Overview & Current Events

Lennox International is a leading HVAC (heating, ventilation, and air conditioning) manufacturer and distributor, with 100% of its sales now coming from North America following the divestiture of its European operations in 2023. The U.S. accounts for 94% of revenue, while 6% comes from Canada. Lennox operates through two segments: Home Comfort Solutions and Building Climate Solutions. With about 75% of sales powered by replacements and only 25% related to new construction, Lennox is less reliant on new home sales than many of its competitors. The company generated $5.3 billion in total revenues last year, and currently trades at a market cap of $18.3 billion.

On April 23rd, 2025, Lennox International reported Q1 results for the period ending March 31st, 2025. For the quarter, core revenue, which excludes Lennox's European operations which were divested in Q4-2023, was $1.1 billion, up 2% year-over-year. Revenue growth was mainly driven by favorable price and mix benefits.

More specifically, Home Comfort Solutions revenue grew 7%, driven by strong product and channel mix and continued pricing execution. Profit margins declined 40 basis points, impacted by tariffs and commodity costs. Sales volumes were flat as customers worked through legacy R-410A inventory. Building Climate Solutions revenue declined 6%, pressured by timing effects around low GWP product transitions. Profit margins fell 580 basis points due to new factory ramp-up costs, inefficiencies, and tariff-related pressures.

Adjusted operating income landed at $156 million, down 7% compared to last year, with segment operating margin at 14.5%, a 140 bps decline. Thus, Lennox earned $3.37 in adjusted EPS in the quarter, which was down 3% year-over-year.

Management updated their full-year guidance, maintaining a 2% revenue growth outlook and narrowing the adjusted EPS range to $22.25 to $23.50, reflecting expected pricing gains offsetting potential volume pressures and tariff impacts. We have utilized the midpoint of this range in our estimates.

Over the past decade, Lennox International has seen adjusted earnings-per-share grow at an average annualized rate of 17.9%, and over the past five years, the business has seen the same metric grow at 18.0% annually. For FY2025, Lennox should earn about $22.88 in earnings-per-share. We forecast that the business will continue to grow earnings-per-share at 9% annually from 2025 to 2030, which guides our 2030 earnings-per-share estimate of $35.20.

Over the past ten years, the Lennox International has grown dividends at 14.7% annually, and over the past five years, the company has grown dividends at 8.4% annually. Over the next 5 years, we forecast that the business will grow dividends at 11% annually. Lennox International has increased its dividend payments for 16 consecutive years.

We expect the business to leverage its investments in e-commerce and in more streamlined factory operations as the business continues to focus on growing its higher-margin Residential Heating & Cooling business. Recent improvements in Lennox's distribution network should keep improving fill rates and costs, though remain cautious regarding tariffs.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	22.4	20.5	22.2	22.3	22.8	24.7	25.2	17.0	17.9	21.7	22.6	22.0
Avg. Yld.	1.1%	1.1%	1.1%	1.2%	1.1%	1.3%	1.1%	1.7%	1.5%	0.9%	0.9%	1.0%

Over the past 10 years, Lennox International has averaged a P/E ratio of 21.7. We have set our fair P/E ratio at 22.0 due to Lennox continuing to grow earnings-per-share at a fast clip balanced with rather elevated interest rates. Shares are currently trading at a P/E of 22.6, implying a tiny premium. The stock offers a low dividend yield of about 0.9%, but investors might be more interested in this business's expected earnings and dividend growth.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	26%	23%	24%	26%	25%	31%	28%	29%	24%	20%	20%	22%

The business has averaged a very low payout ratio of 26% since 2015. We believe that the dividend is safe today and will continue to be over the intermediate term. The business doesn't have the strongest balance sheet because they have a lot of debt. The business has a negative shareholders' equity, but this really shouldn't be too concerning for investors, because the company has ample liquidity to pay off current liabilities, and the business can manage its long-term debt. The business has competitive advantages, including having a national presence and being a leader across many different industry verticals (including supermarkets, restaurants, discount stores, etc.) in the commercial space.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Lennox International offers investors an opportunity to invest in a growing business that serves an evergreen and ever-expanding market. Since the bulk of the company's revenue comes from replacing residential HVAC systems, they are not directly tied to new home sales, and they serve an industry that will always be in demand. At today's price, we rate the stock as a hold coming from a Dividend Risk score of "A" and our total return estimate per annum of 9.3% through 2030. Total return prospects are derived from earnings-per-share growth of 9% annually and the 0.9% yield, offset by a 0.6% annual valuation headwind.
