Overview & Current Events

CSW Industrials is a diversified industrial company that is headquartered in Dallas, Texas. It has three segments: Contractor Solutions, Engineered Building Solutions, and Specialized Reliability Solutions. The Contractor Solutions segment provides condensate pads, pans, pumps, switches, sealants, vents, electrical products, and many more related products. The Engineered Building Solutions segment offers fire and smoke protection devices, pre-engineered and custom-made architectural building components, and related services. The Specialized Reliability Solutions segment provides compounds, lubricants, sealants, filtration products, and more. CSW traces its roots back to 1969, employs about 2,600 people, and should generate over $1 billion in revenue this year.

CSW posted first quarter earnings on July 31st, 2025, and results were somewhat weak. Adjusted earnings-per-share came to $2.85, while revenue soared 16.5% higher year-over-year to $264 million.

Revenue was up from the Aspen Manufacturing acquisition, as well as PSP Products and PF WaterWorks, which collectively added more than 19% to the company's top line growth rate. Organic revenue was off 2.8%, or $6.2 million.

Gross profit was $115 million, up 7.5% year-over-year. As a percentage of revenue, gross margin was down 370 basis points to 43.8% of revenue. The decline was due to inclusion of recent acquisitions, unfavorable sales mix and volume leverage, as well as material cost inflation. The latter included the impact of tariffs.

Operating expenses were $61 million, up from $52 million. As a percentage of revenue expenses were down 20 basis points. Operating income was $55 million, essentially flat. But as a percentage of revenue, it fell markedly, declining from 24.3% to 20.8%.

We now see $10.20 in adjusted earnings-per-share for this year after the company's acquisitions have helped boost revenue, but margins are weakening. The coming quarters should see some improvement as cost savings are realized, but investors would do well to monitor margins going forward.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
EPS	$1.52	$1.17	$2.09	$2.96	$2.99	$2.65	$4.20	$6.20	$6.52	$8.41	$10.20	$16.43
DPS	---	---	---	$0.41	$0.54	$0.59	$0.66	$0.74	$0.85	$0.96	$1.08	$1.90
Shares²	15.7	15.8	15.8	15.0	14.7	15.7	15.7	15.5	15.5	16.8	17.0	18.0

CSW's earnings growth has been outstanding, if a bit uneven over time. From 2016 to 2025, annual earnings-per-share growth was more than 20% on average. We see something lower than that over the longer-term given the high base of earnings for 2026, but still project 10% growth going forward from fiscal 2026's very high (and record) base. We see M&A as a primary driver of this growth, but also note that margins could have some upside if freight rates decline. CSW's margins are generally quite volatile, so that's something for investors to monitor. Management is focusing on M&A rather than share repurchases or more meaningful dividend payments.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	23.3	39.6	23.9	25.0	38.2	41.3	31.9	34.0	50.5	34.7	24.7	36.0
Avg. Yld.	0.0%	0.0%	0.0%	0.6%	0.5%	0.5%	0.5%	0.4%	0.3%	0.3%	0.4%	0.3%

Shares have been valued quite highly for the past several years. The 10-year average P/E ratio is about 34, but for the past five years, it's closer to 39. We've settled on 36 times earnings for now as fair value, meaning shares are extremely undervalued for now.

The yield is just 0.4%, and we don't see a lot of movement on that going forward given the company's preferred capital allocation strategy of M&A.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	---	---	---	14%	18%	22%	16%	12%	13%	13%	11%	12%

The payout ratio is very low today, and we don't see that changing anytime soon. The company has raised its dividend each year since it began paying it, and we expect that to continue indefinitely. We also see no risk of a dividend cut, even in a recession.

The company's balance sheet is quite clean with strong free cash flows, and a net cash position. We expect further M&A to dominate the company's cash allocation in the coming years.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Overall, we see CSW as an undervalued, high-growth industrial name that is buy-rated. Total returns could accrue from the fractional yield, 7.8% tailwind from the valuation, and the 10% projected earnings growth rate. CSW has had a tough 2025 thus far, but we think it should be considered a buying opportunity with outstanding 18.9% total returns forecast.
