Overview & Current Events

Bunge Limited (BG) is one of the largest agribusiness and food companies globally, with integrated operations that stretch from farmer to consumer. The company buys, sells, stores, transports, and processes oilseeds and grains to make protein meals for animal feed and edible oil products for commercial customers. Bunge also produces sugar and ethanol from sugarcane, mills wheat, and corn, and sells fertilizers. BG currently has a market capitalization of $9.4 billion.

The company's strong balance sheet and liquidity position give it a competitive advantage in adverse market conditions. Even though the global supply chain bottlenecks persist, BG has profited from the rise in crop prices since a growing global population has raised the need for more food-grade oils and well-fed livestock.

On May 7th, 2025, the company announced Q1 results, reporting GAAP EPS of $1.81, which beats the markets' estimates by $0.50. Bunge reported revenues of $8.16 billion that were down 16.2% year-over-year.

Bunge Global reported first-quarter 2025 earnings that came in mixed, but generally ahead of expectations, highlighting its ability to navigate an evolving global agri-food landscape. Agribusiness, the company's cornerstone, delivered solid processing results, particularly in Brazil and Europe's soy crush chains, but overall segment EBIT dropped from last year's highs. The Refined and Specialty Oils unit saw results soften too, as a more balanced supply-demand environment, especially in North America, kept margins in check.

Despite the dip, CEO Greg Heckman struck an optimistic tone, citing a "better-than-expected start" to the year and ongoing strategic steps to sharpen Bunge's focus. The company is in the final stages of regulatory approval for its much-anticipated merger with Viterro, which promises to enhance global scale and integration. Bunge also announced plans to divest regional corn milling and margarine businesses to better align with its core value chains. Holding its full-year adjusted EPS outlook steady at around $7.75, Bunge remains confident in its resilient global footprint and its ability to connect farmers and consumers worldwide, even as the macro environment stays fluid.

Bunge Limited has grown its EPS by a CAGR of 5.7% over the past since 2015, well below its 5-year CAGR of 35.5%. Indeed, the company has experienced significant growth in EPS in the last few years, with EPS increasing materially from 2020 to 2023. However, as we move closer to the likely end of the cycle, the company may face earnings normalization with slower growth in the medium-term. Nevertheless, BG now has an increasing opportunity to expand its revenue. For instance, as the world advances toward sustainability, the growth in renewable diesel, produced from crop oils, is currently a modest portion of Bunge's business but may become enormous. Nevertheless, higher crop prices are only one factor driving Bunge's growth.

We match our EPS projection with analysts' estimates at $7.58 for 2025 and with a 5% CAGR, it leads to our estimated EPS of $9.67 by 2030. Additionally, we have assumed a 5.0% dividend growth, resulting in a dividend payment of $3.57 in 2030.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	17.2	16.5	49.1	43.3	38.6	8.9	5.4	6.9	4.0	12.1	10.6	10.0
Avg. Yld.	1.7%	1.9%	2.4%	2.8%	3.0%	2.9%	2.8%	3.2%	4.4%	2.8%	3.5%	3.7%

Bunge is trading at a 10.6 P/E multiple, well below its long-term average of 20.2. However, considering the negative growth prospects, we believe a P/E ratio of around 10.0 by 2030 is more representative of its fair value, implying a valuation headwind. Finally, we expect the company to be consistent with its historical dividend payout policy, resulting in a dividend yield of 3.7% by 2030.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	30%	32%	117%	122%	114%	26%	15%	22%	18%	34%	37%	37%

Bunge's CEO Gregory Heckman, who took over in 2019, has been instrumental in introducing structural changes to harness the global scale of its business, increasing the company's earnings power and reducing the level of debt on the balance sheet. The company has been disciplined at paying dividends and is a great capital allocator. The company faces risks due to the volatile nature of commodity prices. The market for the company's products is characterized by high competition and is subject to product substitution.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

It is reasonable to expect the company to pass on the cost to its customers efficiently, offering Bunge inflation resistance in the current environment. Hence, we maintain our hold rating for BG, premised upon the 7.1% annualized total return expectation derived from the forecasted earnings-per-share growth of 5.0%, the 3.5% dividend yield, and a valuation headwind.
