Overview & Current Events

Edison International is a renewable energy company that is active in energy generation and distribution. Edison International also operates an energy services and a technologies business. The company was founded in 1987 and is headquartered in Rosemead, CA. Edison International has a market capitalization of $33 billion.

Edison International (EIX) reported second-quarter 2024 results, highlighting strong performance and reaffirming its financial guidance for the year. The company achieved a GAAP EPS of $1.14 and a core EPS of $1.23, surpassing market expectations. Revenue for the quarter was $4.34 billion, a 9.38% increase year-over-year, driven by higher revenue authorized in Southern California Edison's (SCE) 2021 General Rate Case, an increase in the authorized rate of return, and recognition of previously unrecognized returns related to wildfire restoration efforts. These gains were partially offset by higher interest expenses. Net income for the quarter was $439 million, up from $354 million in the same quarter last year. SCE's core earnings per share increased due to the aforementioned factors. However, Edison International Parent and Other's core loss per share remained consistent with the previous year. Edison International reaffirmed its 2024 core EPS guidance range of $4.75 to $5.05 and reiterated its long-term core EPS growth targets of 5%-7% for both 2021-2025 and 2025-2028. The company also announced a stock repurchase program authorized by its Board of Directors, allowing for up to $200 million in stock repurchases from July 29, 2024, to December 31, 2025. This program aims to offset dilution from common stock issued under long-term incentive compensation programs. CEO Pedro J. Pizarro expressed confidence in achieving the 2024 EPS guidance based on progress in SCE's 2025 General Rate Case, which includes multiple partial settlements. He highlighted the importance of continued investments in SCE's grid to support projected load growth and ensure a reliable and resilient electric system. Edison International's strategic focus on grid expansion is expected to drive substantial rate base growth, positioning the company well for sustained financial performance.

Edison International remained highly profitable during the last financial crisis, as the company's earnings-per-share declined by just 12% between 2008 and 2009 and started to rise again during 2010. Edison International is thus not impacted by the strength of the economy to a significant degree. On the other hand, Edison has failed to generate strong growth since The Great Recession. Edison International's regulated utility business is a slow grower, which is typical for utilities, but the business generates very stable cash flows. Its non-regulated segments, such as renewable energy production via methods ranging from biomass to wind energy, have the potential to grow at a somewhat higher rate. Due to being non-regulated, this business can be more cyclical than the regulated utility operations. Edison has put a focus on renewable energy when it comes to energy production over the last decade. Among other moves, Edison has also sold coal power plants and shut down a nuclear power plant. This was, at least partially, based on heavy regulation in California, where Edison operates, as California no longer allows utilities to generate electric power from coal. We expect that Edison International will be able to grow its earnings-per-share at a 6.7% annualized rate going forward, relatively in line with the growth that the company has generated in the past. Edison International has grown its dividend annually through much of the past two decades, with growth accelerating more recently.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Now	2029
Avg. P/E	13	14.8	17.9	17.2	13.7	15.3	14.2	14.2	13	13.3	16.9	12.5
Avg. Yld.	2.6%	2.8%	2.8%	2.9%	4.3%	3.4%	4.0%	4.1%	4.8%	4.7%	3.7%	4.2%

Edison International trades at 16.9 times this year's expected net profits, which we view as overvalued. While our fair value estimate of 12.5 times earnings is well below the average over the past half-decade, given the current high interest rate environment as well as some of the aforementioned unique challenges facing utilities in California, we think this is reasonable. As a result, we expect the dividend yield to remain elevated relative to its historic levels.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029
Payout	34%	42%	51%	50%	59%	53%	57%	59%	62%	62%	62%	52%

Despite the fact that earnings have seen some ups and downs, Edison International grew its dividend very consistently throughout the last decade. This was only possible due to an increase in the company's dividend payout ratio, as its earnings-per-share did not grow as consistently. The dividend still looks relatively safe, though, as Edison International's operations are not overly cyclical. Its dividend growth rate will likely slow down moving forward. Edison International belongs to California's largest utilities, as the company serves about 13 million customers in the state. Due to the regulated nature of the utilities business, Edison International does not have to worry about significant competitive pressures. The company's operations have been very recession-resilient in the past, and this will likely remain the case going forward, as consumers need electricity no matter how well the economy is doing.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Edison International is one of the larger publicly traded utilities. Earnings should continue to grow over the long term with population and economic growth, but fire risks and regulatory overhang from California's government will drag on total returns. That said, the company offers a safe 3.7% yield. We expected total annualized returns over the next half-decade to be 4.1%, making the stock a Hold.
