Overview & Current Events

President Lincoln signed the Pacific Railway Act of 1862 that authorized the Union Pacific Railroad Company to build a rail line west towards the coast from the Missouri River. Today, Union Pacific is the largest railroad company in the country and operates more than 32,000 miles of rail throughout the western two-thirds of the country. Union Pacific transports industrial and agricultural products, as well as coal and chemicals. The company generates about $25 billion in annual revenues.

On July 17th, 2024, Union Pacific announced that it was raising its quarterly dividend 3.1% to $1.34, extending the company's dividend growth streak to 16 consecutive years. The company had distributed the same dividend for nine consecutive quarters, but the growth streak remained intact due to the timing of the last increase.

On January 23rd, 2025, Union Pacific announced fourth quarter and full year results for the period ending December 31st, 2024. For the quarter, revenue declined 1% to $6.1 billion, which was $50 million below expectations. GAAP earnings-per-share of $2.91 compared favorably to $2.71 in the prior year and was $0.12 above estimates. For the year, revenue grew 1% to $24.3 billion while earnings-per-share of $11.09 compared favorably to $10.45 in 2024.

For the quarter, the operating ratio improved 220 basis points to 58.7%. For the quarter, revenue for Bulk products fell 4% due to a decline in volume. Average revenue per car (ARC) was unchanged. Demand for grain products remains high while coal inventories remain high. Revenue for the Industrial category grew 1% due to an increase in ARC. Volume was stable. As with the prior quarter, this category benefited from pricing power, but this was offset by weaker demand for metals, sand, and rock. Premium showed growth for a third consecutive quarter as revenue was up 3%. ARC was down 9%, but volume was up 13% as west coast imports were strong while domestic intermodal performed well. Automotive was flat as business wins were offset by lower OEM production. The company repurchased 6.3 million shares at an average price of $238 during 2024.

We expect that Union Pacific will earn $12.05 in 2025, which would represent an 8.7% increase from the prior year.

Earnings-per-share have increased at a rate of 8.3% per year over the past decade and 8.2% over the last five years.

We believe that an earnings-per-share growth rate of 7% takes into account the quality of the firm and strong results over the past few years while reconciling that earnings-per-share are starting from a high base.

Updated January 24th, 2025 by Nathan Parsh

Union Pacific has increased its dividend for more than a decade. The company had been very aggressive in raising its dividend prior to 2020. The company did not increase its dividend in 2020, due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the business, though the dividend growth streak continued due to the timing of raises.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	18.3	17.4	19.1	18.1	20.1	21.9	25.3	18.4	23.5	20.6	20.7	18.0

Shares of Union Pacific have increased $18, or 7.8%, since our October 25th, 2024 report. Shares trade with a price-to-earnings ratio of 20.7 based off our expected earnings-per-share for the current year. We reaffirm our five-year valuation target of 18 as this better reflects the quality of earnings results over the past few years. If the stock reverts to our target multiple by 2030, then valuation would be a 2.7% headwind to total returns over this time frame.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	41%	45%	43%	39%	46%	49%	43%	45%	50%	48%	44%	44%

Union Pacific's earnings were impacted during the last recession. A decline in earnings would be likely to occur in the next recession as many of the products that the company transports, like automotive vehicles, are in high demand when the U.S. economy is strong. Union Pacific's dividend payout ratio has generally stayed below 50% over the last ten years. We feel that the company is unlikely to expand its dividend payout ratio much beyond current levels. Accelerated dividend growth will likely have to come from higher earnings growth. Union Pacific is the largest railroad in the U.S. and spans the western two-thirds of the country. This gives the company pricing power for its shipments. The railroad has stops along both the Canadian and Mexican borders, making Union Pacific an attractive option for businesses looking to ship goods to almost any place in North America.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Following fourth quarter results, Union Pacific Corporation is now expected to offer a total annual return of 6.3% through 2030, up slightly from our previous estimate 6.1%. Our estimate stems from a 7% earnings growth rate and a 2.2% starting yield, partially offset by a low single-digit headwind from multiple contraction. Union Pacific saw revenue growth for all three commodity types in the quarter and the operating ratio had a solid improvement. We have raised our five-year price target $27 to $304 due to estimates for 2025, but maintain our hold rating on shares of Union Pacific due to projected returns.
