Overview & Current Events

EPR Properties is a specialty real estate investment trust, or REIT, that invests in properties in specific market segments that require industry knowledge to operate effectively. It selects properties it believes have strong return potential in Entertainment, Recreation, and Education. The REIT structures its investments as triple net, a structure that places the operating costs of the property on the tenants, not the REIT. The portfolio includes about $7 billion in investments across 300+ locations in 44 states, including over 250 tenants. Total revenue should be in excess of $700 million this year, and the stock is valued at $4.2 billion.

EPR posted first quarter earnings on May 7th, 2025, and results were better than expected on both the top and bottom lines. Funds-from-operations per share came to $1.20, which was two cents ahead of estimates. FFO was up from $1.12 per share a year ago. Revenue was up almost 5% year-on-year to $175 million, beating expectations by almost $11 million.

Property operating expenses were $15.2 million in Q1, the same as Q4, and up slightly from $14.9 million a year ago. Investment spending was $37.7 million, and disposition proceeds were $78.9 million.

Adjusted EBITDAre was $132 million, higher from $126 million a year earlier. The company continues to get out of theatre and childhood education centers, disposing of three theaters and 11 early childhood education centers in Q1.

Guidance was updated to adjusted FFO-per-share of $5.00 to $5.16 for this year, up by a few cents from prior guidance. We've left our estimate unchanged at $5.05 for this year.

EPR managed to grow nicely in the years since the financial crisis, which saw its AFFO fall to just $1.30 in 2009. From 2010 to 2019, EPR compounded AFFO at almost 8% annually. Of course, 2020 proved to be a significantly down year, with a recovery in 2021 that continues today. However, earnings have plateaued and 2025 looks to be another year below that of 2023.

Previously, EPR enjoyed exceedingly high occupancy rates, which afforded it pricing power and higher margins over time. We used to like EPR's exposure to experiential parts of the economy, but with uncertainty surrounding these businesses, we're cautious on EPR's future. That said, current results seem to indicate that the worst is behind EPR, and the Regal restructuring is a big step forward. We're moving our growth estimate to 2% as we think EPR's current level of earnings is sustainable, but tough to grow meaningfully from for the time being.

The dividend is at a rate of $3.54 per share annually, which we believe will grow somewhat in the years to come. The stock yields 6.3% now, which is impressive given the trust went several months with no dividend payment. EPR has now raised its dividend for four consecutive years with its March 2025 boost. In addition, the dividend is paid monthly, rather than quarterly, so its yield is extremely attractive.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/AFFO	12.9	14.7	14.2	10.4	13.8	25.7	15.6	7.9	9.4	9.1	11.1	12.0
Avg. Yld.	6.3%	5.4%	5.7%	6.8%	6.0%	4.1%	3.1%	8.6%	6.8%	7.7%	6.3%	5.6%

EPR's normalized price-to-AFFO-per-share ratio, excluding 2009, has averaged 13.3 since 2010. We see fair value at 12 times AFFO, as we see conditions as having normalized for the most part. At a current valuation of 11.1 times AFFO, we view EPR as slightly undervalued.

The yield is at a very impressive 6.3% presently following the most recent dividend increase, and action in the share price. We expect the combination of a potentially higher valuation and higher dividend payments to keep the yield around 6%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	82%	80%	81%	71%	83%	106%	49%	69%	64%	70%	70%	67%

We are forecasting the payout ratio to decline to 67% of AFFO by 2030, which is in line with most years in the past decade as we believe EPR will want to reduce the risk of another dividend suspension and/or cut.

EPR's competitive advantage is its portfolio of specialized properties. EPR has methodically identified the most profitable properties through years of experience and focuses its investments in these areas. It certainly isn't immune to recessions, but it remained profitable during the worst of the financial crisis and continued to pay its dividend. We see EPR as one of the better-run REITs in our coverage universe for these reasons, but we also note that the damage done to EPR's experiential tenants during the pandemic was enormous.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

EPR is undervalued in our view, driving a potential 1.6% tailwind. We like the strong operating history and track record of capital returns, and the high dividend yield of 6.3% is making the stock attractive, even with little growth. With total projected returns at 8.7%, we are reiterating the stock at a hold rating.
