Overview & Current Events

Nordson was founded in 1954 in Amherst, Ohio by brothers Eric and Evan Nord, but the company can trace its roots back to 1909 with the U.S. Automatic Company. Today the company has operations in over 35 countries and engineers, manufactures, and markets products used for dispensing adhesives, coatings, sealants, biomaterials, plastics, and other materials, with applications ranging from diapers and straws to cell phones and aerospace. The $16 billion market cap company generated $2.8 billion in sales last fiscal year.

On November 3rd, 2022, Nordson completed its acquisition of CyberOptics Corporation, expanding Nordson's product offering in the semiconductor and electronics industries. CyberOptics Corp. is a global developer and manufacturer of high-precision 3D optical sensing technology solutions. Nordson also completed its acquisition of Atrion in August 2024.

On August 28th, 2025, Nordson increased its dividend by 5% to $0.82 per share quarterly, marking 62 years of increases.

On February 18th, 2026, Nordson reported first quarter results for the period ending January 31, 2026. For the quarter, the company reported sales of $669 million, 9% higher compared to $615 million in Q1 2025, driven by 7% organic sales growth and 4% favorable forex translation, partly offset by the medical contract manufacturing divestiture. The Industrial Precision Solutions and Advanced Technology segments saw sales increase by 9% and 23%, respectively, while Medical and Fluid Solutions revenue was relatively flat. The company generated adjusted earnings per share of $2.37, a 15% increase compared to the same prior year period.

Nordson's backlog increased 4% year-over-year. It upgraded its FY 2026 outlook, now expecting sales of $2.86 billion to $2.98 billion and adjusted EPS of $11.00 to $11.60 (from $10.80 to $11.50 previously).

Shares²	57.0	58.0	58.0	58.0	58.0	58.0	58.0	58.0	57.6	56.4	56.0	55.0

From FY 2016 through FY 2025, Nordson grew earnings-per-share by a solid 9.1% annually. In the last five years, however, this growth has sped up to 13.3% per year. Earnings dipped during the last recession and fell again in 2020, but the company rebounded sharply and produced impressive results in 2021 and beyond.

Nordson outlines an investment thesis for itself, citing best-in-class technology that boosts client output while lowering costs, a worldwide service model, a balanced income stream, and an exceptional business track record. Areas for growth include increased use of disposable products, productivity investments, mobile computing, increased medical device usage and lightweight / lean manufacturing of vehicles, all of which benefit from the company's adhesive and coating segments. Additionally, with the acquisition of CyberOptics Corporation and Atrion, Nordson has expanded its position in the semiconductor and electronics industries, and proprietary medical products.

Nordson Corporation (NDSN)

Updated March 6th, 2026 by Quinn Mohammed

We have set our FY 2026 earnings estimate at $11.30 per share, which is the midpoint of management’s guidance. In addition, we are forecasting 10% growth off 2026 expectations into 2031, driven by top line improvement, small margin growth and a positive impact from acquisitions and share repurchases. This forecast is in line with Nordson’s Ascend strategy, which targets 6% to 8% revenue growth and 10% to 12% adjusted EPS growth from 2025 through 2029. Furthermore, through 2029, Nordson anticipates allocating 69% of its capital deployment to strategic M&A and debt service, and potential share repurchases, 21% to dividends, 7% to fund organic growth, and another 3% minimum for additional share repurchases.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	17.0	22.0	22.7	22.8	31.6	28.8	26.9	26.3	25.9	21.1	24.9	25.0
Avg. Yld.	1.2%	0.9%	0.9%	1.1%	0.9%	0.7%	0.9%	1.1%	1.1%	1.4%	1.2%	1.2%

Over the past decade, shares of Nordson have traded at an average P/E ratio of about 24, with the multiple picking up materially in the second half. We believe a premium valuation is fair considering the company’s strong past and future prospects, and the current valuation is below our estimate of fair value. Should shares return to 25 times earnings, this could create a modest tailwind for future returns.

The dividend does not add materially to the investment thesis, but Nordson has a storied record of dividend increases. While the current dividend yield is not impressive, the low payout ratio and strong underlying profit machine show a clear path to many dividend increases ahead.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	21%	21%	21%	24%	28%	22%	23%	27%	29%	31%	29%	29%

Nordson’s main competitive advantage is its enormous installed base of customers around the world. The company provides niche, but critical, pieces involved in a variety of manufacturing processes. As such, it is difficult for competitors to compete away the company’s position. Of course, this does not mean that Nordson is immune from recessions. During the last crisis, earnings fell -32% for the year, before rebounding strongly. Given the company’s dependence on worldwide growth, another downturn could dampen the company’s near-term growth forecasts. Indeed, 2020 proved to be a down year, but fiscal 2021 and 2022 results were very strong.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Shares are up 17% year-to-date, which compares favorably to the S&P 500 Index’s flat performance. Nordson is a company worth owning if the price is right. The company’s long-term growth prospects appear solid and Nordson’s past record, both on the earnings and dividend front, are enviable. We are forecasting an annualized total return in the next five years of 11.2%, stemming from a 10% EPS growth rate, a 1.2% dividend yield, and 0.1% P/E multiple expansion. Nordson maintains its buy rating.
