Overview & Current Events

Owens Corning (OC), a global company, produces and sells insulation, roofing, and fiberglass materials across diverse markets. Operating in Composites, Insulation, and Roofing segments, it manufactures and sells glass reinforcements, fiber products, thermal insulation, foam sheathing, roofing shingles, and components used in construction and various industries. Its wide distribution network directly supplies manufacturers, installers, retailers, and distributors.

On May 7th, 2025 the company announced results for the first quarter of 2025. Owens Corning reported Q1 non-GAAP EPS of $2.97, beating market estimates by $0.10, and revenue of $2.5 billion, which was up 25% year-over-year.

Owens Corning kicked off 2025 with a solid performance, reporting first-quarter net sales from continuing operations of $2.5 billion, a robust 25% increase from the same period last year. The boost came largely thanks to its newly acquired Doors business, which added $540 million in revenue. Despite macro headwinds, the company delivered a net earnings margin of 10% and an adjusted EBITDA margin of 22%, marking its 19th consecutive quarter maintaining margins above 20%. Diluted EPS from continuing operations landed at $2.95, slightly below last year's results. While operating cash flow dipped into an outflow of $49 million and free cash flow also ran negative, Owens Corning returned $159 million to shareholders through dividends and share repurchases, underlining its ongoing commitment to balanced capital deployment.

Looking ahead, the building products leader expects steady demand for repair work to prop up results in Q2, even as new residential construction and remodeling activity stays somewhat soft. Management remains upbeat about its ability to outperform in a mixed market, with margin stability and cost controls providing a sturdy buffer. We believe that the company can drive long-term growth, sustain its structural profitability improvements, and unlock more shareholder value as it leans into its expanded product mix.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030

For the company's EPS estimate for 2025, we used the midpoint of analysts' estimates at $13.48, and with a 10.0% annual growth through 2030, it leads to our estimated EPS of $21.71. Moreover, the company has a solid record of paying dividends despite operating in an industrial sector, as Owens Corning has paid increasing dividends for the past 10 years. We expect the company to maintain its dividend growth and have forecasted a dividend CAGR of 8.0%, leading to a dividend of $4.06 in 2030.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	15.4	14.6	27.7	13.0	15.4	-17.0	9.6	6.9	9.1	23.5	10.8	9.0
Avg. Yld.	1.6%	1.5%	1.1%	1.3%	1.6%	1.6%	1.2%	1.8%	1.8%	1.4%	1.9%	2.1%

Shares of the building products manufacturer trades at a forward P/E of 10.8, lower than the long-term average P/E of 11.8, but well above the five-year average P/E of 6.4. Even though the stable volumes and demand will benefit the company in the near term, we assign a P/E of 9.0 to the stock, which is a fair reflection of its value, in our opinion. Accordingly, with an EPS of $21.71 and P/E of 9.0, our target price for the stock stands at $195 by 2030.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	24%	22%	32%	17%	24%	-28%	12%	12%	16%	34%	20%	19%

The company has paid a consistent dividend to its shareholders with a 10-year payout ratio averaging just 17%, and we expect the company to maintain its payout around these levels in the future. The demand for the company's product has been stable in recent quarters, and we expect the company to be in a much better position in the future than it is today. The company aims to balance long-term shareholder value through dividends, share repurchases, strategic investments, and financial discipline. In Q1, Owens Corning repurchased 0.7 million shares for $100 million, reinforcing its commitment to returning capital to shareholders.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

With elevated rates and geopolitical risks, Owens Corning faces potential revenue headwinds despite strong margins and capital discipline. While its realignment supports long-term stability, valuation concerns persist. We maintain our hold rating premised upon 8.0% annualized total returns for the medium-term, derived from the forecasted earnings-per-share growth of 10.0%, the 1.9% dividend yield, and a valuation headwind.
