Overview & Current Events

Everest Group is a holding company that provides insurance as well as reinsurance services. Everest Group provides reinsurance for property & casualty insurers as well as for special lines such as maritime and aviation. Everest Group operates in the US and through branches in Canada, Singapore and Bermuda. The company was founded in 1999, and is headquartered in Hamilton, Bermuda.

Everest Group reported its third quarter earnings results on October 30. The company earned revenues of $4.3 billion during the quarter, which was 8% more than the revenues that Everest generated during the previous year's quarter. The company managed to grow its gross written premiums by 1% year over year, primarily in the reinsurance space (1.7%), versus a lower growth rate for the insurance business. This was less than the company's gross written premiums growth rate over the last couple of quarters. The company's attritional combined ratio stood at 85.8%, which was an improvement compared to the previous quarter.

Everest Group reported adjusted earnings-per-share of $14.62 for the third quarter. The strong profitability was caused by strong growth in Everest Group's investment income, which rose by around 20%. 2023 was an excellent year for the company, with operating profits soaring to a high of more than $60 per share, more than doubling from the level seen in recent years. For the current year, a small profit pullback is expected.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029

Everest Group's profitability has always been quite uneven. As a combined insurer/reinsurer, the company is significantly impacted by major events such as hurricanes, earthquakes, and wildfires in years during which these catastrophes cause huge monetary losses in the areas Everest Group is active in. During 2018, for example, the wildfires in California and Hurricane Michael reduced Everest's profitability significantly. Since those events are relatively infrequent, the company's earnings generation is quite strong in most years. Between 2014 and 2023, Everest more than doubled its earnings-per-share, but most of that was achieved in 2023.

Everest has managed to grow its net premiums at a solid pace in recent years, which positions the company to reap benefits in the future. While Everest has repurchased shares at a meaningful pace over most of the last decade, the share count has risen again. Healthy investment income has been a profitability tailwind in the recent past, a trend that will likely persist going forward. The combination of growing premiums and some investment income growth should result in some earnings growth, but it looks like share repurchases, which were an earnings-per-share booster in the past, will not have a positive impact in the future, which is why our earnings-per-share growth estimate isn't very high.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Now	2029
Avg. P/E	6.5	8.1	8.1	26.7	47.8	13.0	31.6	9.5	12.2	5.3	6.0	9.0
Avg. Yld.	2.0%	2.2%	2.5%	2.1%	2.6%	2.1%	2.6%	2.3%	2.0%	2.0%	2.3%	1.7%

Everest Group has been valued at a relatively low valuation throughout the majority of the last decade. In 2017, 2018, and 2020, Everest's price-to-earnings ratio was well above the usual level due to lower-than-normal profits. We believe that the price to earnings ratio will not be very high in absolute terms in the future. Based on current earnings-per-share estimates for this year, shares nevertheless trade way below our fair value estimate right now.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	13.0%	16.0%	19.9%	55.5%	116%	26.9%	83.8%	21.5%	24.4%	10.5%	13.5%	14.9%

Everest Group's dividend payout ratio was pretty low during the majority of the last decade. In years when earnings were below average, or nonexistent, such as in 2018 and 2020, Everest's payout ratio rose to a high level. Due to the cash reserves that the company has, Everest was nevertheless able to maintain, and even grow, its dividend during those years. We believe that the risk of a dividend cut is not very high.

Everest Group is not operating in a business that is impacted by recessions, since people and corporations still need insurance, and insurers still need reinsurers, regardless of economic conditions. Everest's results are certainly still cyclical, though. An above-average number of catastrophic events, or a single exceptionally large catastrophic event, such as a major hurricane, leads to increased payouts. Such events can therefore hurt Everest's profitability to a significant degree. Everest's results can thus still swing up and down widely on a year-over-year basis.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Everest Group is an insurer/reinsurer that has recorded solid business growth over the last decade, although there were large swings in its profitability. Everest did have a solid fiscal 2021 and 2022, but profits soared to a much higher level in 2023, due to the impact of higher interest rates and written/earned premium growth. Shares trade well below fair value today and promise compelling returns, which is why we give the stock a buy rating right here.
