Overview & Current Events

Quaker Chemical Corporation (KWR), which operates as Quaker Houghton, was founded in 1918 as Quaker Oil Products Corporation. The company develops, produces, and markets a broad range of formulated chemical specialty products and offers chemical management services for various heavy industrial and manufacturing applications worldwide. The company's business is divided into four segments, namely the Americas, Europe, Middle East and Africa, Asia/Pacific, and Global Specialty Businesses. With over 35 locations in 21 countries, Quaker Houghton has a global presence and generates more than 50% of net sales outside the United States.

On February 29th, 2024, the company announced results for the fourth quarter of 2023. KWR reported non-GAAP EPS of $1.78, beating market estimates by $0.10. Revenues were $467.11 million for the quarter, down 3.7% year over year.

The announcement of Q4 financial results and the full year 2023 indicates a good display of resilience and growth amidst the challenges posed by the market. Net sales for Q4 amounted to $467.1 million, with net income amounting to $20.2 million or $1.12 per diluted share versus a prior year net loss. Adjusted for non-recurring items, Q4 non-GAAP net income was $31.9 million, or $1.78 per diluted share, and adjusted EBITDA increased 13% year-over-year to $77.0 million. It was a superb performance during the year, where net sales totaled $1.95 billion, net income equaled $112.7 million, or $6.26 per diluted share, and non-GAAP net income equaled $137.6 million, or $7.65 per diluted share. The company delivered another record year, with full-year adjusted EBITDA of $320.4 million and operating cash flow of $279.0 million.

Reflecting confidence, the Board of Directors has approved a new $150 million share repurchase program. CEO Andy Tometich underscored the record earnings and sales made in 2023. Tometich remains positive on the prospects for ongoing earnings growth and long-term profit growth through solid capital allocation delivering value to shareholders.

Quaker Chemical Corporation is pursuing a range of strategies to realize long-term growth. It is expanding its product portfolio through R&D, focusing on developing innovative solutions. KWR also targets new markets in emerging economies such as Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East by establishing local operations and partnerships. Strategic acquisitions of complementary businesses are also a crucial part of its growth strategy, such as Coral Chemical, allowing for quick access to new technologies and markets. In addition, the company focuses on improving operational efficiency through lean manufacturing and automation, reducing costs, and enhancing profitability.

We have revised our EPS forecast to $8.77 for 2024, the midpoint of analysts' estimates. Additionally, we believe that the firm can grow annually at a slightly faster than the Special Chemical industry's projected growth of 4%. With a 5.0% annual growth rate, KWR's EPS can reach $11.19 by 2029. Quaker Chemical Corporation's DPS had a 10-year and five-year CAGR of 5.0% and 10.0%, respectively. The credit facility imposes certain dividend restrictions, including a maximum limit of $75.0 million, or 25.0% of consolidated EBITDA. However, the company's approach to managing its capital supports the payment of competitive cash dividends. Thus, we have assumed a relatively moderate annual growth of 4.0%.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Now	2029
Avg. P/E	18.1	21.6	21.0	28.6	27.9	31.3	38.6	36.1	29.4	31.4	23.4	30.0

Quaker Chemical Corporation is trading at a forward P/E of 23.4, lower than the five-year average P/E of 28.2 and its 10-year average of 33.0. Thus, we have assumed a stable P/E of 30.0 to value the company in 2029, close to its historical averages, suggesting a target price of $336.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

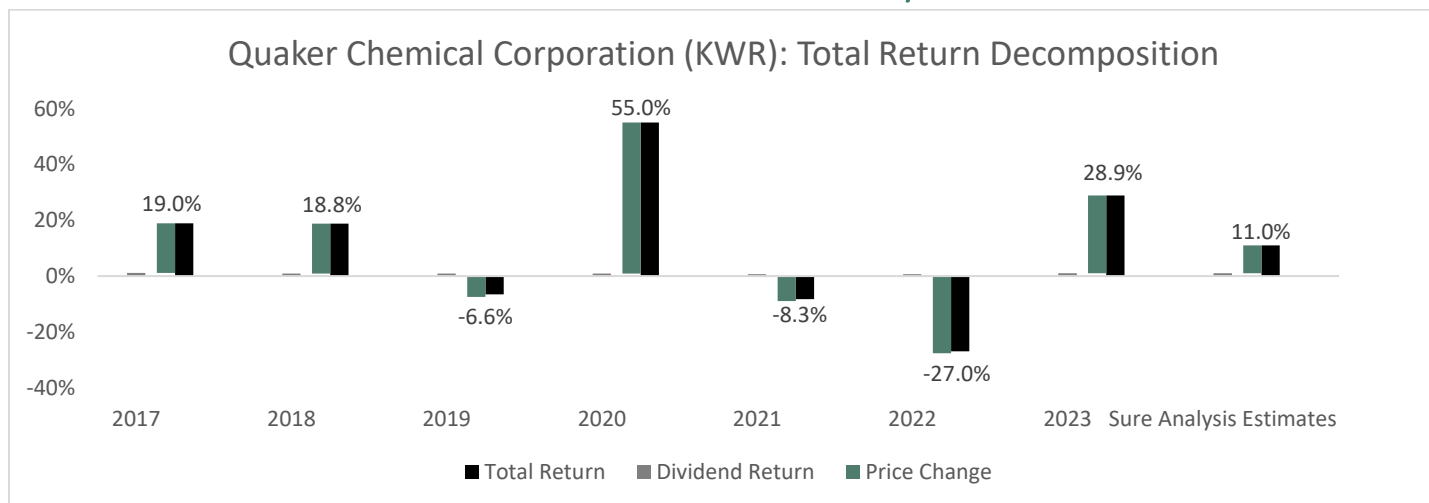

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029
Payout	27%	33%	29%	28%	24%	26%	33%	24%	29%	28%	21%	20%

For heavy industrial and manufacturing applications, Quaker Chemical Corporation enjoys a competitive edge in producing and selling a variety of Special Chemical formulations. Because of this edge over competitors, the business can increase profits and benefit its shareholders. Quaker Chemical demonstrated outstanding financial performance with a 10.0% increase in revenue during FY2022 compared to FY2021 during the most recent economic downturn. The company has a sustainable level of debt with a debt-to-equity ratio of 64%, but its operating cash flow does not adequately cover the debt.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Despite Quaker Houghton's strong 2023 results, investors are advised to remain cautious due to declining Q4 sales, ongoing market challenges into 2024, and potential impacts from the now settled UAW strike, highlighting potential risks amidst external uncertainties. Nevertheless, we maintain our rating to buy premised upon the 11.0% annualized total returns for the medium-term, derived from the forecasted earnings-per-share growth of 5.0%, the 0.9% dividend yield, and a valuation tailwind.
