Overview & Current Events

AptarGroup Inc. (ATR) began trading as an independent company in 1993 and is now one of the leading businesses in the global dispensing systems industry. With a market capitalization of approximately $10.2 billion, The company has over 13,000 employees in 20 countries and produced $3.6 billion in revenue in 2024. The company is divided into three business segments: "Beauty + Home," "Food + Beverage," and "Pharma."

The company reported first-quarter results for Fiscal Year (FY)2025 on May 1st, 2025. AptarGroup reported first quarter sales of $887 million, a 3% decrease from the prior year, with net income down 5% to $79 million. Core sales were flat, but adjusted EBITDA increased 3% to $183 million, with a margin improvement to 20.7%. Earnings per share came in at $1.17, while adjusted EPS was $1.20. Excluding currency effects and tax rate changes, adjusted EPS would have risen 5%. The company returned $110 million to shareholders through dividends and $80 million in share repurchases.

Segment results were mixed. Pharma sales grew 1% (core sales +3%) due to strong demand for emergency medicine, CNS therapies, and diabetes protection. Active material science sales rose 11%, and EBITDA margins in the segment expanded to 34.8%. Beauty segment sales declined 7% (core -3%) from lower prestige fragrance volumes, though personal and home care remained strong. Closures sales dropped 5% (core -2%), largely due to weaker tooling sales and discontinued business in Argentina. Without those headwinds, core sales would have risen 3%, and margins improved to 15.8%.

Looking ahead, Aptar expects second quarter adjusted EPS between $1.56 and $1.64, supported by a favorable tax rate of 19–21% due to a one-time benefit. Management remains confident in the company's positioning across resilient markets like healthcare and consumer staples.

AptarGroup's growth strategy encompasses both organic expansion and strategic acquisitions, with a noteworthy $528 million investment in acquisitions during 2018, poised to fuel substantial future growth. While the company historically employed cash or debt for share buybacks resulting in a modest annual decrease in shares, recent years have shown an increase in total shares. The Pharma segment, constituting a third of sales but contributing two-thirds of EBITDA, stands out as the company's profit leader and primary growth driver, despite challenges posed by currency fluctuations and tax changes. Anticipated are 7.0% annual earnings and 4.0% dividend growth over the next five years, reflecting a moderate slowdown from historical dividend growth rates of 4.7% over a decade and a 6.6% five-year dividend CAGR.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Avg. P/E	21.6	23.9	24.1	32.1	29.3	37.6	31.6	29.0	25.9	27.9	25.8	20.00
Avg. Yld.	1.7%	1.6%	1.6%	1.4%	1.2%	1.1%	1.2%	1.4%	1.3%	1.1%	1.2%	1.5%

AptarGroup currently trades for a valuation of over 25.8 earnings, which we consider rich for a company with low growth. The security looks fairly valued compared to its 10-year average of 28.3 times earnings. Additionally, the dividend yield is lower with its ten-year average of 1.4%.

From this point, there is more potential for a valuation reduction rather than valuation expansion over the next five years, in our view. We believe that a valuation of 20x earnings, modestly below its 10-year average, is fair given the company's adequate expected growth potential.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	38%	39%	38%	33%	36%	40%	39%	40%	33%	30%	34%	29%

AptarGroup has over 5,000 customers, with no customer accounting for more than 6% of sales. Additionally, three-quarters of sales come from outside the United States, with more than half of Europe's sales. The company has various patents and trademarks to protect its designs. However, it faces stiff competition and has historically achieved returns on invested capital marginally higher than its weighted average capital cost. However, the Pharma segment enjoys high switching costs due to regulatory certification and has higher profit margins.

AptarGroup has paid growing dividends for 30 consecutive years and maintains a low payout ratio. The company was only mildly affected by the previous recession, as it remained profitable and quickly recovered to all-time high sales and earnings in 2010. Its products across all three business segments are not very cyclical.

The company has nearly doubled its long-term debt over the past four years, but its interest coverage ratio remains healthy at over 8.6x. Also, the company has a debt-to-equity ratio of 0.5x which is really good. AptarGroup makes substantial use of leverage, although its consistent earnings should allow it to support that leverage safely.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

In our view, AptarGroup is a durable company with a long history of growing dividends. However, the valuation is higher than its historical average and what we consider fair for this growth level. The company's sizeable foreign exposure is both a source of opportunity and a risk. We rate AptarGroup as a Hold now due to its low expected total returns of just -3.0% per year for the next five years.
