Overview & Current Events

Bunge Limited (BG) is one of the largest agribusiness and food companies globally, with integrated operations that stretch from farmer to consumer. The company buys, sells, stores, transports, and processes oilseeds and grains to make protein meals for animal feed and edible oil products for commercial customers. Bunge also produces sugar and ethanol from sugarcane, mills wheat, and corn, and sells fertilizers. BG currently has a market capitalization of ~$18 billion.

The company's strong balance sheet and liquidity position give it a competitive advantage in adverse market conditions. Even though the global supply chain bottlenecks persist, BG has profited from the rise in crop prices since a growing global population has raised the need for more food-grade oils and well-fed livestock.

On February 4th, 2026, the company announced Q4 results, reporting GAAP EPS of $1.99, which beat estimates by $0.17. Bunge reported revenues of $23.76 billion that were up 75.5% year-over-year.

Bunge Global SA reported fourth quarter 2025 results that highlighted improved operational execution despite a sharp decline in reported earnings. Net income for the quarter fell to $95 million from $602 million a year earlier, reflecting market volatility and prior-year comparability, while total EBIT declined to $264 million. Still, adjusted total EBIT rose to $622 million from $445 million, with all core segments delivering higher underlying performance. Strength was particularly evident in oilseed processing and soft seed operations, where expanded capacity and contributions from the Viterra combination supported volumes and margins. Grain merchandising also benefited from a larger global footprint and strong crop flows, though partially offset by softer corn and freight dynamics.

For the full year, Bunge generated $816 million in net income, down from $1.14 billion in 2024, while adjusted total EBIT improved slightly to $2.03 billion. The year was defined by the successful integration of Viterra, which expanded the company's global reach and diversified its value chains across food, feed, and fuel markets. Cash flow from operations totaled $844 million, lower year over year due to working capital swings, though adjusted funds from operations increased to $1.73 billion. Management emphasized that the combined platform enhances resilience in uncertain markets, positioning the company to manage risk more effectively while capturing synergies and advancing long-term growth initiatives.

closer to the likely end of the cycle, the company may face earnings normalization with slower growth in the medium-term. Nevertheless, BG now has an increasing opportunity to expand its revenue. For instance, as the world advances toward sustainability, the growth in renewable diesel, produced from crop oils, is currently a modest portion of Bunge's business but may become enormous. Higher crop prices are only one factor driving Bunge's growth.

We used the midpoint of management's estimate at $7.75 for 2025 and with a 5% CAGR, it leads to our estimated EPS of $9.89 by 2031. Additionally, we have assumed a 5.0% dividend growth, resulting in a dividend payment of $3.68 in 2031.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	16.5	49.1	43.3	38.6	8.9	5.4	6.9	4.0	12.1	16.6	16.5	10.0
Avg. Yld.	1.9%	2.4%	2.8%	3.0%	2.9%	2.8%	3.2%	4.4%	2.8%	3.4%	2.3%	3.7%

Bunge is trading at a 16.5 P/E multiple, well below its long-term average of 20.1. However, considering the growth prospects, we believe a P/E ratio of around 10.0 by 2031 is more representative of its fair value, implying a small valuation headwind. Finally, we expect the company to continue to raise its dividend, resulting in a dividend yield of 3.7% by 2031.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

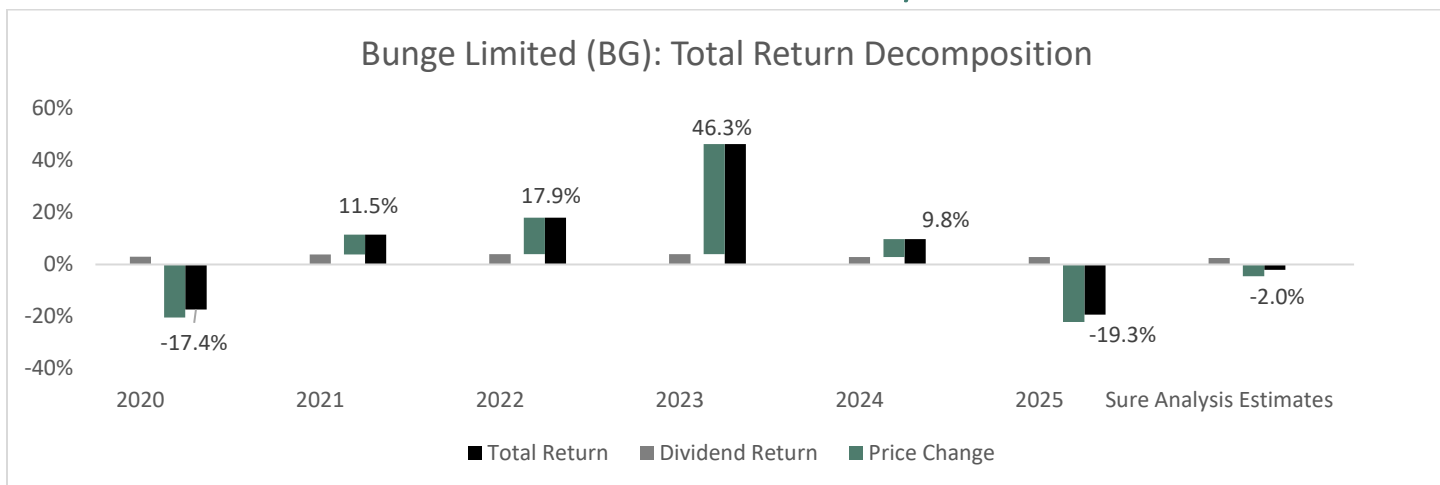

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	32%	117%	122%	114%	26%	15%	22%	18%	34%	57%	37%	37%

Bunge's CEO Gregory Heckman, who took over in 2019, has been instrumental in introducing structural changes to harness the global scale of its business, increasing the company's earnings power and reducing the level of debt on the balance sheet. The company has been disciplined at paying dividends and is a great capital allocator. The company faces risks due to the volatile nature of commodity prices. The market for the company's products is characterized by high competition and is subject to product substitution.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

It is reasonable to expect the company to pass on the cost to its customers efficiently, offering Bunge inflation resistance in the current environment. Hence, we maintain our hold rating for BG, premised upon the -2.0% annualized total return expectation derived from the forecasted earnings-per-share growth of 5.0%, the 2.3% dividend yield, and a valuation headwind.
