Overview & Current Events

Toronto-Dominion Bank traces its lineage back to 1855 when the Bank of Toronto was founded. The institution – formed by millers and merchants – has since blossomed into a global organization with over 100,000 employees and C$2 trillion in assets. The bank’s core earnings primarily come from retail banking focused operations. It tends to be profitable through the economic cycle although its earnings have some sensitivity to the ups and downs of the cycle. All figures in this report are in U.S. dollars unless otherwise noted.

TD reported fiscal Q1 2025 earnings results on February 27th, 2025. During the quarter, its Canadian Personal and Commercial Banking business remained stable with net income rising 3% to C$1.8 billion. The wealth management and insurance business was strong with net income rising C$680 million, supported by strong market performance and high market activity. The U.S. Retail Bank business was a drag on results with earnings down 61% to C$342 million.

For the quarter, TD reported revenue growth of 2.4% year-over-year to C$14 billion. Provision for credit losses (“PCL”) rose 21% to C$1.2 billion. Net income came in 1.1% lower to C$2.8 billion with the diluted earnings per share (“EPS”) remaining flat at C$1.55. The reported return on equity (“ROE”) was 10.1%, down from 10.9% a year ago.

The adjusted metrics likely provide a better picture of TD’s normal earnings power. The adjusted revenue climbed 9.1% to C$15 billion, and the adjusted net income fell 0.4% to C$3.6 billion, leading to adjusted diluted EPS of C$2.02, up 1% year over year. Its PCL ratio as a percentage of average net loans and acceptances was 0.50%, up 6 basis points from a year ago. Net impaired loans as a percentage of net loans and acceptances was 0.38%, up from 0.28% a year ago. The adjusted ROE was 17.2%, down from 18.7% a year ago. The bank’s capital position remained solid with a common equity tier 1 ratio of 13.1%, down from 13.9% a year ago. We update our fiscal 2025 EPS estimate to US$5.45 per share.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030

TD expects to provide its medium-term adjusted EPS guidance later this year. Foreign exchange fluctuations between the C$ and US$ will impact the effective growth rate. That said, TD’s EPS performance has been stable in the last decade despite forex volatility. From 2015 to 2024, the bank increased its EPS by 5.5% per year (and DPS by 7.2%). Fiscal year 2020 was one of those abnormal years with a pandemic triggering a decline in TD earnings. Results rebounded strongly in the subsequent year. After TD maintained its quarterly dividend for seven consecutive quarters, it raised its dividend as soon as the regulator lifted the ban as a safety measure against pandemic-linked disruptions to the economy. We continue to estimate TD’s EPS and DPS growth to be 5.0% per year through 2030.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	11.5	11.8	13.2	12.5	11.3	11.5	12.3	11.6	10.3	10.3	10.9	11.2
Avg. Yld.	4.0%	3.3%	3.1%	4.1%	3.9%	4.8%	4.0%	3.7%	4.5%	4.8%	4.9%	4.8%

From 2015-2024, TD's average price-to-earnings ratio (P/E) was 11.6, while its average P/E was 11.2 from 2020-2024. We are using the lower P/E of 11.2 as a target to be more conservative. The current ratio of 10.9 makes the stock fairly valued. TD's yield likely won't stray far away from the 4.5% range in the long run. As a Canadian stock, TD's dividends may be subject to a 15% dividend withholding tax for U.S. investors. This tax can potentially be avoided by investing in TD through a retirement account.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	47%	45%	42%	42%	43%	56%	41%	44%	48%	54%	54%	54%

During the Great Recession more than a decade ago, TD increased its dividend every year (in Canadian dollars), except for fiscal 2010 in which it maintained the dividend. During that period, its adjusted EPS also remained strong, only declining 15% in fiscal 2008. Caused by COVID-19 repercussions, global economic contractions had been a drag on bank earnings in fiscal 2020 with adjusted EPS falling about 20% measured in C$. The pandemic disruptions to the economy have been less severe thanks partly to government support programs. TD normally has a payout ratio of under 50%. In fiscal 2020, like its peers, its payout ratio was elevated due to COVID-19 impacts. The bank's competitive advantage is its focus on retail banking in Canada and in the U.S. This means the stock's performance will be closely related to the health of the North American economy, and its growth outlook in North America. Still, as a leading North American bank, TD stands as one resilient bank that can navigate through hardships.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We forecast 9.7% in total returns annually over the next five years, consisting of a 4.9% dividend yield, 5.0% earnings-per-share growth, and a 0.5% tailwind from a higher price-to-earnings ratio. We currently have a "hold" rating on TD.
