Overview & Current Events

First Citizens BancShares is a Top 20 U.S. financial institution and a member of the Fortune 500TM, with more than $200 billion in assets. It is the financial holding company of First Citizens Bank and is headquartered in Raleigh, North Carolina. The bank has more than 500 branches and offices in 30 states and offers a wide range of banking services, including commercial lending and leasing as well as personalized service. First Citizens BancShares has a market capitalization of $29.3 billion.

On March 27th, 2023, the stock of First Citizens BancShares surged 52%. The extraordinary move was triggered by the acquisition of the deposits and loans of Silicon Valley Bank by First Citizens BancShares after the former went bankrupt due to a bank run amid the crisis of regional banks. In that deal, First Citizens BancShares acquired $72 billion of assets at a 23% discount.

In late October, First Citizens BancShares reported (10/24/24) financial results for the third quarter of fiscal 2024. Adjusted earnings-per-share decreased -10% sequentially, from $50.87 to $45.87, and missed the analysts' estimates by $1.63. Deposits edged up 0.3% while loans dipped -0.5%, as repayment of loans of Silicon Valley Bank more than offset loan growth in the legacy business. Net interest margin shrank from 3.64% to 3.53% and thus net interest income dipped -1%. We note that First Citizens BancShares is one of the most resilient banks during downturns, as it proved capable of acquiring the assets of Silicon Valley Bank while other banks were struggling during the downturn of regional banks in 2023.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

First Citizens BancShares has grown its earnings-per-share every single year over the last nine years, at a 33% average annual rate. A consistent growth rate is paramount, as it is a testament to the strength of the business model and the quality of management. Investors should not expect a similar growth rate going forward, as the 33% growth has partly resulted from the acquisition of the assets of Silicon Valley Bank. First Citizens BancShares grew its bottom line at a 24% average annual rate between 2014 and 2022. Its lowest growth rate was 7% in 2016. We assume 8.0% average annual earnings-per-share growth over the next five years in order to have a margin of safety.

First Citizens BancShares (FCNCA)

Published January 9th, 2025 by Aristofanis Papadatos

First Citizens BancShares is currently trading at a price-to-earnings ratio of 11.1, which is lower than the 10-year average price-to-earnings ratio of 12.4 of the stock. We assume a fair earnings multiple of 12.4 for the stock, in line with its historical average. If the stock trades at our fair value estimate in five years, it will enjoy a 2.2% annualized valuation tailwind.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Payout	9%	7%	6%	5%	4%	4%	4%	3%	3%	2%	4%	5%

First Citizens BancShares is a well-managed bank, which has always targeted a conservative capital ratio. The bank currently has a Tier 1 capital ratio of 13.8%, which results in the highest regulatory classification of “well capitalized.” Moreover, its credit quality is strong, as there are very few non-performing loans in its portfolio.

The merits of the prudent business strategy and the quality of management were evident during the pandemic and the fierce downturn of regional banks in 2023. While most banks saw their earnings decrease in 2020 and some banks struggled during the downturn of regional banks in 2023, First Citizens BancShares continued growing its earnings at full speed. We consider First Citizens BancShares one of the most resilient banks to recessions and downturns.

Income-oriented investors may dismiss the stock for its extremely low dividend yield of 0.4%. However, the low yield has resulted merely from an extremely low payout ratio of 4%. In other words, management prefers to reinvest earnings in the business instead of distributing them to shareholders. Given the explosive growth of the bank, this capital allocation policy has greatly benefited long-term shareholders. We applaud management for its capital allocation.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

It is only natural that First Citizens BancShares is currently facing a deceleration in its business, after more than doubling its earnings-per-share in just two years. We are optimistic about the long-term potential of the company and expect the stock to offer a 10.7% average annual return over the next five years thanks to 8.0% growth of earnings-per-share, a 0.4% dividend and a 2.2% valuation tailwind. The stock receives a buy rating.
