Overview & Current Events

American Assets Trust (AAT) is a real estate investment trust (REIT) that was formed in 2011 as a successor of American Assets, a privately held company founded in 1967. AAT is headquartered in San Diego, California, and has great experience in acquiring, improving and developing office, retail and residential properties throughout the U.S., primarily in Southern California, Northern California, Oregon, Washington and Hawaii. Its office portfolio and its retail portfolio comprise of approximately 4.1 million and 2.4 million square feet, respectively. AAT also owns more than 2,300 multifamily units and has a market capitalization of $1.5 billion.

In late July, AAT reported (7/29/25) financial results for the second quarter of fiscal 2025. Same-store net operating income grew 1% but funds from operations (FFO) per share declined -15% over the prior year's quarter, mostly due to increased interest expense. Due to high interest expense, AAT narrowed its weak guidance only marginally for 2025, from $1.87-$2.01 to $1.89-$2.01. We note that AAT has beaten the analysts' estimates for 18 consecutive quarters but we still expect FFO per share of $1.95 this year, in line with the latest guidance of management. We also note that the REIT appears somewhat resilient to high inflation thanks to its ability to raise rental rates every year. AAT has raised its dividend by 1.5% this year.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

AAT pursues growth by acquiring properties in submarkets with favorable supply and demand characteristics, including high barriers to entry. It also redevelops several of its newly-acquired properties in order to enhance their value. In addition, it has a capital recycling strategy, which involves selling properties whose returns seem to have been maximized and buying high-return properties. Thanks to these growth drivers, AAT has grown its adjusted FFO per share at a 4.3% average annual rate over the last decade. Its FFO per share are poised to decrease significantly this year due to high interest expense amid high interest rates. Nevertheless, we expect this headwind to abate in the upcoming years and thus we expect 4.0% average annual growth of FFO per share over the next five years off this year's low base.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
P/FFO	23.2	22.0	21.2	17.6	20.8	15.9	17.8	13.4	8.8	9.3	9.7	14.7

AAT is trading at a price-to-FFO ratio of 9.7, which is much lower than the 7-year average price-to-FFO ratio of 14.7. The somewhat rich historical valuation of AAT has resulted from its consistent growth year after year, until the onset of the pandemic. The depressed current valuation has resulted from the impact of high interest rates on interest expense. We expect AAT to revert to its average valuation level over the next five years. If AAT trades at that level in five years, it will enjoy an 8.6% annualized gain in its returns.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	54%	55%	55%	52%	52%	53%	58%	55%	55%	52%	70%	61%

Many of the properties of AAT are located in in-fill locations, where developable land is scarce and zoning regulations significantly restrict new development. Moreover, its submarkets in Southern California, Northern California, Oregon, Washington and Hawaii are characterized by high barriers to entry, which offer the REIT a strong negotiating position with its tenants and enable it to implement material rent hikes every year.

AAT is offering a markedly high dividend yield of 7.2%. The payout ratio is decent (for a REIT) at 70% while the REIT also has a reliable growth trajectory. The only caveat is the material debt load of AAT, which has an interest coverage ratio of only 1.7, much less than our comfort minimum of 3.0. On the bright side, AAT has received investment grade ratings from the major rating agencies. Given the decent growth potential of AAT, we do not expect it to face any problems servicing its debt in the absence of a downturn but investors should be aware of this risk factor, which renders the REIT somewhat vulnerable to recessions. AAT was not public in the Great Recession, and hence it has not been tested in a severe recession. AAT cut its dividend by -12% in 2020 due to the pandemic.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

AAT is hurt by the environment of high inflation and interest rates but we view this headwind as temporary and consider the stock attractive from a long-term perspective. The stock could offer a 17.1% average annual return over the next five years thanks to its 4.0% growth of FFO per share, its 7.2% dividend yield and an 8.6% annualized valuation tailwind. The security receives a hold rating but we reiterate that patience may be required until interest rates revert to normal levels.
