Overview & Current Events

Monroe Capital Corporation is a specialty finance company focused on providing financing solutions primarily to lower middle-market companies in the United States and Canada. It is externally managed by Monroe Capital and has chosen to be treated as a development company (BDC). The company primarily invests in senior and “unitranche” secured loans ranging between $2.0 million and $25.0 million each. It generates nearly $57 million annually in total investment income and is headquartered in Chicago, Illinois.

On November 8th, 2023, Monroe Capital Corporation reported its Q3 results for the period ending September 30th, 2023. Total investment income for the quarter came in at $15.6 million, compared to $16.3 million in the previous quarter. While the average portfolio yield increased during the quarter as a result of the rising rate environment, this increase in average portfolio yield was offset by a one-time reversal of previously accrued fee income associated with a certain investment during the quarter.

Net investment income per share came in at $0.25, two cents lower from last quarter’s $0.27. The decline was due to lower total investment income. Net asset value (NAV) per share fell 2.6% to $9.58 during the quarter, primarily due to net unrealized losses on a couple of specific portfolio companies.

As of September 30th, 2023, the Company’s portfolio comprised 99 companies totaling $518.3 million, with a weighted average annualized yield of 12.2%. About 82.9% of its funds are allocated in 1st Lien Senior Secure and 1st Lien “unitranche” securities. Based on the Company’s current portfolio composition, we forecast a FY2023 NII/share of $1.12.

Since Monroe Capital Corporation’s IPO in 2012, the company has produced stable net investment income per share, maintaining a robust relationship between its investment yields and financing costs. Performance remained resilient even during 2020, a year of significant challenges, assisted by management’s fee waivers, which showcased prudent behavior. The dividend cut from a quarterly rate of $0.35 to $0.25 at the time also displayed management’s prudent behavior. Management assured investors that there was not a coverage issue, as Monroe achieved an adequate NII/share. Instead, this was only a precautionary decision, and they are likely to readjust the dividend upon evidence of a sustained economic recovery resulting in a positive impact on its NII. Still, we do not project any dividend growth ahead amid little to no room for dividend hikes at the moment. We are also expecting NII/share to remain rather stable in the medium term, as even if NII/share grows slightly moving forward, the possibility of a lower investment yield later cannot be ignored, and hence it has to be accounted for. The share count should continue to grow moving forward as Monroe continues to issue equity to fund its investments. The NAV/share has modestly declined from $14.72 in its IPO to $9.58 as of its latest report. Still, NAV/share grew for seven consecutive quarters following Monroe's dividend cut. The streak ended six quarters ago.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Now	2028
Avg. P/NII	12.0	9.0	8.9	9.4	11.1	8.7	8.8	5.1	10.8	9.3	6.3	7.0
Avg. Yld.	10.0%	9.6%	9.8%	9.7%	9.0%	10.3%	11.2%	14.9%	9.2%	10.7%	14.2%	12.8%

Monroe's valuation currently stands at 6.3 times its net investment income. The below-average multiple is likely due to investors requiring a higher yield from a YieldCo in a rising-rates environment. Shares are also trading notably lower against their NAV, with investors also likely already pricing in a further decline in NAV over time. Nevertheless, we believe the stock is currently oversold. We have set our fair multiple at 7.0. The stock's dividend yield is currently hovering at a substantial 14.2%. It could signal an upcoming cut, but it remains covered for now.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2028
Payout	120%	87%	88%	90%	100%	89%	99%	76%	97%	98%	89%	89%

Monroe's dividend is adequately covered by the company's net investment income generation. However, another cut is not unlikely at this point, as the company's book value has been deteriorating again. That said, the company's qualities include a well-diversified portfolio of companies with a robust investment yield and a prudent management team. Monroe has not been tested by a prolonged recession, which could damage its performance if it were to occur, nonetheless. Being a business development company of modest size, the company does not enjoy any noteworthy competitive advantage other than the experience of its investment advisor, Monroe Capital, whose senior management averages more than 30 years of experience, overseeing around $16 billion in assets under management.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Overall, we believe that Monroe Capital Corporation is a prudently managed company that has showcased resilient investment income results, despite experiencing modest NAV losses over the years. Powered by our expectations of stable financials, a massive starting yield of 14.2%, and the possibility of a valuation expansion, we forecast annualized returns of 12.8% going forward. Shares earn a cautious buy rating.
