Overview & Current Events

Civista Bancshares is a financial services holding company that is headquartered in Sandusky, Ohio. Its primary subsidiary, Civista Bancshares, was founded in 1884 and provides banking, commercial lending, mortgage, wealth management, and commercial equipment leasing services. It has 43 branches across Ohio, Southeastern Indiana and Northern Kentucky and has a market capitalization of $365 million. Civista Bancshares is the 10th largest publicly traded commercial bank headquartered in Ohio.

Civista Bancshares has some attractive characteristics. It gathers low-cost deposits and generates loans in attractive markets, including the 5 largest metropolitan areas in Ohio. It also has an experienced management team, with an average banking experience of 31 years. However, the bank has been under pressure since early 2022 due to the surge of interest rates to a nearly 23-year high. This surge caused large unrealized losses in the fixed-income portfolio of the bank and thus it caused the tangible book value per share to plunge -30%, from $18.11 in 2021 to $12.61 in 2022. This helps explain the vast underperformance of the stock vs. the S&P 500 over the last five years (+3% vs. +93%).

In late October, Civista Bancshares reported (10/29/24) financial results for the third quarter of 2024. Net interest income dipped -7% over the prior year's quarter, as net interest margin shrank from 3.69% to 3.16% due to higher costs of deposits amid heating competition among banks. As a result, earnings-per-share decreased -20%, from $0.66 to $0.53, though they exceeded the analysts' consensus by $0.09. As the bank exceeded our expectations, we have raised our forecast for earnings-per-share in 2024 from $1.75 to $1.90. The revised forecast marks a -30% decrease in earnings-per-share year-over-year due to the headwind from high interest rates.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029

Shares¹	7.7	7.8	8.0	9.9	12.0	15.6	16.1	15.3	15.0	15.2	15.7	16.0

Civista Bancshares has acquired six smaller banks since 2007. As a result, it has grown its loans by 12% per year on average and its deposits by 15% per year on average since 2018. The bank has also grown its earnings-per-share by 8.2% per year on average over the last seven years. However, it is currently going through a downturn due to high interest rates, which have compressed the net interest margin of the bank via higher deposit costs. We expect interest rates to moderate in the upcoming years, roughly in line with the guidance of the Fed. Therefore, we expect Civista Bancshares to partly recover and grow its earnings-per-share by 3% per year on average over the next five years.

Civista Bancshares (CIVB)

Updated November 14th, 2024 by Aristofanis Papadatos

Excluding 2018, in which a temporary plunge in earnings caused an abnormally high price-to-earnings ratio, Civista Bancshares has traded at an average price-to-earnings ratio of 10.0 over the last decade. Given the risk related to the small market cap of the bank, we view this as a fair valuation level. The stock has rallied 50% in less than five months thanks to expectations for lower interest rates in the upcoming years. As a result, the stock is currently trading at a price-to-earnings ratio of 12.1. We expect the stock to revert to its average valuation level over the next five years. In such a case, the stock will incur a -3.7% annualized drag due to the contraction of its valuation level.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	22%	17%	14%	20%	31%	21%	22%	20%	22%	22%	34%	36%

Civista Bancshares has an experienced management, with an average tenure of 31 years, and enjoys lower-cost deposits than the average bank. It has grown its dividend for 11 consecutive years, though it is offering a modest dividend yield of 2.8%, which is in line with the median dividend yield of the financial sector. Civista Bancshares has grown its dividend by 11% per year on average over the last five years and has a healthy payout ratio of 34%, which provides room for meaningful dividend hikes in the upcoming years.

On the other hand, the bank is highly sensitive to the path of interest rates. The -30% plunge in tangible book value per share in 2022 due to the surge of interest rates is a testament to the high sensitivity of the bank to downturns of the financial sector. While we believe that the worse is behind the bank regarding the surge of interest rates, investors should be aware of the vulnerability of the bank to downturns. If inflation rebounds, the stock will probably come under pressure.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Civista Bancshares has vastly underperformed the S&P 500 over the last five years due to the impact of 23-year high interest rates on the net interest margin of the bank. We expect interest rates to deflate in the upcoming years but the market has already priced such expectations in the stock, given the 50% rally of the stock in less than five months. The stock could offer just a 2.2% average annual return over the next five years, as 3.0% earnings-per-share growth and a 2.8% dividend may be partly offset by a -3.7% annualized valuation drag. The stock receives a sell rating.
