Overview & Current Events

Inter Parfums (IPAR) is a company that manufactures and distributes fragrance products. The company was founded in 1982, and until 1999, the business was named "Jean Philippe Fragrances." Inter Parfums designs, manufactures, markets, and distribute fragrances and beauty products under various brand names. The company's brand portfolio includes some of the most well-known names in the fragrance industry, including Abercrombie & Fitch, Anna Sui, Coach, Dunhill, Jimmy Choo, Karl Lagerfeld, Montblanc, Oscar de la Renta, Paul Smith, Repetto, and Van Cleef & Arpels, among others. Inter Parfums has a global presence and distributes its products in over 100 countries worldwide. The company operates through a network of subsidiaries and licensees, and it has production facilities in France, the United States, and Spain. In addition to fragrances, Inter Parfums also offers other beauty products, such as body lotions, shower gels, and other skincare items under some of its brand names.

On February 24th, 2026, Inter Parfums reported record fourth quarter and full year 2025 results for the period ending December 31st, 2025. Fourth quarter net sales increased 7% to $386 million, while full year net sales rose 2% to a record $1.49 billion. The company benefited from favorable foreign exchange movements, which contributed approximately 3% growth in the fourth quarter and 2% for the full year. Gross margin declined in the fourth quarter to 61.5% due primarily to tariff impacts. Operating income totaled $28 million in the fourth quarter, down 24%, and $270 million for the full year, down 2%, reflecting higher advertising and promotional investments as well as tariff-related cost pressures. Operating margin came in at 7.1% for the quarter and 18.2% for the year. Despite margin pressure, net income rose 16% in the fourth quarter to $28 million, while full year net income increased 2% to $168 million. Diluted earnings-per-share for the year reached a record $5.24, exceeding prior guidance of $5.12. Management highlighted continued strength across the top seven brands, which represent approximately 77% of sales and showed growth of 8% in the fourth quarter and 5% for the year. North America, Western Europe, and Central & South America saw growth of 3%, 5%, and 11%, respectively. Asia-Pacific declined 4% due to distribution challenges, while Middle East and Africa were down 4%, though up 4% excluding the Dunhill phase-out.

Over the past decade, Inter Parfums has grown earnings-per-share at 18.9% annually since 2016 and by 12.0% annually over the past five years. Based on management's 2026 guidance, we expect Inter Parfums to deliver $4.85 of earnings per share impacted by tariffs. In addition, we forecast that earnings-per-share will grow at about 5% per year over the next five years, guiding our 2031 earnings-per-share estimate of $6.19.

Over the past 10 years, dividends have grown by 20% annually, and over the past five years, dividend payments have increased by 26.2% annually, due mainly to payments doubling from 2021 to 2022. Management has also announced a flat dividend in 2026 at $3.20 per share. The company is expected to pay around 66% of its 2026 earnings as dividends, a considerable increase from the 36% payout ratio in 2021. Therefore, we expect dividends to grow slowly over time because the business now pays out a large chunk of its earnings to investors. Over the next five years, we expect dividend growth to slow to about 5% per year, growing in line with earnings-per-share.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	23.1	31.8	29.5	27.6	28.6	31.8	36.7	41.5	27.6	20.2	21.0	25.00
Avg. Yld.	2.1%	2.3%	2.0%	1.6%	1.7%	2.1%	2.9%	3.1%	2.9%	2.9%	3.2%	2.6%

Over the past decade, the stock has averaged a P/E ratio of 29.8, and over the past five years, the average P/E is 31.6. Over the intermediate term, we expect the stock to average a P/E of 25, which means that shares are undervalued at the current multiple. We have set a fair value price of $121, and we estimate a five-year price target of $155. Today, the stock offers a 3.2% dividend yield, which could be interesting for investors prioritizing income. Investors will likely find the stock attractive for its high dividend growth and strong brand presence as a leader in the fragrance market.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

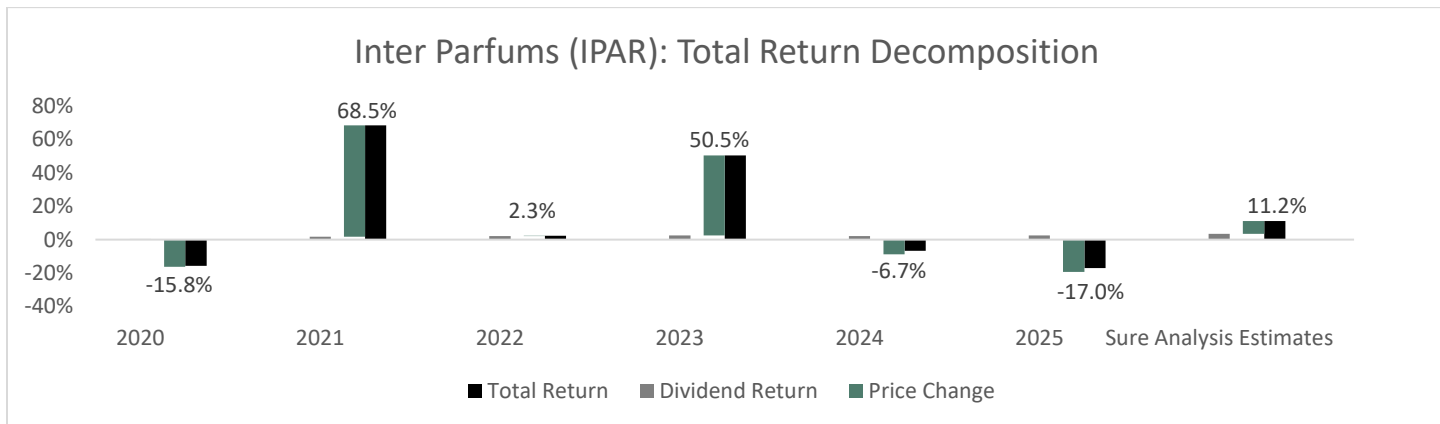

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	56%	54%	53%	61%	27%	36%	53%	53%	59%	61%	66%	66%

In the future, we expect Inter parfums to continue to have a ~63% payout ratio. Although we project that the dividend will continue to grow, it is important to note that in 2020, the business cut its dividend because earnings fell. With the stock sporting a payout ratio of more than 60%, investors run the risk that the dividend may be cut in the future if earnings fall. Fortunately, Inter Parfums has a solid balance sheet, with current assets exceeding total liabilities. The business also has $125 million in cash and cash equivalents, which is more than the company will pay out in dividends for the fiscal year 2026. In addition to a strong balance sheet, the business has a competitive advantage with exclusive licensing to sell products worldwide under top brands.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Inter Parfums is a business that has exclusive licensing to sell perfume under top fashion brands worldwide. We rate the stock as a hold at today's price due to its dividend risk score; however, its total return prospects are 11.2% annually over the next five years. This is due to earnings-per-share growth estimates of 5%, the 3.2% dividend yield, and a 3.5% valuation tailwind. Investors might be interested in IPAR for its exclusive licensing, market-leading position in the fragrance industry, and total return potential.
