Overview & Current Events

Lennox International is a leading HVAC (heating, ventilation, and air conditioning) manufacturer and distributor, with 100% of its sales now coming from North America following the divestiture of its European operations in 2023. The U.S. accounts for 94% of revenue, while 6% comes from Canada. Lennox operates through two segments: Home Comfort Solutions and Building Climate Solutions. With about 75% of sales powered by replacements and only 25% related to new construction, Lennox is less reliant on new home sales than many of its competitors. The company generated $5.3 billion in total revenues last year, and currently trades at a market cap of $21.7 billion.

On January 29th, 2025, Lennox International reported Q4 and full-year results for the period ending December 31st, 2024. For the quarter, core revenue, which excludes Lennox's European operations which were divested in Q4-2023, was $1.3 billion, up 22% year-over-year. Revenue growth was mainly driven by organic revenue up 21% driven by favorable sales volume as well as price/mix benefits.

More specifically, Home Comfort Solutions revenue grew 25%, powered by strong sales and pricing. Profit margins grew 550 basis points, helped by better costs and factory efficiency. Building Climate Solutions revenue grew 17%, supported by a new factory. Profit margins were pressured by ramp-up costs and inefficiencies.

Adjusted operating Income landed at $248 million, up 41% compared to last year, driven by a notable 250 bps operating margin expansion to 18.4%. Thus, the business earned $5.60 in adjusted earnings-per-share in the quarter, which beat analysts' estimates by $1.36 and was up 54% year-over-year. For the year, adjusted EPS was $22.58 and GAAP EPS was $22.54.

For FY2025, management introduced their outlook, projecting adjusted earnings-per-share to be between $22.00 and $23.50. We have utilized the midpoint of this range in our estimates.

Lennox International (LII)

Updated February 15th, 2025 by Nikolaos Sismanis

We expect the business to leverage its investments in e-commerce and in more streamlined factory operations as the business continues to focus on growing its higher-margin Residential Heating & Cooling business. Recent improvements in Lennox's distribution network should keep improving fill rates and costs, as seen in Q4's notable margin expansion.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	22.4	20.5	22.2	22.3	22.8	24.7	25.2	17.0	17.9	21.7	27.3	22.0
Avg. Yld.	1.1%	1.1%	1.1%	1.2%	1.1%	1.3%	1.1%	1.7%	1.5%	0.9%	0.7%	1.0%

Over the past 10 years, Lennox International has averaged a P/E ratio of 21.7. We have set our fair P/E ratio at 22.0 due to Lennox continuing to grow earnings-per-share at a fast clip balanced with rather elevated interest rates. Shares are currently trading at a P/E of 27.3, implying a notable premium. The stock offers a low dividend yield of about 0.7%, but investors might be more interested in this business's expected earnings and dividend growth.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	26%	23%	24%	26%	25%	31%	28%	29%	24%	20%	20%	22%

The business has averaged a very low payout ratio of 26% since 2015. We believe that the dividend is safe today and will continue to be over the intermediate term. The business doesn't have the strongest balance sheet because they have a lot of debt. The business has a negative shareholders' equity, but this really shouldn't be too concerning for investors, because the company has ample liquidity to pay off current liabilities, and the business can manage its long-term debt. The business has competitive advantages, including having a national presence and being a leader across many different industry verticals (including supermarkets, restaurants, discount stores, etc.) in the commercial space.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Lennox International offers investors an opportunity to invest in a growing business that serves an evergreen and ever-expanding market. Since the bulk of the company's revenue comes from replacing residential HVAC systems, they are not directly tied to new home sales, and they serve an industry that will always be in demand. At today's price, we rate the stock as a hold because total return prospects come in at 5.2% annually through 2030. Total return prospects are derived from earnings-per-share growth of 9% annually and the 0.7% yield, offset by a 4.3% annual valuation headwind.
