Overview & Current Events

Brookfield Infrastructure Partners L.P. is one of the largest global owners and operators of infrastructure networks, which includes operations in sectors such as energy, water, freight, passengers, and data. Brookfield Infrastructure Partners is one of multiple publicly-traded listed companies under Brookfield Corporation (BN). Brookfield Infrastructure Partners is a Bermuda-based limited partnership that is treated as a partnership for U.S. and Canadian tax purposes, and it reports financial results in U.S. dollars. It spun off Brookfield Infrastructure Corp. (BIPC, TSX:BIPC) in early 2020 for investors who prefer to invest in a corporation.

BIP reported strong results for Q3 2025 on 11/07/25. The diversified utility reported funds from operations ("FFO") of $654 million, up 9.2% year over year. FFO per unit ("FFOPU") was $0.83, up 9.2%.

Year-to-date, its FFO rose 6.4% to $1.9 billion and FFOPU rose 6.5% to $2.46. During this period, BIP generated over $3 billion in sale proceeds across 12 transactions, realizing a rate of return of over 20% and a 4x multiple of its capital, demonstrating its ability to create long-term value for unitholders. In this period, it deployed $1.5 billion across 6 new investments, while receiving $1 billion in recycled capital from sale proceeds. Investments include the first of a project to install up to 1 GW of behind-the-meter power solutions for data centers and AI factories, 2 utility acquisitions in Asia-Pacific --- a New Zealand natural gas infrastructure business and a South Korean industrial gas business.

We maintain our 2025 FFOPS estimate at $3.31.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030

Split-adjusted values/estimates are shown for 2020-2023 in the table above due to the BIPC spinoff in 2020. Similarly, split-adjustments are reflected for 2022, reflecting the June 2022, BIP/BIPC 3-for-2 share split. No cash distribution cuts occurred in 2020 or 2022. BIP's earnings are reduced by preferred unit and incentive distributions. So, the FFOPS is a better metric than the EPS to track its business health. The FFOPS adjusts for non-cash items such as depreciation, amortization, and certain non-recurring items to more realistically represent the firm's underlying earnings power. BIP uses FFO, which are relatively in line with its cash flows, to determine its dividend growth. From 2015-2024, the FFOPS and DPS had a CAGR of 6.2% and 7.8%, respectively, on a split-adjusted basis. BIP has a strong track record of selling mature assets and redeploying capital for attractive long-term returns. Additionally, its infrastructure portfolio also expects to experience strong organic growth of 6-9% per year. BIP intends to make new investments of ~$1.5 billion each year. BIP targets an FFOPS growth rate of 10% and dividend growth of 5-9%. To be more conservative, we use the midpoint of the latter -- 7% for our FFOPS growth rate through 2030. And we estimate a dividend growth rate of 6%.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
P/FFO	11.8	10.9	13.0	11.3	13.2	13.3	16.3	12.9	11.5	10.5	10.6	11.5
Avg. Yld.	5.0%	5.3%	4.3%	5.3%	4.5%	4.7%	3.6%	3.9%	4.7%	5.1%	4.9%	4.3%

We value BIP based on its funds from operations. From 2015-2024, BIP's average P/FFO was 12.5. The utility has a top management team, and it continues to grow at an above-average pace in the utility space while expanding its diversified portfolio of quality infrastructure assets. We think a target multiple of 11.5x and a yield of 4.3% are fair for this quality utility. The stock appears to be fairly valued.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

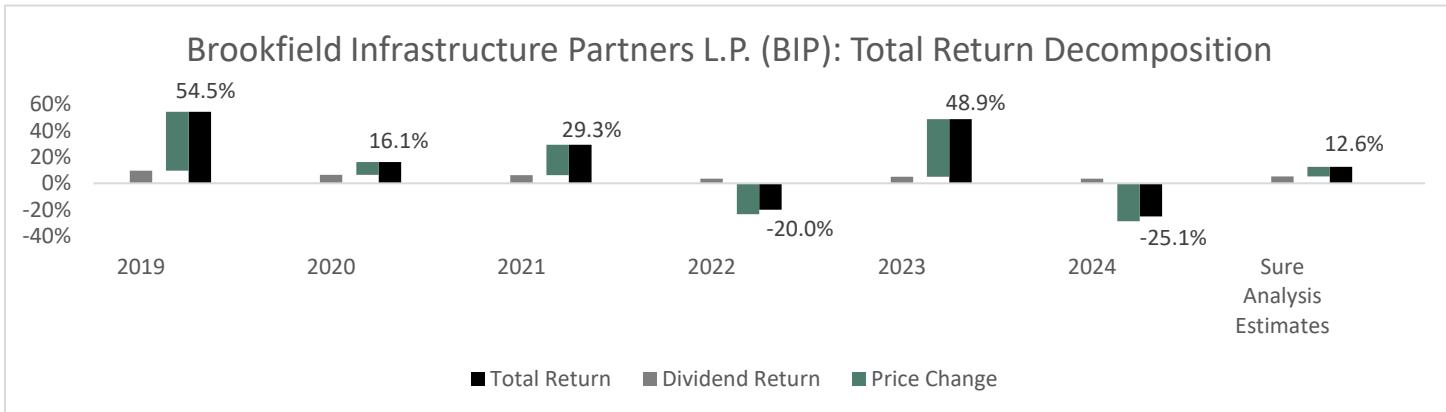

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	59%	57%	56%	60%	59%	62%	56%	53%	52%	52%	52%	50%

The COVID-19 pandemic demonstrated the resiliency of BIP's business. The company defines the payout ratio as distributions paid (inclusive of GP incentive and preferred unit distributions) divided by FFO, which averaged 70% from 2015-2024. According to this formula, its 2024 payout ratio is 67%, within management's FFO payout ratio target of 60% to 70%. BIP's FFOPS remains stable even through recessions because of the essential services provided by its diversified infrastructure portfolio. Stable FFO and a sustainable payout ratio leads to a secure dividend. BIP benefits from the qualitative competitive advantages of the Brookfield family of companies, which includes access to large-scale capital, vast experience owning and operating real assets, and a truly global operating presence. These factors allow BIP to invest in the most compelling global infrastructure opportunities. BIP has current liquidity of $5.5 billion, including about ~$2.5 billion at the corporate level and ~$1.4 billion of cash across its businesses. Additionally, BIP maintains a solid credit rating of BBB+. It primarily obtains financing at the asset level. So, in a worst-case scenario, it'd end up handing over a struggling asset to a creditor; the rest of the business wouldn't be impacted. In any case, BIP is set to grow. Its ongoing capital recycling program helps provide capital to be reinvested for its target returns of 12-15% on its investments.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

BIP allows investors to invest in real global infrastructure assets. It should continue to grow at a good pace going forward. We believe BIP is fairly valued and can deliver total returns of about 12.6% over the next five years from a yield of 4.9%, 7.0% FFO growth, and valuation expansion of 1.6%. We rate BIP as a "hold."
