Overview & Current Events

Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce is a global financial institution that provides banking and other financial services to individuals, small businesses, corporations and institutional clients. CIBC is focused on the Canadian market. The bank was founded in 1961 and is headquartered in Toronto, Canada. If not indicated otherwise, all numbers in this research report are in U.S. dollars.

CIBC reported its fiscal Q3 2025 earnings results on 8/28/25. For the quarter, the bank's revenue climbed 10% year-over-year ("YOY") to C$7.3 billion. Provision for credit losses ("PCL") was C$559 million, up 16% from a year ago. The loan loss ratio was 0.33%, up from 0.29% a year ago. And net income came in C$2.1 billion (up 17%) with diluted earnings-per-share ("EPS") up 18% YOY to C$2.15. Adjusted net income came in 11% higher at C$2.1 billion. Ultimately, adjusted EPS climbed 12% to C$2.16. The adjusted return on equity was 14.2%, up from 14.0% a year ago. The bank's capital position remains solid with a Common Equity Tier 1 ratio of 13.4%, up from 13.3% a year ago. The net interest margin was 1.46% compared to 1.39% a year ago.

Fiscal year-to-date, revenue climbed 14% YOY to C$21.6 billion, PCL rose 9.8% to C$1.7 billion, while non-interest expense jumped 9.6% to C$11.7 billion. Ultimately, net income rose 19% to C$6.3 billion, while the adjusted EPS climbed 16% to C$6.40. We update our fiscal 2025 EPS estimate to US$6.01.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

In May 2022, the big Canadian bank stock had a two-for-one stock split, which is why its EPS and dividend-per-share ("DPS") appear much lower in 2022 in the table above. Stock splits do not change the valuation of the stock. CIBC's goal is to grow adjusted EPS by 7-10% per year over a 3- to 5-year period under a normal cycle. However, its earnings and dividends have been bumpy due partly to the foreign exchange fluctuations between the U.S. dollar and the Canadian dollar.

From 2015 to 2024, the bank increased its EPS and DPS by 4.6% and 4.9%, respectively, per year in US$. Fiscal 2020 was one of those abnormal years with a pandemic triggering a decline in CIBC's earnings. For the bank, one key area of growth is its loans and deposits portfolio. The increased loan book leads to higher net interest income, which is a key source of CIBC's revenues. CIBC's fiscal Q3 2025 deposits and loans & acceptances, rose 6.6% and 5.7% YOY, respectively. The bank's medium-term target for its EPS growth is 7-10% annually. We project a more conservative EPS and DPS growth rate of 6.0% through 2030.

After leading the bank for over 10 years, CEO Victor G. Dodig will be retiring in October 2025, and Harry Culham, the head of the bank's capital markets will take over the CEO role in November 2025.

Valuation Analysis

|-----------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|------|
| Avg. P/E  | 10.8 | 10.1 | 9.9  | 10.3 | 9.2  | 8.9  | 10.9 | 10.0 | 8.3  | 10.0 | 12.9 | 10.0 |
| Avg. Yld. | 5.1% | 4.5% | 4.1% | 5.5% | 5.1% | 6.0% | 4.0% | 4.8% | 6.0% | 5.5% | 3.6% | 4.7% |

CIBC tends to trade at a lower valuation than its peers. From fiscal 2015 to 2024, its price-to-earnings averaged 9.8, while its yield averaged 5.1%. From 2020 to 2024, its P/E averaged 9.6, while its dividend yield averaged 5.3%. We think a target P/E of 10 is reasonable with a target yield of about 5%. The bank stock appears to be a pricey at current levels but the high multiple is due to its strong performance this year. Its yield likely won't stray far away from the 5% range in the long run. As a Canadian stock, CIBC's dividends may be subject to a 15% dividend withholding tax for U.S. investors. This can possibly be avoided by holding in CIBC in a retirement account.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

| Year   | 2015 | 2016 | 2017 | 2018 | 2019 | 2020 | 2021 | 2022 | 2023 | 2024 | 2025 | 2030 |
| Payout | 49%  | 47%  | 45%  | 45%  | 47%  | 57%  | 41%  | 48%  | 51%  | 51%  | 47%  | 47%  |

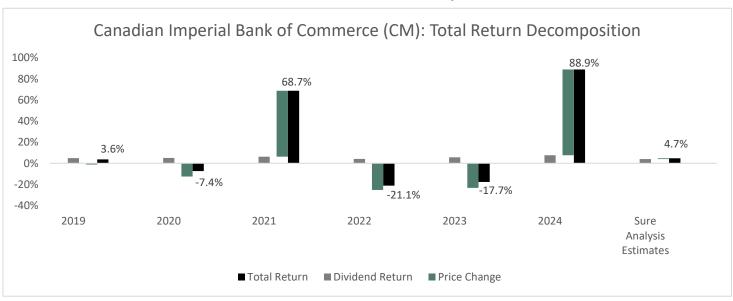

During the last financial crisis that triggered a recession in 2008/2009, the bank stock increased its dividend every year (in the local currency of Canadian dollars), except for fiscal 2009 and 2010 in which it maintained the dividend. The regulator stepped in to be prudent of the potential economic earthquake at that time. During that period, CIBC's adjusted EPS fell about 31% from fiscal 2007-2009 before recovering and having a nine-year run through fiscal 2018. In 2020, CIBC experienced an adjusted EPS decline of 19%.

CIBC is the fifth largest bank in its main market, Canada. Due to a focus on consumer banking, and especially mortgages, which usually are insured in Canada, CIBC has a relatively low-risk portfolio relative to other banks in a normal market. CIBC's performance in the last financial crisis was not good, but also not as disastrous as that of many of its North American peers.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We forecast 4.7% in total returns annually over the next five years, consisting of a yield of 3.6%, 6.0% earnings-per-share growth, and a 4.9% headwind from a price-to-earnings ratio compression. We maintain a hold rating on CIBC stock.
