Overview & Current Events

Fresh Del Monte Produce Inc. (FDP) is the leading global producer, marketer, and distributor of fresh and fresh-cut fruit and vegetables. Its operations began way back in 1886. It provides fresh produce to a diversified customer base operating retail, wholesale, and food service outlets. With the competitive position acquired in the sector, backed by its vast supply chain and brand recognition, it has a considerable market share in the fresh produce industry. It offers bananas, pineapples, melons, and prepared foods. The company has geographic footprints in North America, Europe, Asia, and the Middle East.

On October 31st, 2024, the company announced Q3 2024 results, reporting GAAP EPS of $0.88, beating the markets' estimates by $0.42. The company reported revenues of $1.02 billion, up 2.0% year-over-year.

Fresh Del Monte Produce reported solid third-quarter 2024 results, with net sales reaching $1,019.5 million, a slight increase from the prior-year period. This growth was driven by a rise in sales volume and higher prices in the fresh and value-added product segment, particularly avocados and pineapples, which offset declines in the banana segment caused by competitive pressures. Gross profit rose to $93.8 million from $74.4 million in the previous year, supported by improved pricing and volume, though partially offset by higher production costs and adverse currency impacts. Adjusted gross profit, excluding certain charges, stood at $94.4 million, marking a notable year-over-year improvement.

Chairman and CEO Mohammad Abu-Ghazaleh attributed the strong results to Fresh Del Monte's strategic focus on high-margin, value-added products and innovations. The company's operating income more than doubled to $53.9 million, benefiting from gains on asset sales, while net income surged to $42.1 million from $8.4 million in the prior-year period. Reflecting confidence in its growth trajectory, Fresh Del Monte Produce declared a quarterly dividend of $0.25 per share. With continued emphasis on profitability and resilient growth strategies, the company aims to deliver sustained value to shareholders.

Long-term trends in the fresh produce sector have pointed toward a stable growth in demand resulting from increased health awareness and rising preferences for fresh, natural foods. The average yearly growth rate in the past ten years was 3% to 4%. The growth is expected to be very strong in the years ahead, with a CAGR of around 4% to 5% from 2023 to 2030. In that regard, broad trends currently affecting the world are growing demands for plant-based diets, technological innovation in farming practices, and rising global populations. Fresh Del Monte Produce can hook into these positive trends by using an already established position in the international markets and continued innovation in the fresh produce sector.

Updated November 14th, 2024, by Yiannis Zourmpanos

Therefore, despite the declining performance in the last quarter, we apply a conservative growth of 2% for the next five years, slower than the industry’s average, and we have used the midpoint of analysts’ EPS estimate at $2.59. Lastly, we have assumed an 8.0% dividend growth, slightly lower than the company’s 10-year average of nearly 11%, resulting in a dividend payment of $1.47 in 2029.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Now	2029
Avg. P/E	11.9	33.3	12.1	21.7	-89.0	21.8	24.6	17.6	13.0	-112.1	12.7	15.0

FDP currently trades at a forward P/E of 12.7, significantly below its long-term normalized average of 19.5. We believe the company deserves a higher P/E ratio at 15.0 once it returns to the growth track. Finally, we expect the company to be consistent with its historical dividend payout policy, resulting in a safe dividend yield of 3.4% by 2029.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029
Payout	20%	43%	13%	25%	-100%	18%	29%	30%	29%	-313%	39%	51%

Among other things, Fresh Del Monte Produce Inc. has the following vital attributes that will support it in navigating through varying market conditions: diversified products. In times of recession, demand for essential goods remains resilient; this nature of demand will cushion FDP. It has maintained reasonable debt levels while targeting long-term sustainable growth, ensuring flexibility in its finances. Fresh Del Monte Produce reported a decrease in long-term debt in Q3 2024, reducing it by approximately 33% to $269.6 million, compared to $401.0 million at the end of Q3 2023.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Fresh Del Monte Produce demonstrates strong financial health with effective capital allocation and consistent debt reduction. The company's strategic initiatives, particularly in high-margin fresh and value-added segments, and its innovative product launches position it well for stable revenue streams. We maintain our hold rating premised upon the 8.3% annualized total return expectation derived from the forecasted earnings-per-share growth of 2.0%, the 3.0% dividend yield, and a valuation tailwind.
