Overview & Current Events

SEI Investments was founded in 1968 and over the last 50+ years has grown into a market capitalization of $11.1 billion. SEI is a global provider of investment processing, investment management, and investment operations solutions for financial institutions and advisors. SEI has about $1.6 trillion combined in assets under administration and management. The company should produce about $2.3 billion in revenue this year.

SEI posted second quarter earnings on July 23rd, 2025, and results were mixed. Earnings-per-share came to $1.20 on an adjusted basis, a penny ahead of estimates. Revenue was up almost 8% year-on-year to $560 million, but that missed estimates by about $6 million.

The company's private banking segment saw strong client inflows, leading to higher revenue against both Q1 and the year-ago period. Investment managers revenue saw 8% growth year-over-year, while advisor and institutional revenue was flat.

Margins were off sequentially due to investments in hiring and technology, as well as one-time expenses. Margins were lower in Q2 due to this, but management noted it was necessary to fund future growth.

Earnings on an unadjusted basis would have been $1.80 per share, which included the June 30th sale of its family office services business, as well as a vendor negotiation, the combination of which added 60 cents in one-time earnings.

SEI bought back $700 million in shares in the past twelve months. We now see $5 in adjusted earnings-per-share for this year after a strong first half of the year.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

From 2013 to 2019, SEI managed to double its earnings, and looking forward, we believe that strong growth can continue. SEI saw higher earnings-per-share in each year since 2011, until the COVID-impacted 2020. We are forecasting 8% earnings-per-share growth over the next five years as momentum remains strong. We see SEI achieving this result through continued revenue expansion as more customers adopt its SEI Wealth Platform, and its relatively newer IT services, as well as assets under management and advisement growth. We see mid-single-digit revenue growth as the primary driver of earnings going forward. SEI also buys back stock at low single-digit rates and is seeing margin expansion with its higher revenue, as evidenced in 2024. The key is revenue growth as SEI invests heavily in its future, and revenue growth has slowed.

SEI's dividend growth has been decent in recent years but it is not a high-income stock at this point. We see dividend growth going forward, but keep in mind that investors own SEI for the earnings growth potential, not for the yield, and that is not going to change anytime soon. Indeed, the payout ratio remains very low and given how much SEI invests in its platform on a regular basis, in addition to share repurchases, we expect the payout ratio to remain fairly constant.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	24.4	22.6	22.3	20.3	15.8	18.3	16.0	15.3	18.1	18.7	18.0	18.0
Avg. Yld.	1.0%	1.2%	1.0%	1.0%	1.2%	1.3%	1.3%	1.4%	1.4%	1.2%	1.1%	1.0%

SEI’s price-to-earnings multiple is higher than our last report, and it is now trading at 18 times this year’s earnings, which is equal to our estimate of fair value at 18 times earnings. The stock’s historical range is fairly narrow at 16 to 22 times earnings. We therefore see no impact from the valuation looking forward. The dividend is not a priority for SEI as it continues to spend cash on its products and services to fuel future growth. This is not a stock one owns for the yield, and its yield is just below the S&P 500.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	23%	24%	25%	20%	21%	24%	20%	22%	25%	22%	20%	19%

The payout ratio is very low as earnings-per-share expansion has outpaced dividend growth in recent years. There may come a time when the dividend is a significant source of returns, but SEI is understandably focused on growth today. SEI’s competitive advantage is in its platform and services, which allow it to drive efficiencies and lower risk for its clients. That does not make it immune from economic downturns, however, as the Great Recession dinged revenue and earnings meaningfully. Given the industry SEI serves, it is reasonable to expect material weakness during a recession, so that is something investors should consider. In addition, weak equity market performance is another headwind that comes up from time to time.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Overall, SEI looks like a fairly valued stock with good growth potential. We are forecasting 9% total annual returns going forward, comprised of the 1.1% current yield and 8% earnings-per-share growth, and no impact from the valuation. SEI may become an income stock in the future, but it is still very much in its growth stage, so that is a long way off. We’re reiterating the stock at a buy after Q2 results. So long as assets in custody rise, SEI is a strong growth stock to consider owning. We note investors should watch expense growth in the coming quarters.
