Overview & Current Events

NACCO Industries is a holding company for The North American Coal Corporation, which incorporated in 1913. The company supplies coal from surface mines to power generation companies. NACCO Industries is the largest lignite coal producer in the U.S. and ranks among the top ten of all coal producers. NACCO Industries operates in the states of North Dakota, Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana and on the Navajo Nation in New Mexico. The company produces annual revenues of ~$240 million. The company has been very active in purchasing and spinning off a wide variety of businesses in its history. In 1988 and 1990, NACCO Industries made several purchases that expanded the business to include housewares. In 2012, NACCO Industries spun off its Materials Handling Group (a combination of Yale Materials Handling Corporation and the Hyster Company). The company spun off its housewares-related business on September 29th, 2017.

On May 5th, 2026, NACCO Industries reported first quarter results for the period ending March 31st, 2026. For the quarter, revenue decreased 4.2% to $62.8 million while earnings-per-share of $1.17 compared favorably to $0.66 in the prior year.

Utility coal revenue fell 13% to $16.7 million while total deliveries decreased 3.3% to 6.0 million tons. Unconsolidated coal deliveries declined 1.8% to 5.51 million tons while consolidated coal deliveries were down 16.9% to 491K tons. Deliveries from the Contract Mining segment grew 16.4% to just under 15 million tons while revenue improved 3.5% to $32.6 million. Mineral and Royalties revenue was lower by 12.4% to $9.5 million.

The company still expects to see an increase in profit at Utility Coal mining with a significant improvement in results from the Contract Mining business. We expect earnings-per-share of $4.00 for 2026.

On May 14th, 2026, NACCO Industries raised its quarterly dividend 4% to $0.2625.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031

DPS	$1.07	$0.98	$0.66	$0.76	$0.77	$0.79	$0.82	$0.86	$0.90	$0.99	$1.05	$1.34
Shares¹	7	7	7	7	7	7	7	8	7	7	8	8

NACCO's earnings-per-share have a compound annual growth rate of -6.5% over the last decade, but this loss accelerates to -9.8% when looking at just the last five years. Earnings growth has been varied and erratic over the last decade. Given the volatility of the company, we continue to expect flat earnings growth through 2031. Adjusting for its spin-off history, NACCO Industries has raised its dividend for 40 consecutive years. This is an impressive growth streak given the extreme cyclicality in the company's earnings history. We expect a dividend growth rate of 5% going forward.

NACCO Industries does have some opportunity for growth. For example, the company entered into an agreement in Q2 2020 to become the exclusive contract miner for the Thacker Pass lithium project in northern Nevada. Construction commenced on March 2nd, 2023 with the production of lithium expected to begin in late 2027. In addition, the company expects to commence operations at a new limestone quarry in Arizona in 2026.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	14.5	18.2	8.7	8.3	12.5	5.4	3.6	---	6.6	20.7	12.5	9.0
Avg. Yld.	1.7%	1.3%	1.8%	1.6%	2.9%	2.2%	2.3%	2.4%	3.0%	2.0%	2.1%	3.7%

Shares of NACCO Industries have gained $1, or 2.0%, since our March 23rd, 2026 report. Focusing on just the 2018 to 2025 period, NACCO Industries shares have traded with an average price to earnings multiple of 9.4. This is below the stock's current P/E of 12.5. Investors have typically not been willing to pay for a company that has an issue growing earnings consistently. NACCO Industries needs to prove it can reliably grow earnings-per-share before it maintains a higher multiple. We reaffirm our 2031 P/E target of 9.0. Reverting to our target valuation would reduce annual returns by 6.4% over the next five years.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	25%	24%	13%	13%	37%	12%	8%	---	20%	42%	26%	34%

The previous version of NACCO Industries actually saw earnings improve during the 2007 to 2009 recession, but this is not the same company. NACCO Industries now sees a substantial portion of revenues from coal. As demand for coal fluctuates, so will the company's ability to produce revenue. Contract Mining is also an important business as drives growth from geographic and mineral expansion. The company has also kept its payout ratio low in recent years, which is a prudent decision by management as earnings-per-share continues to drop. NACCO Industries' primary competitive advantage is that it does not acquire existing coal mines or mining companies, as this would increase its leverage position. Instead, NACCO Industries focuses on reducing coal production costs and maximizing efficiency and operating capacity at the mine locations.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Following first quarter results, NACCO Industries is expected to return -3.4% annually through 2031, compared to our prior estimate of -3.1%. This projected return stems from a starting dividend yield of 2.1% that is more than offset by a mid-single-digit headwind from multiple compression. We reaffirm our five-year price target of $36 due to EPS estimates for the year, but we continue to view shares of NACCO Industries as a hold due to projected returns and a solid dividend risk score. We note that only investors with a high tolerance for risk should consider owning the name due to the stock's volatile performance.
