Overview & Current Events

Plains GP Holdings (PAGP), via its subsidiary Plains All American Pipeline (PAA), manages midstream energy infrastructure across the USA and Canada. Their operations span two sectors: Crude Oil and Natural Gas Liquids (NGLs). They transport these resources through pipelines, gathering systems, and trucks while providing storage, terminalling, throughput, NGL fractionation, isomerization, and natural gas processing services. Their logistics aid producers, refiners, and clients in the energy sector.

On November 8th, 2024, the company announced results for the third quarter of 2024. Plains GP Holdings reported Q3 non-GAAP EPS of $0.17, missing the market's estimates by $0.12. The company reported revenues of $12.74 billion for the quarter, which were up 5.6% year-over-year.

Plains GP Holdings benefited from Plains All American Pipeline's realized net income of $220 million and net cash provided by operating activities of $692 million. Highlights of Plains All American Pipeline, L.P. (PAA) include delivering solid adjusted EBITDA of $659 million underpinned by strategic initiatives toward efficient growth. The company ended the quarter with a leverage ratio 3.0x versus its targeted range of 3.25–3.75x, further enhancing its pristine financial position. Moreover, Moody's uplifted Plains' credit rating from Baa3 to Baa2 with a stable outlook, placing it firmly within the mid-BBB range across all rating agencies.

Looking ahead, Plains GP Holdings expects its 2024 Adjusted EBITDA to approach the upper end of its guidance range of $2.725 to $2.775 billion. Adjusted free cash flow is projected to reach approximately $1.45 billion for the year, including capital for the acquisition and recent legal settlements. Chairman and CEO Willie Chiang expressed confidence in the asset base's cash-generating potential, emphasizing the company's commitment to capital discipline, free cash flow generation, and returning value to investors. With a positive outlook and strengthened capital structure, Plains GP Holdings aims to continue enhancing long-term value for its unitholders.

Plains GP Holdings evaluates the performance of its crude oil and NGL (natural gas liquids) segments through segment adjusted EBITDA. In the crude oil segment, performance improved in 2023 due to increased volumes on key pipelines, tariff escalations, and favorable market opportunities in Canada. However, higher operating expenses and lower commodity prices partially offset this.

In-line with the midpoint of analysts' estimates, we expect the company to post EPS of $1.18 in 2024. Our annual EPS growth forecast is 5.0% over the next five years, leading to our estimated EPS of $1.51 by 2029. Moreover, the company has a record of paying dividends despite operating in a volatile energy sector, as Plains GP Holdings has paid increasing dividends for the past 3 years. We do not expect consistency in maintaining dividend growth. However, the long-term trends remain positive, so we estimate a 2.0% dividend growth rate, suggesting a DPS of $1.40 by 2029.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Now	2029
Avg. P/E	60.5	42.0	30.2	-5.2	10.9	11.2	-2.9	32.5	13.6	14.5	15.3	13.0

The midstream energy infrastructure operator trades at a forward P/E of 15.3, above the five-year average P/E of 13.8. Even though the volatility and rise in prices and demand will benefit the company in the near-term, we assign a P/E of 13.0 to the stock, which we believe is a fair reflection of its value. Accordingly, with an expected EPS of $1.51 and a target P/E of 13.0, our target price for the stock stands at $19.60 by 2029.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

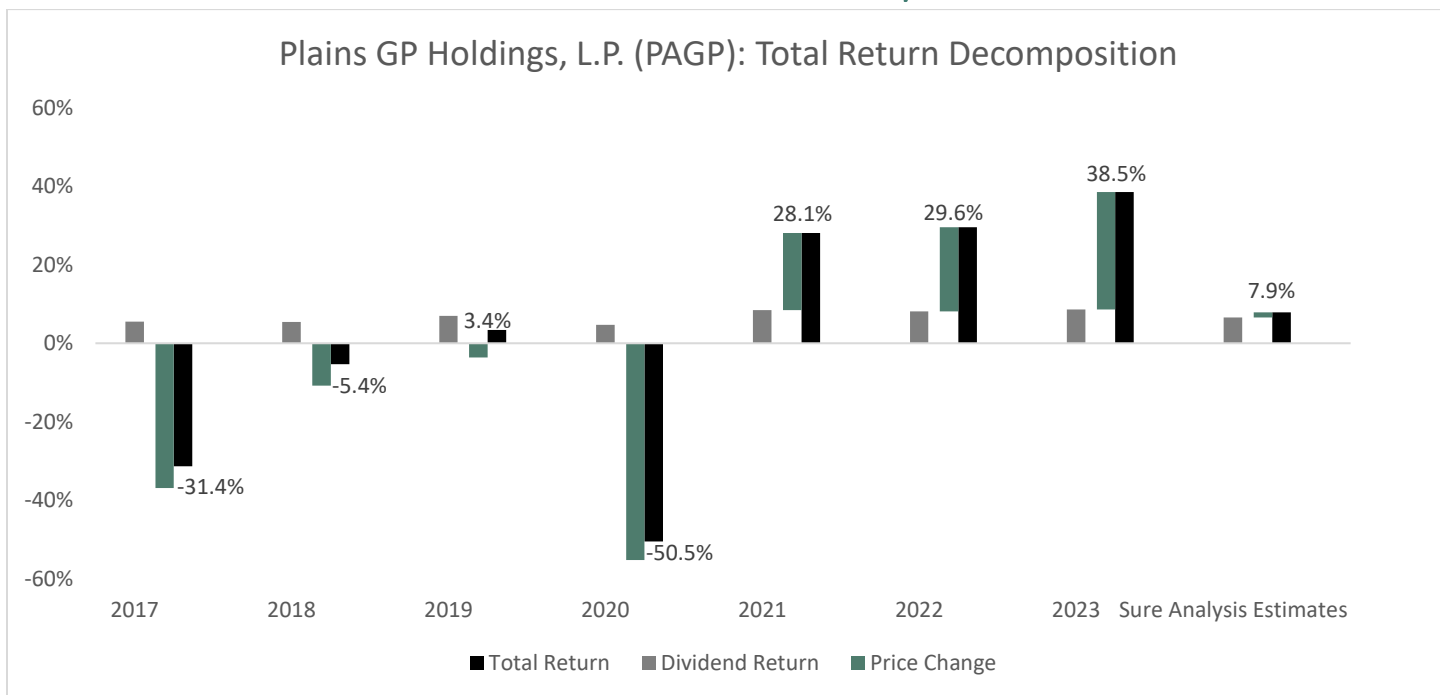

Year	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2029
Payout	159%	172%	248%	-34%	57%	73%	-23%	232%	107%	110%	108%	93%

While the company has paid a volatile dividend to its shareholders, we expect the company to maintain and increase its payout in the future. Plains GP plans to utilize its strong free cash flow, projected at approximately $1.45 billion for 2024, to support disciplined capital allocation, including potential share repurchases to enhance shareholder value.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Plains GP Holdings runs a critical crude and NGL infrastructure business, and we believe that increased energy demand and upstream underinvestment will be a positive catalyst for EPS growth. However, Plains GP Holdings' dividend growth prospects could remain low given the payout ratio. We maintain our hold rating premised upon 7.9% annualized expected total returns for the medium-term, derived from the forecasted earnings-per-share growth of 5.0%, 7.1% dividend yield, and a valuation headwind.
