Overview & Current Events

On October 30th, 2019, HCP changed its name to Healthpeak Properties and its ticker from HCP to PEAK in order to reflect the culmination of its efforts to reform its portfolio. On March 1st, 2024, Healthpeak Properties changed its ticker from PEAK to DOC due to its merger with Physicians Realty Trust. Healthpeak Properties is the largest healthcare REIT in the U.S., with 774 properties. It was the first healthcare REIT that was included in the S&P 500. The 37-year old REIT invests in life science facilities, senior houses, and medical offices, with 97% of its portfolio based on private-pay sources. It has a market capitalization of $12.2 billion.

Healthpeak Properties benefits from favorable secular trends. As the baby boomer generation ages and the average life expectancy is on the rise, the senior population of the U.S. is expected to grow significantly in the upcoming years. The 80+ age group is expected to grow by about 5% per year on average until 2030. In addition, this age group has immense spending power. Thanks to these trends, healthcare spending in the U.S. is expected to grow by about 5% per year on average until 2030.

Healthpeak Properties posted declining FFO for six consecutive years, until 2022. The REIT ran into trouble in 2015, when a major tenant was sued for Medicare claims fraud. As a result, the REIT incurred a $1.3 billion asset impairment charge and has been going through a major restructuring. However, Healthpeak Properties has sold several assets and has used the proceeds to reduce its debt. As a result, the REIT has received credit rating upgrades from S&P and Fitch (to BBB+) as well as Moody's (to Baa1). Nevertheless, its net debt is still high, at 5.2 times its adjusted EBITDA.

On March 1st, 2024, Healthpeak Properties closed its acquisition of Physicians Realty Trust (DOC) in an all-stock merger of equals valued at ~$21 billion. The new REIT expects to benefit from much greater scale and annual savings of up to $60 million by the end of this year, without a significant effect on its debt.

In late July, Healthpeak Properties reported (7/24/25) results for the second quarter of fiscal 2025. Same-property net operating income grew 3.5% over the prior year's quarter thanks to strong growth in the segment of continuing care retirement community and FFO per share rose 2%, from $0.45 to $0.46. The REIT faced a headwind due to the pandemic and thus its FFO per share declined in 2020-2021, in contrast to many REITs, which began to recover in 2021. The trust began to recover in 2023, though management has provided lackluster guidance for 2025, mostly due to high interest expense. Management still expects annual FFO per share of $1.81-$1.87. Accordingly, we expect FFO per share of $1.84.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Although Healthpeak Properties posted declining FFO for six consecutive years, until 2022, and the restructuring process will keep burdening the REIT in the near future, most of the damage has already been done. The REIT has begun to recover from the pandemic. We also expect the trust to enter a sustainable growth trajectory, as it will leave its past issues behind. Nevertheless, due to the hefty issuance of new shares for the above merger and high interest expense amid high interest rates, we expect 3% annual growth of FFO per share over the next five years.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg P/FFO	13.0	12.0	15.1	13.8	18.5	17.5	21.5	16.4	11.7	11.1	9.2	15.1
Avg. Yld.	5.5%	6.4%	5.0%	5.9%	4.5%	5.2%	3.4%	4.2%	5.7%	6.0%	7.2%	4.0%

Healthpeak Properties is trading at a P/FFO ratio of 9.2, which is lower than its 10-year average P/FFO of 15.1. If the REIT trades at its average valuation level in five years, it will enjoy a 10.3% annualized valuation gain.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

