Overview & Current Events

Mueller Industries (MLI) manufactures and sells metal and plastic products around the world through its three segments: Piping Systems, Industrial Metals, and Climate. The Piping Systems segment offers copper tubes and plumbing-related fittings, and it also resells steel pipes, brass, and other metal products to wholesalers in various industries. The Industrial Metals segment manufactures brass, bronze, and copper alloy rods and other metal products for OEMs in the industrial, construction, HVAC, plumbing, and refrigeration markets. Finally, the Climate segment offers valves, protection devices, and brass fittings for various OEMs in the commercial HVAC and refrigeration markets, high-pressure components, and accessories for the air-conditioning and refrigeration markets. Mueller strives to be an industry leader, as it follows the approach of competing where it can be first or second in its core products and key markets. Mueller has averaged an 24% return on invested capital over the past five years and aims to produce double-digit annual growth in operating income.

The table below has been updated to reflect two-for-one stock split distributed to stockholders on October 20th, 2023.

The company reported earnings results on February 6th, 2024, recorrding diluted earnings-per-share of $5.30 for the FY 2023, marking a 8.9% decrease compared to the FY 2022. This decline in earnings was primarily attributed to reduced demand in the wholesale channel, as distributors adjusted their inventory levels, particularly for products used in residential construction.

Net sales for the quarter totaled $3.4 billion, showing a decrease from the $4 billion reported during the corresponding period last year, primarily due to the factors mentioned above affecting demand and pricing. Additionally, the company's operating income experienced a decline, reaching $756 million. The balance sheet remained strong at the end of the year, as available cash and short-term investments amounted to $1.3 billion, and the current ratio indicates a healthy financial position of 6.4 to 1. However, during the quarter, MLI set aside $11.6 million as a reserve for a legal issue involving Tecumseh Products Company, an affiliate, which is currently being appealed. Additionally, the company have not yet received any insurance compensation for the significant losses caused by a tornado that destroyed their copper fittings operations in Covington, Tennessee. They expect to receive this compensation towards the end of 2024.

Since 2014, earnings-per-share grew at an impressive average of 21.9% annually, with even higher growth of 42.2% for the last five years. Excluding the extraordinary growth in 2021, the yearly earnings-per-share growth rate from 2012 to 2020 was 9.9%, which we think is a more accurate way to assess the business's historic earnings-per-share growth. However, we expect earnings to slow in 2024 due to weakening product demand. Our EPS target for 2024 has been adjusted based on the stock split and the results over the last year as we foresee a continued trend of lower demand. In relation to dividends, the company saw significant growth, with an average annual rate of 16.7% over the past nine years and 24.6% over the last five years. Recently, the company raised the quarterly dividend by 20% to $0.15. However, we anticipate a slower dividend growth rate of 1.5% annually over the next five years due to the expected return to pre-2021 earnings levels and the company's history of maintaining dividends.

Valuation Analysis

| Year | 2014 | 2015 | 2016 | 2017 | 2018 | 2019 | 2020 | 2021 | 2022 | 2023 | Now | 2029 |
|-----------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|
| Avg. P/E | 16.9 | 21.3 | 18.1 | 22.7 | 15.7 | 16.4 | 11.6 | 5.5 | 11.2 | 8.9 | 9.4 | 10.0 |
| Avg. Yld. | 1.0% | 0.9% | 1.2% | 1.2% | 1.4% | 1.4% | 1.4% | 1.1% | 1.4% | 1.4% | 1.2% | 1.2% |

Since 2014, the stock has averaged a P/E ratio of 14.8; over the past five years, the stock has averaged a P/E ratio of 10.7. We estimate that a P/E ratio of about 10 is fair for the business as the company's earnings-per-share growth is expected to slow. In addition, the stock offers a 1.2% dividend yield today, which is low for investors who prioritize dividend income. The company's share price has surged since March 2020, but it is still 94% of our fair value estimate of $52.5.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

| Payout | 17% | 19% | 22% | 27% | 22% | 22% | 16% | 6% | 9% | 11% | 11% | 12% |

Since 2014, the business has demonstrated a conservative dividend policy, with the payout ratio typically below 22%. We expect the payout ratio to remain around low as earnings stabilize. Mueller balance sheet is reasonably strong, with a current ratio of 6 and a little over $1 million in long-term debt. While we project that the dividend is safe from being cut, the company has a history of maintaining the dividend for several years and rewarding shareholders with significant increases as earnings improve. Mueller Industries' competitive advantages are found in its strong global presence and brand reputation for quality and reliability. The company is the second-largest metal fabrication company by market cap. It offers a wide range of products in different industries, which helps mitigate the impact of market volatility in any specific market. This type of diversification helps keep the company resilient during a recession, where they typically maintain its dividend.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Mueller Industries is a metal fabrication business that has delivered high returns on capital for a long period of time. We predict a 3.4% total return annually over the next five years. This return is driven by a 1.2% dividend yield, an expected 1% annual growth in earnings-per-share, and a 1.3% tailwind from an expanding multiple. Due to weakening demand, and low total return, we rate Mueller Industries as a hold.
