Overview & Current Events

Founded in 1890 and headquartered in Abilene, Texas, First Financial Bankshares Inc (FFIN) is a financial and bank holding company with a strong focus on community banking. Concentrated solely in Texas, the company's competitive position thrives in this single geographic area. Through its subsidiaries, the company offers a comprehensive range of commercial banking services, including checking, savings, and time deposits, as well as modern conveniences like internet and mobile banking.

On October 23rd, 2025, the company announced results for the third quarter of 2025. FFIN reported Q3 non-GAAP EPS of $0.36, which beat the market's estimates by $0.11, and revenues of $164.67 million that were up 21.8% year-over-year.

First Financial Bankshares delivered a quarter that felt a bit like two stories playing out at once. On one hand, earnings dipped to $52.27 million as the company absorbed a sizable credit loss tied to an allegedly fraudulent commercial loan. It's the sort of setback that inevitably captures attention, especially when charge-offs spike and the provision for credit losses jumps severalfold. Still, management was quick to frame the incident as isolated, with no signs of structural issues across the broader portfolio. In a way, that reassurance sets the tone: cautious, but not rattled.

Yet underneath the surface noise, the bank's engine continued humming. Net interest income climbed meaningfully year over year, helped by a wider margin and expanding interest-earning assets. Loan growth pushed higher as well, and deposits added a healthy boost, even benefitting from newly secured ICS one-way balances at favorable rates.

Noninterest income ticked up thanks to stronger mortgage activity and rising trust fees, while expenses grew mostly in line with talent investment and operational needs. Despite the unusual charge, leadership struck an optimistic note heading into the final stretch of the year, focused on recovery efforts, steady growth, and keeping its core franchise moving forward.

High interest rates could reduce consumer demand for credit, particularly for residential real estate loans, which account for about 25% of the total loan portfolio. However, the anticipated lower rates might compress net interest margins, and the company's strategic focus on loan growth and asset reallocation positions it well to navigate these changes. FFIN aims to capitalize on lower borrowing costs to drive loan demand and support deposit growth. The company is committed to maintaining strong financial performance and delivering value to shareholders and customers, even in a potentially lower-rate environment in 2025.

As a result, we matched analysts' EPS estimates of $1.74 for 2025. We have maintained an annual expected EPS growth rate of 7.0% for the next five years, lower than the bank's long-term growth rates, which could mean EPS of $2.44 by 2030. First Financial Bankshares' DPS had a 10-year and 5-year CAGR of 9.8% and 8.3%, respectively. Moreover, the bank has consistently increased dividend distributions to shareholders for the past 15 years, and we expect it to continue this trend.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
Avg. P/E	19.9	21.8	23.6	24.4	26.1	21.4	29.8	25.3	21.1	21.9	18.4	20.0
Avg. Yld.	2.0%	2.0%	1.8%	1.5%	1.5%	1.7%	1.2%	1.6%	2.4%	2.1%	2.4%	2.5%

First Financial Bankshares is trading at a forward P/E of 18.4, lower than its long-term average P/E of around 23.5. We believe a lower multiple is justifiable. Even though our FFIN thesis remains intact, we believe that a P/E multiple of 20.0 fairly reflects the bank's risk/reward profile, suggesting a target price of $49 by 2030.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	40%	44%	42%	37%	39%	36%	36%	40%	51%	46%	44%	50%

First Financial Bankshares boasts a competitive advantage stemming from its unwavering commitment to customer-centric services and localized approach. The bank has demonstrated resilient recession performance throughout economic downturns due to its conservative lending practices and diversified portfolio. This strategic approach has minimized risk and upheld stability. Finally, First Financials' prudent financial management is evidenced by its manageable debt levels, further contributing to its position as a robust and trustworthy financial institution.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Shares are up since our last report. Thus, we upgrade FFIN to buy rating, premised upon the 11.0% annualized total returns for the medium-term, derived from the forecasted earnings-per-share growth of 7.0%, the 2.4% dividend yield, and a small valuation tailwind.