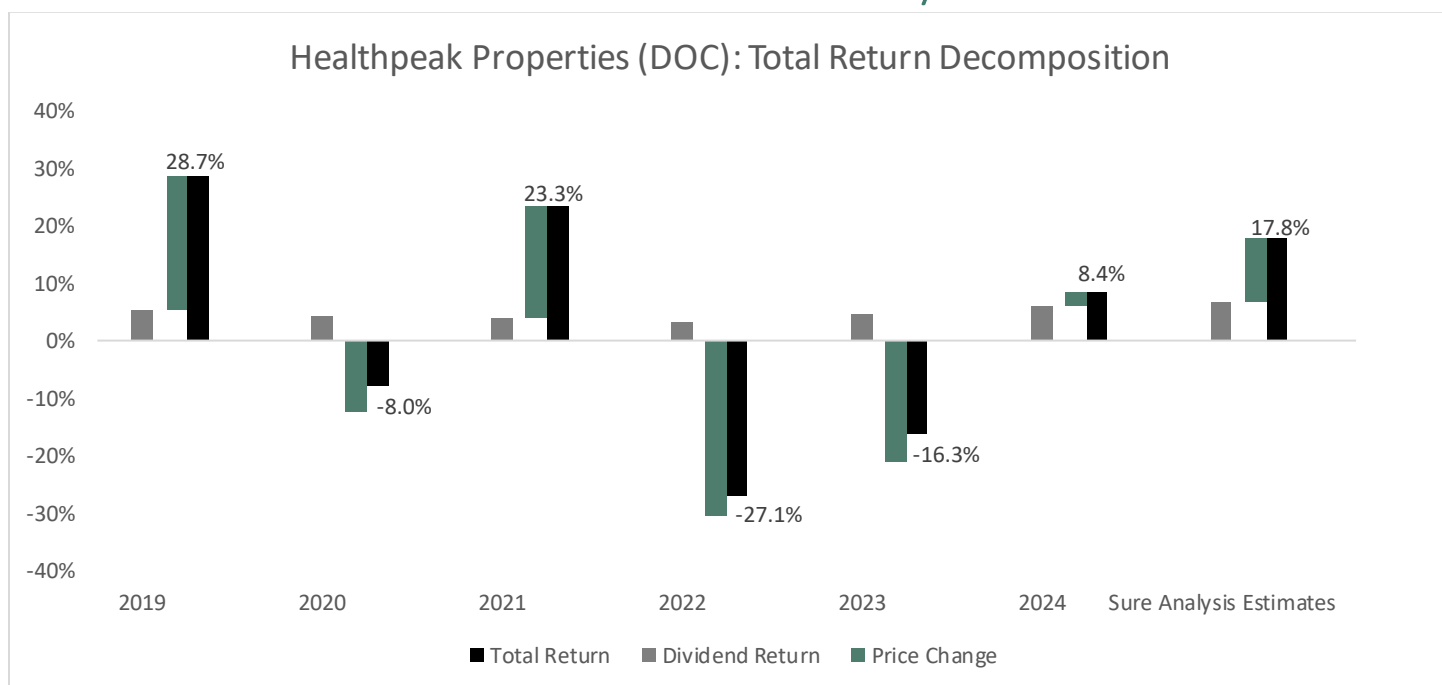

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	71.5%	76.6%	75.9%	81.3%	84.1%	90.2%	73.3%	69.0%	67.4%	66.3%	66.3%	61.0%

The performance of Healthpeak Properties has been poor in the last nine years and the REIT cut its dividend by -19% in 2021. As this is the second dividend cut of the REIT in the last decade, it is evident that the REIT is vulnerable to downturns. Even after the dividend cut, the payout ratio remains elevated. In addition, interest expense has nearly doubled since 2021 due to high interest rates. Overall, Healthpeak Properties is not suitable for most income-oriented investors. On the other hand, we note that the payout ratio is standing at a nearly 10-year low while the REIT does not have any debt maturities this year. Nevertheless, the dividend is not safe.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Healthpeak Properties was in turnaround mode before the pandemic so it is now facing many challenges. The REIT has begun to recover from the pandemic and could offer a 17.8% average annual return over the next five years, thanks to 3.0% growth of FFO per share, its 7.2% dividend and a 10.3% expansion of valuation level. Nevertheless, due to the volatile performance record and the high debt load of the REIT, we rate it as a hold for patient, risk-tolerant investors who can endure extended periods of stock price pressure.
