Overview & Current Events

National Retail Properties is a REIT that owns ~3,000 single-tenant, net-leased retail properties across the United States. It is focused on retail customers because they are much more likely to accept rent hikes to avoid switching locations and losing their customer base. Thanks to this strategy, National Retail has offered consistent growth with markedly low volatility. It is also characterized by very high occupancy rates; its 15-year low occupancy rate is 96% and it typically ranges between 98%-99%.

On February 8th, 2024, NNN REIT, Inc., a real estate investment trust, reported its Q4 results. NNN REIT delivered stable performance during the fourth quarter of 2023, demonstrating the strength of its single-tenant net lease business model. The company generated Core FFO (Funds From Operations) of $0.53 per share, consistent with the same period in the previous year. Demonstrating active portfolio management, NNN REIT acquired properties at an initial cash cap rate of 6.4% while strategically disposing of select assets. The REIT maintained a remarkably high occupancy rate of 99.4%, signaling a healthy tenant base and robust demand for its properties. NNN REIT reaffirmed its commitment to providing shareholders with attractive and consistent dividends. As the company navigates the current economic climate, management expressed confidence in NNN REIT's well-positioned portfolio and its capacity to generate value for investors.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029

DPS	$1.65	$1.71	$1.78	$1.86	$1.95	$2.06	$2.07	$2.10	$2.20	$2.23	$2.26	$3.00

National Retail Properties has more than doubled its FFO since 2011, but it has also significantly increased its share count in order to fund its acquisitions of properties. As a result, the REIT has grown its FFO per share at a mid-single-digit rate per year on average since 2011. While the impact of dilution is noticeable, the dilution also has another, less obvious effect: it has greatly increased the financial burden of the dividend on the REIT.

We believe that growth will slow-moving forward as investment spreads compress, and the law of large numbers makes it increasingly challenging to move the needle with acquisitions. The trust's high level of occupancy should afford it low-single-digit levels of revenue growth, while slightly increasing margins should continue to see it growing FFO-per-share at a mid-single-digit rate despite the ever-rising share count. The bulk of National Retail's FFO-per-share growth will come from net new property acquisitions.

Using expected 2024 FFO numbers, National Retail Properties is trading at a price-to-FFO ratio of 12.7. The trust’s 10-year average price-to-FFO ratio is 14, and, while recent multiples have been far higher due to low interest rates and strong results, we believe that current headwinds and rising interest rates justify a lower valuation. Therefore, we are placing 12 times FFO as our fair value estimate. Accordingly, we believe that slight multiple expansion will provide a small headwind to the trust’s total returns moving forward.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	79%	77%	76%	74%	74%	75%	80%	73%	70%	68%	69%	75%

National Retail’s payout ratio is being maintained near three-quarters of FFO, and we believe it will stay there for the foreseeable future. Given this, the dividend is fairly safe at this point with the trust’s rising earnings. On the other hand, National Retail Properties is significantly impacted by recessions. In the Great Recession, its funds from operations per share plunged 34%, from $1.99 in 2008 to $1.31 in 2010. Nevertheless, given that the financial crisis was triggered by the bubble in the housing market, the performance of the REIT in that crisis was satisfactory.

However, investors should keep in mind that its downside potential will likely be significant whenever the next recession shows up, particularly given its current valuation. The trust lacks any durable competitive advantages, though its scale and business network are gradually growing over time, which could give it increasing pricing power and economies of scale.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

National Retail Properties is an attractive dividend growth stock given its 5.4% dividend yield backed by a strong balance sheet, well-diversified portfolio, impressive dividend growth streak, and lengthy growth runway. Given that it offers an estimated 8.1% annualized total return over the next half decade, we rate it a Hold.
