First Financial saw its earnings decrease just 8.5% from 2008 to 2009 – an excellent performance compared to many financial companies. In recent years, First Financial has seen earnings-per-share fluctuate rather wildly. For example, earnings-per-share declined in 2012, 2013, 2015 and 2017. The company has an earnings-per-share growth rate of just ~2% per year over the past decade. We see tailwinds and headwinds somewhat offsetting each other, mostly from higher loan balances and higher rates, but the potential for higher credit losses. First Financial could also see a margin tailwind from lower expenses relative to revenue. We forecast earnings-per-share growth of 6% for the foreseeable future given these factors, and the low base for 2024.

First Financial now pays its dividend each quarter, rather than semi-annually. The company has raised its dividend an average of 1.5% per year over the past ten years. First Financial issued a special dividend of $1.50 per share on 10/20/2017, though this is not a common occurrence and should not be expected to reoccur in the future. We are targeting a sub-50% payout ratio going forward for First Financial, translating to a $1.80 dividend for the foreseeable future. We note the company cut its dividend in 2023.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Now	2029
Avg. P/E	12.9	14.6	12.2	18.4	14.2	11.1	9.2	10.6	7.9	8.5	9.5	10.0

Based off estimates for 2024, shares have a forward price-to-earnings ratio of 9.5. First Financial's stock has traded with an average multiple of ~13 over the past ten years. We peg fair value at 10 due to low sector valuations and the company's own uninspiring growth outlook. Still, we see a small positive impact on total returns from the valuation.

First Financial had increased its dividend for the past 34 years, but made a surprising cut at the end of 2023. We have assumed a flat dividend at the current run rate of $1.80 per share annually given this sudden change in dividend policy.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029
Payout	38%	42%	32%	42%	27%	27%	27%	26%	18%	19%	45%	34%

While earnings did decline in 2009, First Financial managed to weather the last recession well. Earnings recovered above 2008's earnings-per-share total in 2010. Since then, the company has experienced varied earnings growth. Investors looking for consistent earnings growth will likely be disappointed by First Financial.

If First Financial has a competitive advantage, it is the bank's presence in its small home markets. In addition, its net interest margin is very high compared to other banks. However, First Financial doesn't have any sort of competitive moat from its business model as it competes in the same ways every other small bank does.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

After Q1 results, we now anticipate that First Financial Corporation Indiana could offer 10.5% returns through 2029, up from our last update. Shares are close to fairly valued on 2024 estimates. Total returns would be based on 6% earnings growth, the 4.7% yield, and a 1% tailwind from the valuation. Based upon this, we are moving the stock from hold to buy.
