Overview & Current Events

Eaton Corporation is a diversified industrial equipment and parts manufacturer. The company's engineered electrical systems and components are used by customers in the industrial, vehicle, commercial, and aerospace markets. The Ireland-based Eaton was founded in 1916 and today has annual sales of more than $27 billion. The company employs about 94,000 people. Eaton has 5 divisions: Electrical Americas, Electrical Global, Aerospace, and Mobility.

On November 3rd, 2025, Eaton announced that it had agreed to acquire Boyd Corporation's thermal business, Boyd Thermal, for $9.5 billion. The transaction closed on March 12th, 2026.

On February 26th, 2026, Eaton raised its quarterly dividend 5.8% to $1.10, extending the company's dividend growth streak to 17 consecutive years.

On May 5th, 2026, Eaton reported first quarter results for the period ending March 31st, 2026. For the quarter, revenue increased 16.8% to a Q1 record $7.45 billion, which topped expectations by $310 million. Adjusted earnings-per-share of $2.81 was also a Q1 record, compared favorably to $2.72 in the prior year, and was $0.08 more than anticipated.

Organic sales were higher by 10% for the quarter, which was above management's guidance of 5% to 7%. The segment operating margin contracted 120 basis points to 22.7%. For the quarter, revenue for the Electrical Americas segment surged 20% to a record $3.6 billion. The backlog was up 44% and orders on rolling twelve-month basis were up nearly 240% from data center customers. Electrical Global grew 21% to a record $1.95 billion and the backlog was higher by 73%. Aerospace improved 16% to a record $1.14 billion, with the backlog up 28% from the prior year. Mobility, which includes the former Vehicle and eMobility segments, was lower by 2% to $766 million. Eaton announced in January 2026 that it planned to spin off this segment into a standalone company named "Mobility Group". The deal is expected to be complete in Q1 2027.

Eaton provided an updated outlook for 2026 as well, with the company now expecting adjusted earnings-per-share in a range of $13.05 to $13.50 for the year, up from $13.00 to $13.50 previously. At the midpoint, this would represent an increase of 10.0% from 2025.

Eaton's earnings-per-share have increased by 12.4% over the last decade. The growth rate accelerates somewhat to 14.9% when looking at the last five years. Prior to 2020, Eaton had delivered mid-single-digit organic growth, though the company's earnings-per-share decreased dramatically during the last recession. The short-term following the pandemic was challenging for the company, but earnings-per-share growth returned very quickly. The addition of Boyd Thermal will help the company gain increased access to the growing AI investment boom. The spinoff of the Vehicle and eMobility business will allow the company to focus on its main drivers of growth. We reaffirm our expected EPS growth to 12% from 10% through 2031 as the company is expected to grow at low double-digit rate over the next few years. Eaton paused dividend growth in 2009, as this was prudent given the earnings decline. We continue to expect dividends to grow 10% annually as the payout ratio is very reasonable.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	14.6	16.3	14.7	14.3	22.7	26.1	20.7	26.4	30.7	26.4	30.3	25.0
Avg. Yld.	3.7%	3.2%	3.4%	3.5%	3.0%	1.8%	2.1%	1.4%	1.1%	1.3%	1.1%	1.1%

Shares of Eaton have gained $35, or 9.5%, since our February 4th, 2026 update. Based off estimates for 2026, the stock trades with a price-to-earnings multiple of 30.3. Eaton’s stock has an average price-to-earnings ratio of 21.3 over the past decade and 26.1 over the last five years. We reaffirm our target P/E ratio of 25 from 21 given the quality of results in recent years and the expectation for a higher growth rate moving forward. If shares were to trade at our target P/E by 2031, then valuation would be a 3.8% headwind to total returns over this time frame.

Eaton has a current yield of 1.1%, which is well below the stock’s 10-year average of more than 2.5%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	54%	52%	49%	49%	69%	46%	43%	38%	35%	34%	33%	30%

Eaton suffered an extreme decline in earnings during the last recession that forced the company to pause its dividend growth. The company would likely experience a decline in earnings in another recession due to the nature of its business and could pause its dividend increases again. Eaton’s key competitive advantages are its expertise and understanding of the businesses that it operates. The company specializes in providing highly engineered products to customers in niche end markets. Switching to a different provider could prove costly and comes with a risk of failure. While Eaton is not recession-proof, the company is likely to do well in an improving economy due to these factors.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

After first quarter results, Eaton Corporation is expected to return 8.9% annually through 2031, up from our prior estimate of 10.8%. Our projection stems from a 12% earnings growth rate and a 1.1% starting dividend yield that are offset by a low single-digit headwind from multiple compression. Once again, Eaton’s businesses largely performed very well during the period, with the company seeing new records in several segments. That said, Eaton still trades ahead of our fair value target. We have raised our five-year price target $1 to $585 due to EPS estimates, but we continue to rate shares of Eaton as a hold as the stock trades ahead of our fair value target. We note that Eaton’s projected returns are decent and the name has a strong dividend risk score.
