's long-term debt has been an industrial revenue bond for $7.5M since 2014. At end of Q2 2023, Tootsie Roll had $26.0M in cash and equivalents and $83.2M in short-term investments. Interest coverage is rock solid.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

At present we are forecasting 6.1% total annualized return over the next five years from a dividend yield of 1.2%, 3% EPS growth, and 2.0% P/E multiple expansion. The stock has traded at an elevated earnings multiple for years, but a declining stock price has lowered the valuation. The company continues to post revenue growth, but elevated costs are affecting margins and earnings. Investors seeking yield may find it here with the combined cash and stock dividend of ~4%. We have changed our rating to hold because of the declining share price.
