Overview & Current Events

Community Bank System was formed in 1983 and since that time, it has expanded to become a diversified financial services company with more than 200 locations in the northeastern U.S. Its principal business is community banking, but it also owns a large benefits administration business, in addition to offering a variety of insurance products. Its market capitalization is $2.3 billion, and it produces about $650 million in annual revenue.

Community Bank System posted third quarter earnings on October 24th, 2023, and results were worse than expected on both the top and bottom lines. Adjusted earnings-per-share came to 82 cents, which missed estimates by six cents. Revenue was $175 million, which was flat year-over-year, and fractionally missed estimates.

Ending deposits were $13 billion, which was $159 million, or 1.2% higher than Q2. Deposits were 3.4% lower year-over-year, or $456 million. Ending loans were $9.45 billion, up $279 million or 3% higher from the prior quarter.

Allowances for credit losses came to $65 million, or 0.69% of total loans, which was largely equivalent to the prior quarter, and slightly better year-over-year.

Annualized net charge-offs were 0.05%, flat to the year-ago period. We now see $3.45 in earnings-per-share for this year after weak Q3 results.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Earnings-per-share have been volatile in the past decade but in recent years, growth has been steadier. We see that continuing as the bank is focused on profitable growth, but we forecast -1% earnings-per-share growth annually. We are still cautious given interest rate headwinds present for the entire banking industry, which Community Bank System is suffering from as well. With few levers to pull to boost earnings growth, we think the bank will have a difficult time in the coming years growing from 2022 earnings. We note the bank has already offered up a slightly cautious economic forecast in its provisions for credit losses in 2023, but Q3 results were quite good on the credit quality front again.

Community Bank System continues to see earnings tailwinds from very low deposit funding costs and organic revenue growth, as well as a constant flow of acquisitions. Growth-by-acquisition is generally tough in the financial services industry, but Community Bank System has proven adept at executing this strategy over time, and this should be the primary growth driver going forward. Community Bank System is performing well, but its lending margins are already strong, so we think upside from there is somewhat limited. However, credit quality remains favorable. Even so, headwinds are still present and out of the bank's control to a large extent.

Community Bank System (CBU)

Updated November 6th, 2023, by Josh Arnold

Dividend growth has been moderate, but management appears to be willing to pay out half of earnings or more on the dividend. We see modest dividend growth ahead given the pace of earnings growth.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028
Avg. P/E	9.6	16.5	17.0	18.9	17.8	18.3	19.5	18.5	21.1	17.6	12.8	14.0
Avg. Yld.	3.4%	3.2%	3.3%	2.9%	2.5%	2.4%	2.5%	2.8%	2.3%	2.8%	4.1%	4.1%

Community Bank System's price-to-earnings multiple has moved around significantly in the past decade as its fortunes have improved and deteriorated. We have revised our target valuation to 14 times earnings given the sector is seeing much lower valuations applied by investors. We are forecasting an annual headwind to total returns in the coming years from the valuation. We see the dividend yield at 4.1% in five years, right where it is today.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	32%	51%	54%	53%	53%	45%	48%	51%	49%	49%	52%	58%

We see the payout ratio remaining around half of earnings for the foreseeable future. The bank's impressive dividend streak appears to be safe at this point, and we see many more years of increases coming, even if a recession strikes. Growth rates should be low, however, due to low earnings growth and a payout ratio that is higher than most of its peers.

Community Bank System's competitive advantage is in its dominant market position in many of its service areas. It competes in areas that have sparse levels of competition and thus the company is able to hold strong market share in those locations, with many at or above a third of total market deposits. That does not make it immune to recessions, but its strong performance means it can be an acquirer during downturns, softening the blow of economic weakness.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Overall, Community Bank's total returns face an uphill battle given lower sector valuations and modest growth outlook. We forecast total annual returns of 4.6%, and we are reiterating Community Bank at a hold rating. The 4.1% yield is nice, but the valuation offers a 1.9% potential tailwind, with a -1% projected growth rate.
