Overview & Current Events

Universal Health Realty Income Trust operates as a real estate investment trust (REIT), specializing in the healthcare sector. The trust owns healthcare and human service-related facilities. Its property portfolio includes acute care hospitals, medical office buildings, rehabilitation hospitals, behavioral healthcare facilities, sub-acute care facilities and childcare centers. The trust was founded in 1986 and currently has a market capitalization of $541 million. Universal Health's portfolio consists of 76 properties located in 21 states.

On October 27, 2025, Universal Health Realty Income Trust (UHT) reported third quarter 2025 net income of $4.0 million, or $0.29 per diluted share, unchanged from the same quarter in 2024. Results included a one-time $275,000 gain ($0.02 per share) from a settlement and release agreement related to one of its medical office buildings, partially offset by a $256,000 decrease in aggregate property income, which included $900,000 of nonrecurring depreciation expense. Funds from operations (FFO) rose to $12.2 million, or $0.88 per diluted share, up from $11.3 million, or $0.82 per share, in the prior year period. For the first nine months of 2025, net income totaled $13.3 million, or $0.96 per diluted share, compared with $14.6 million, or $1.05 per share, a year earlier, reflecting reduced property income, higher interest expense, and the absence of a prior-year property tax reduction benefit. Year-to-date FFO declined slightly to $35.9 million, or $2.59 per diluted share, versus $36.1 million, or $2.61 per share, in 2024. The REIT declared a quarterly dividend of $0.74 per share, paid on September 30, 2025. As of September 30, 2025, UHT had $67.9 million in remaining borrowing capacity under its $425 million credit agreement maturing in 2028, with $357.1 million drawn. The company also announced plans to develop Palm Beach Gardens Medical Plaza I, an 80,000-square-foot medical office building adjacent to the Alan B. Miller Medical Center in Florida, at an estimated cost of $34 million, with a ten-year master lease signed for 75% of the space.

For REITs, it is better to use FFO rather than EPS, as traditional GAAP earnings are influenced by depreciation, which is a significant non-cash expense for a real estate trust. Going forward, Universal Health will benefit from changing demographics. The U.S. is an aging society, with over 70 million Baby Boomers, those generally born between 1946 and 1964. As the sizable Baby Boomer generation ages, demand for healthcare facilities is poised to grow.

REITs that own healthcare properties, such as Universal Health, are in a prime position to capitalize on the changing demographic landscape. Universal Health's growth will be accomplished by rising rents on existing properties and by acquiring new properties. This is somewhat offset on a per-share basis as a result of raising funds via issuing equity.

Universal Health Realty Income Trust (UHT)

Overall, we anticipate low-single-digit annualized growth over the intermediate term, in line with the trust's consistent past.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	Now	2030
P/FFO	17.4	21.2	24.2	18.7	34	18	16	13.5	10.4	10.9	10.9	12.0
Avg. Yld.	5.1%	4.0%	3.5%	4.4%	2.4%	4.7%	4.8%	5.9%	8.6%	7.7%	7.8%	6.0%

Over the past decade, shares of Universal Health have traded hands with an average price-to-FFO of ~17. This was marked by a considerable multiple expansion coming out of the recession, starting at 11 and growing to 34 times FFO recently before falling to today's level of 10.9. While the business has proven itself to be very stable, due to the mediocre growth prospects, we are not willing to assign a valuation above the historical average. Moreover, rising interest rates have pushed our fair value estimate down further. That said, shares are currently undervalued relative to our fair value estimate of 12. Meanwhile, the dividend ought to add nicely to shareholder returns, although we do not expect a lot of growth from here, given the already fairly high payout ratio.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2030
Payout	89%	84%	85%	82%	81%	84%	76%	80%	89%	84%	86%	72%

Universal Health does not have significant competitive advantages, in our view. As a small-cap trust, Universal Health is considerably smaller than other healthcare REITs. Universal Health can be expected to fare relatively well during economic downturns, but it is not immune from recessions. The trust remained profitable during the Great Recession of 2007-2009, and it continued to raise its dividend each year. However, it did see FFO decline slightly in 2010 and 2011. Universal Health has a nice dividend yield and a secure payout. These are arguably the most important metrics for income investors. REITs are required to distribute at least 90% of their taxable income, and in exchange, do not pay income tax at the top level. The trust has also increased its dividend for over three consecutive decades.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Shares currently trade below historical multiples and offer an attractive 7.8% dividend yield and 11.4% annualized total return potential. The bad news is that projected annualized growth is still not high. Collectively, UHT shares earn a Hold rating as the low expected dividend growth keeps this from being a highly compelling buy.
