Overview & Current Events

Johnson & Johnson is a diversified health care company and a leader in the area of innovative medicines and medical devices Johnson & Johnson was founded in 1886 and employs nearly 138,000 people around the world. The company is projected to generate more than $90 billion in revenue this year.

On January 13th, 2025, the company announced that it had agreed to acquire Intra-Cellular Therapies (ITCI) for $14.6 billion. ITCI specializes in therapeutics for central nervous system disorders.

On April 15th, 2025, Johnson & Johnson announced that it was increasing its quarterly dividend 4.8% to $1.30, extending the company's dividend growth streak to 63 consecutive years.

That same day, Johnson & Johnson reported first quarter results for the period ending March 31st, 2025. For the quarter, revenue grew 2.3% to $21.9 billion, which beat estimates by $330 million. Adjusted earnings-per-share of $2.77 compared to $2.71 in the prior year and was $0.19 more than expected. Results included adjustments related to the costs of acquisitions.

Revenue for Innovative Medicines improved 2.3% on a reported basis, but increased 4.2% when excluding currency translation. Infectious Disease decreased 2.2% on a reported basis, mostly due to reduced Covid-19 vaccine revenue. Oncology grew 17.9% due to ongoing high demand for Darzalex, which treats multiple myeloma, and strong showings in several other products. Immunology declined 12.7%. Stelara, which treats immune-mediated inflammatory diseases, was weaker for the period due once again to biosimilar competition. Revenue for MedTech increased 2.5% on a reported basis and 4.1% when excluding the impact of currency exchange. Cardiovascular continues to post strong results, as sales were higher by 16.4%. Orthopaedics fell 4.2% due to the lapping of one-time revenue recognition of certain products in the prior year. Surgery was down 0.8% as gains in biosurgery and endocutters was offset by competitive pressure elsewhere in the business.

Johnson & Johnson offered revised guidance for 2025 as well. The company now expects revenue in a range of $91.6 billion to $92.4 billion for the year, up from $90.9 billion to $91.7 billion previously. Adjusted earnings-per-share are now projected to be in a range of $10.50 to $10.70 compared to $10.75 to $10.95 previously. We have updated our forecast accordingly.

Johnson & Johnson has grown earnings over the past 10 years at a rate of 6.9%. The company managed to grow earnings before, during and after the last recession, showing that the company's products are in demand regardless of market conditions. We expect earnings-per-share to grow at a rate of 6% per year through 2030 due to gains in revenue, acquisitions, and share repurchases. This is consistent with Johnson & Johnson's earnings growth composition in the past, however, most growth will come from revenue expansion as the buyback is good for a low-single-digit share reduction annually.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	18.2	19.1	23.9	23.7	15.6	18.2	17.5	17.4	15.8	14.5	14.5	17.0

Using guidance for earnings-per-share for the year, Johnson & Johnson trades with a price-to-earnings ratio of 14.5, which is below our target price-to-earnings ratio of 17.0. Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

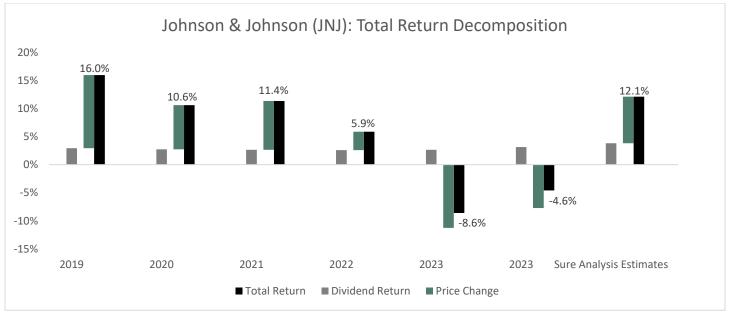

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	54%	53%	46%	43%	44%	50%	43%	44%	47%	49%	49%	49%

Even after 60+ years of dividend growth, Johnson & Johnson has a reasonably low dividend payout ratio. This gives the company ample room to raise its dividend, even in a prolonged recession. One of Johnson & Johnson's key competitive advantages is the size and scale of its business. The company is a worldwide leader in a number of healthcare categories. Johnson & Johnson's diversification allows it to continue to grow even if one of the segments is underperforming. The recent separation of the consumer businesses should allow the company to unlock value for shareholders as the faster growing segments, Innovative Medicines and MedTech, could receive a higher multiple from the market.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Following first quarter earnings results, Johnson & Johnson is expected to offer a total annual return of 12.1% through 2030, down from our prior forecast of 13.9%. Our projected return stems from a 6% earnings growth rate, a starting yield of 3.4%, and a low single-digit contribution from multiple expansion. Johnson & Johnson continues to see solid results in both of its business segments. Shares remain below our fair value price as well. We have lowered our five-year price target $6 to $241 due to updated guidance for 2025, but we continue to rate shares of Johnson & Johnson as a buy due to projected returns.
