Overview & Current Events

Magna International Inc. is dual-listed on the New York Stock Exchange and the Toronto Stock Exchange, where it trades under the tickers 'MGA' and 'MG', respectively. Magna reports financial results in U.S. dollars. All figures in this report are denominated in U.S. dollars. The company began working with General Motors (GM) back in 1957. Since then, it has become the largest automotive supplier in North America and the fourth-largest in the world. Magna has increased its dividend every year since 2010.

Magna reported its Q1 2025 results on 05/02/2025. For the quarter, its sales were $10.1 billion – 8.0% lower versus a year ago, as global light vehicle production fell 3%. Magna's income from operations before income taxes rose was $225 million versus $34 million a year ago, while adjusted earnings before interest and taxes ("EBIT") fell 25% to $354 million - reflecting lower sales and higher net warranty costs related to its seating business, which were offset by continued productivity and efficiency improvements and lower net engineering costs, including spending on its electrification and active safety businesses -- and adjusted earnings per share ("EPS") of $0.78 fell 28% year over year ("YOY").

Magna updated its 2025 sales forecast to $40.0-$41.6 billion and adjusted EBIT margin to 5.1-5.6%. It expects interest expense of about $210 million but anticipates a higher income tax rate of roughly 26%. We maintain our 2025 EPS estimate at $4.85 based on this guidance. Notably, Magna's guidance excludes potential impacts of tariffs.

Magna reported a loss in 2009 due to the global financial crisis of 2007-2008. However, in the decade after that, it recovered remarkably. In 2020, the company's top and bottom lines were greatly dragged down by the COVID-19 pandemic impacts. Regardless of the pandemic, Magna's EPS is highly cyclical and sensitive to economic cycles. Magna has been investing in electrification and autonomy among other new automotive technologies, which could pressure near-term margins. Magna compounded its EPS by about 2.0% from 2015 to 2024, as the company's earnings fell significantly in 2020 because of COVID. Additionally, its 2022 results were dragged down by supply chain disruptions related to the Russian invasion in Ukraine and semiconductor chip shortages as well as high inflation and higher labor costs. Management is working to offset inflationary pressures, reducing expenses, and optimizing its cost structure. The business rebounded in 2023 but is now faced with higher uncertainties from the trade war. As a cyclical business, Magna has the potential for above-average growth by 2030. To account for the higher uncertainty and to be more conservative, we estimate an EPS growth rate of 7% and dividend per share (DPS) growth rate of 5% through 2030.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	11.4	7.6	8.0	8.7	8.3	12.2	18.6	13.5	11.6	8.5	7.6	9.0
Avg. Yld.	1.7%	2.5%	2.3%	2.4%	2.9%	3.3%	2.1%	3.1%	3.2%	4.1%	5.3%	4.0%

From 2015-2024, Magna traded at an average price-to-earnings ratio of about 10.8. Using our 2024 EPS estimate, the company trades at a price-to-earnings ratio of 7.6. Because we expect earnings to grow over the next five years, the stock could be discounted. From 2020-2024, it averaged a P/E ratio of 12.9. We give the stock a fair P/E of 9 to account for the cyclical nature of the business. Consequently, the stock trades at a slight discount from its long-term fair valuation target.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	20%	19%	18%	20%	24%	41%	34%	44%	34%	35%	40%	36%

As one of the leading automotive suppliers in the world with about 342 manufacturing operations, Magna benefits from some economies of scale. It's also innovating by investing in electrification and autonomy, which should help keep the company's product offerings relevant. During the last recession, Magna ran into trouble and operated at a loss and cut its dividend in 2009. It survived through it, though. Despite bumpy profits through economic cycle, including substantial drops in earnings in 2020 and 2022, Magna continued increasing its dividend.

Its balance sheet remains in good standing. At the end of Q4 2024, its debt-to-asset ratio was 62.1% and debt-to-equity ratio was 1.6x. It also had $1.1 billion of cash and cash equivalents. Further, it's awarded an S&P credit rating of A-. Notably, the company maintains a low payout ratio through economic cycles to provide a big buffer to protect its dividend during stressful times such as in 2020 and 2022. Magna has pleased its shareholders by keeping its dividend-growth streak. For now, we estimate a 5% DPS growth rate through 2030.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Magna has total return potential of 14.5% per year from its 5.3% dividend, 7% EPS growth, and 3.4% valuation expansion. We rate it as a "Hold."
