Overview & Current Events

Abbott Laboratories, founded in 1888, is one of the largest medical appliances & equipment manufacturers in the world, comprised of four segments: Nutrition, Diagnostics, Established Pharmaceuticals and Medical Devices. Abbott Laboratories provides products in over 160 countries and employs 114,000 people. The company generated $42 billion in sales in 2024.

On December 13th, 2024, Abbott Laboratories raised its quarterly dividend 7.3% to $0.59, extending the company's dividend growth streak to 53 years.

On October 15th, 2025, Abbott Laboratories reported third quarter results for the period ending September 30th, 2025. For the quarter, the company generated sales of $11.4 billion (62.2% outside of the U.S.), which represented growth of 6.8%, but this was $20 million below estimates. Adjusted earnings-per-share of $1.30 compared favorably to $1.21 in the prior year and was in-line with expectations.

U.S. sales grew 2.3% while international was up 9.9%. Currency exchange was a 1.4% headwind for the period. Companywide organic sales were up 5.5%. However, excluding Covid-19 testing products, organic growth was once again 7.5% for the period. Nutrition was up 4.0% organically during the quarter as this segment benefited from increased demand for Ensure and Glucerna. Diagnostics fell 7.8%, but this segment was actually higher by 0.4% when excluding Covid-19 tests. Established Pharmaceuticals improved 7.1% due to double-digit gains in Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East. Medical Devices continues to post excellent results, with organic sales surging 12.5%. The U.S. grew 13.8% and international markets increased 11.3%. This growth was driven by high demand for products in Diabetes Care, Electrophysiology, Rhythm Management, Heart Failure, and Structural Heart.

Abbott Laboratories again narrowed its prior guidance for 2025 as well, with the company now expecting adjusted earnings-per-share in a range of $5.12 to $5.18 for the year, compared to $5.10 to $5.20 and $5.05 to $5.25 previously. At the midpoint, this would represent growth of 10.3% from 2024.

Abbott Laboratories spun off its biotech business (which is publicly-traded as AbbVie with the ticker ABBV) in 2013. AbbVie has been a very successful standalone company. When it was still owned by Abbott Laboratories it was a major growth driver. However, since the spin-off Abbott Laboratories' earnings-per-share growth rate has still been very solid. Results have also been very consistent. Earnings-per-share have a CAGR of 9.0% since 2015 and 7.1% since 2020. With its strong position in growth markets such as diagnostics, where Abbott Laboratories is the market leader in point-of-care diagnostics - and cardiovascular medical devices, Abbott Laboratories should be able to generate attractive long-term growth rates for both earnings-per-share and dividends. We forecast 7% growth coming off expected earnings-per-share of $5.15 for 2025.

Valuation Analysis

Shares of Abbott Laboratories have gained $4, or 3.2%, since our July 18th, 2025 report. The stock's price-to-earnings ratio expanded after the spin-off of AbbVie, which is not surprising, as AbbVie had been the somewhat riskier part of the business. In addition, shares were coming off recession lows. Abbott Laboratories as a more med-tech pure play is a low-risk investment. We reaffirming our target price-to-earnings ratio of 22 from 20 as this better reflects the stock's average earnings multiple over the last decade. With shares trading at ~25 times earnings estimates, this implies a 2.4% headwind to annual returns through 2030 from multiple compression.

Abbott Laboratories has declared 407 consecutive dividends and increased its payout for 53 consecutive years.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	45%	47%	42%	39%	40%	39%	35%	35%	46%	47%	46%	46%

Abbott Laboratories' dividend payout ratio has never been above 50% throughout the last decade. Coupled with the fact that the company's earnings-per-share did not decline during the last financial crisis – it actually continued to grow – Abbott Laboratories' dividend looks very safe.

After the spin-off of AbbVie, Abbott Laboratories has proven to be a very stable performer with a solid outlook. The markets that Abbott Laboratories addresses are not cyclical as medical devices and diagnostics are needed whether the economy is doing well or not. This explains why Abbott Laboratories performed so well during the last financial crisis. Moreover, for future recessions, we believe Abbott Laboratories will most likely not be vulnerable. The company is a leader in the markets it addresses, such as in point-of-care diagnostics, which provides competitive advantages due to Abbott Laboratories' scale and global reach. This was especially true during the worst of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Following third quarter results, Abbott Laboratories is projected to produce a total annual return of 6.3% through 2030, down from 6.9% previously. This estimate stems from 7% earnings growth and a starting dividend yield of 1.8% that are offset by a low single-digit headwind from multiple contraction. Abbott Laboratories had growth in most of its businesses once again, with Medical Devices continuing to be the best performing business. We maintain our holding rating on the name due to projected returns, but note that the stock has a strong dividend risk score.
