Overview & Current Events

Garmin is a technology company based in Switzerland. It manufactures navigation, communication, and information devices and applications that are enabled by GPS. Its business segments are as follows: Auto, Aviation, Marine, Outdoor, and Fitness. The Auto segment offers auto navigation products for vehicles. The Aviation segment includes navigation, communications transmitters and receivers, multi-function displays, electronic flight instrumentation systems, automatic flight control systems, and traffic advisory systems. The Marine segment includes products for recreational boats. The Outdoor segment makes products for outdoor activities, while the Fitness segment makes products designed for activity tracking. Garmin produces just under $5 billion in annual revenue and has a $31 billion market capitalization.

Garmin posted first quarter earnings on May 1st, 2024, and results were quite strong once again. Earnings-per-share came to $1.42, which was an improvement of nearly 40% from the year-ago period. Revenue soared 20% year-over-year to $1.38 billion.

Sales growth was led by Fitness, which saw a 40% increase to $343 million. Auto OEM saw higher percentage growth at 58%, but given the size of the segment at $129 million, it had a lesser impact on total top line growth. All segments, including the relatively struggling Aviation segment, saw positive sales growth in Q1.

Gross margin came to 58.1% of revenue, while operating margin was 21.6% of revenue, both of which improved significantly from the year-ago period. Operating income rose by over 50% from the year-ago period on the combination of strong revenue growth and operating margin expansion, rising to $298 million.

We now see $5.65 in adjusted earnings-per-share for this year after a good start to the year, particularly on the margin front.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029
EPS	$3.00	$2.49	$2.83	$2.94	$3.66	$4.45	$5.14	$5.82	$5.13	$5.59	$5.65	$7.56
DPS	$1.92	$2.04	$2.04	$2.04	$2.12	$2.24	$2.40	$2.68	$2.86	$2.92	$3.00	$3.83
Shares²	191.8	189.7	188.6	188.2	189.5	191.2	191.6	192.8	191.6	191.8	192	193

Garmin has engineered a major turnaround due to structural changes in the technology industry. Garmin rose to prominence due in large part to its automotive GPS devices. However, GPS devices for the automotive industry were rendered virtually obsolete with the widespread adoption of the smartphone.

As a result, Garmin has restructured itself around the aviation, marine, outdoor, and fitness markets, and has had success in those categories. We expect 6% annual earnings growth through 2029 as there's a relatively low base for 2024, and Garmin's top line strength has been quite sustainable. Dividends are expected to grow at a slower rate, and we see the payout rising to $3.83 per share by 2029, following the most recent increase of 3%.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Now	2029
Avg. P/E	18.1	17.4	15.7	18.0	17.2	18.6	18.9	24.6	18.0	23.0	28.8	21.0
Avg. Yld.	3.5%	4.7%	4.6%	3.9%	3.4%	2.7%	2.5%	1.9%	3.2%	2.3%	1.8%	2.4%

In the past 10 years, Garmin stock traded with an average price-to-earnings ratio of ~17; on this basis, the stock looks overvalued today. However, more recently, shares have been valued at higher multiples. Shares trade at 28.8 times earnings estimates for 2024, well above our fair value of 21 times earnings. We see the stock as quite overvalued at the moment, as the share price has risen much more quickly than earnings estimates. The yield is now at 1.8%, and could rise over time as the valuation declines. We note the stock looks expensive based upon the dividend yield as well.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029
Payout	64%	82%	72%	69%	58%	50%	47%	46%	57%	52%	53%	51%

The dividend appears secure, with a payout ratio of 53% of earnings. During the Great Recession in 2008-2009, the company saw earnings drop, but managed to continue to pay out its dividend. We do not believe Garmin would be resistant to a prolonged recession when consumers reduce spending on discretionary technology products.

Garmin does not possess many notable competitive advantages, which are hard to come by in the technology sector. Technology is a highly competitive and rapidly changing industry. Garmin lost its advantage in automotive GPS devices when trends changed related to widespread smartphone adoption. However, the company has been investing heavily in non-automotive markets to fuel future growth, and we note its leadership in Aviation and Marine products.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Garmin is a financially healthy company with a very strong balance sheet, and decent growth. The company has turned the corner on growth, and it's resulting in strong revenue and margin expansion. Following Q1 results, total annual returns are estimated at 1.6%. We see the valuation as a big headwind to total returns, while our growth estimate of 6%, and yield of 1.8% are insufficient for anything other than a sell rating.
