Overview & Current Events

SEI Investments was founded in 1968 and over the last 50+ years has grown into a market capitalization of $8.5 billion. SEI is a global provider of investment processing, investment management, and investment operations solutions for financial institutions and advisors. SEI has about $400 billion in assets under management and around $900 billion in assets under administration. The company should produce about $2 billion in revenue this year.

SEI posted second quarter earnings on July 24th, 2024, and results were mixed. The company saw earnings-per-share of $1.05, which was a penny ahead of estimates. Revenue was up 6.1% year-over-year to $519 million, but that was almost $5 million worse than expected.

Revenue was up from assets under management, administration, and distribution fees all being higher primarily from higher equity prices. Market appreciation and positive cash flows into separately managed account programs contributed to the boost in revenue. This was partially offset by negative cash flows from SEI fund programs and fee reductions in separately managed account programs. Revenue growth was partially offset by client losses in the institutional investor segment.

The boost in operating expenses was due to higher personnel costs from business growth, primarily in the Investment Managers segment, and the impact of wage inflation. Cost containment measures related to consulting and vendor costs partially offset the increase in operating expenses year-over-year.

SEIC repurchased 1.6 million common shares for a total consideration of $111.2 million, or an average price of $67.44 per share. Cash flow from operations came to $115 million, and free cash flow was $101 million.

We now see $4.15 in adjusted earnings-per-share for this year after Q2 results.

From 2013 to 2019, SEI managed to double its earnings, and looking forward, we believe that strong growth can continue. SEI saw higher earnings-per-share in each year since 2011, until the COVID-impacted 2020. We are forecasting 7% earnings-per-share growth over the next five years. We see SEI achieving this result through continued revenue expansion as more customers adopt its SEI Wealth Platform, and its relatively newer IT services, as well as assets under management and advisement growth. We see mid-single-digit revenue growth as the primary driver of earnings going forward. SEI also buys back stock at low single-digit rates and is seeing margin expansion with its higher revenue. The key is revenue growth as SEI invests heavily in its future, and revenue growth has slowed.

SEI's dividend growth has been decent in recent years but it is not a high-income stock at this point. We see dividend growth going forward, but keep in mind that investors own SEI for the earnings growth potential, not for the yield, and that is not going to change anytime soon. Indeed, the payout ratio remains very low and given how much SEI invests in its platform on a regular basis, in addition to share repurchases, we expect the payout ratio to remain fairly constant.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Now	2029
Avg. P/E	19.0	24.4	22.6	22.3	20.3	15.8	18.3	16.0	15.3	18.1	15.7	18.0
Avg. Yld.	1.3%	1.0%	1.2%	1.0%	1.0%	1.2%	1.3%	1.3%	1.4%	1.4%	1.4%	1.3%

SEI’s price-to-earnings multiple is lower than our last report, and it is now trading at 15.7 times this year’s earnings, which is under our estimate of fair value at 18 times earnings. The stock’s historical range is fairly narrow at 16 to 22 times earnings. We therefore see a small tailwind to total returns due to valuation expansion as the stock is trading below fair value. The dividend is not a priority for SEI as it continues to spend cash on its products and services to fuel future growth. This is not a stock one owns for the yield, and it yields right around that of the S&P 500.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029
Payout	12%	23%	24%	25%	20%	21%	24%	20%	22%	25%	22%	23%

The payout ratio is very low as earnings-per-share expansion has outpaced dividend growth in recent years. There may come a time when the dividend is a significant source of returns, but SEI is understandably focused on growth today. SEI’s competitive advantage is in its platform and services, which allow it to drive efficiencies and lower risk for its clients. That does not make it immune from economic downturns, however, as the Great Recession dinged revenue and earnings meaningfully. Given the industry SEI serves, it is reasonable to expect material weakness during a recession, so that is something investors should consider. In addition, weak equity market performance is another headwind that comes up from time to time.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Overall, SEI looks like an undervalued stock with good growth potential. We are forecasting 11.2% total annual returns going forward, comprised of the 1.4% current yield and 7% earnings-per-share growth, in addition to a gain from valuation expansion. SEI may become an income stock in the future, but it is still very much in its growth stage, so that is a long way off. We’re reiterating the stock at a buy after Q2 results.
