Overview & Current Events

Oak Valley Bancorp is a regional banking holding company based in Oakdale, California, operating through its subsidiary, Oak Valley Community Bank. It provides a range of financial services including commercial and consumer loans, deposit accounts, and investment services. Recently, Oak Valley Bancorp has been active in expanding its market presence; it completed the acquisition of Sonora Bank in early 2024, enhancing its footprint in the Central Valley region and broadening its customer base. The company generated $74.6 million in net interest income last year.

On January 20th, 2026, Oak Valley raised its dividend by 25% to a semi-annual rate of $0.375

On July 22nd, 2026, Oak Valley reported its Q2 results for the period ending June 30th, 2026. For the quarter, net interest income totaled $18.9 million, compared to $18.8 million in the prior quarter and $18.2 million in the same period last year. The improvement was driven by loan growth and higher loan yields, with average earning assets increasing 4.0% year-over-year and gross loans rising by $18.3 million during the quarter.

Net interest margin was 4.15%, up from 4.12% in Q1 2026 and 4.11% in Q2 2025. Earnings per share were $0.61, down three cents sequentially and six cents year-over-year, mainly due to higher non-interest expenses and lower non-interest income, partially offset by higher net interest income and a lower provision for credit losses. For the first half of 2026, EPS was $1.25, compared to $1.31 last year. For FY2026, we expect EPS of about $3.00.

Over the past decade, Oak Valley Bancorp has demonstrated rather impressive growth, reflected in its 13% CAGR in EPS. Key milestones that have contributed to its growth include several acquisitions and other expansion efforts.

For instance, in 2014, the acquisition of FNB Bancorp notably expanded its presence into Modesto, enhancing its branch network and customer base. This move was followed by the 2017 acquisition of National Bank of the Redwoods, which enabled Oak Valley to enter the North Bay market and diversify its geographic footprint. Also, by opening new branches in 2021, such as those in Turlock and Tracy, Oak Valley has tapped into emerging markets and strengthened its footprint.

Besides acquisitions, the company has focused on growing organically as well. For instance in 2018, Oak Valley invested in upgrading its loan origination systems, which improved the efficiency of its lending processes and contributed to a steady increase in loan volumes. This investment seems to have paid off as net interest income has grown consistently.

Looking ahead, Oak Valley will likely maintain its dual growth strategy, pursuing strategic acquisitions to expand its geographic and service footprint while also focusing on organic growth through branch reinvestment and efficiency improvements. Therefore, we've applied an 8% expected growth rate in our EPS estimates through 2031.

Regarding the dividend, Oak Valley has raised it for 13 consecutive years. The dividend was reinstated in early 2014, following the dividend cut that took place during the Great Financial Crisis, when most banks, including regional ones like Oak Valley similarly paused or reduced their payouts. The company pays its dividends semi-annually.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	10.5	11.8	13.5	12.1	9.4	8.3	6.5	6.2	8.6	9.3	10.9	10.0
Avg. Yld.	2.5%	2.0%	1.4%	1.5%	1.8%	1.8%	1.7%	1.7%	2.0%	2.5%	2.3%	2.5%

Oak Valley Bancorp’s stock valuation over the years has been influenced by various factors, such as its earnings growth, net interest margin, and asset quality. All these core elements have proven robust over the past decade. That said, we believe that the stock is slightly overvalued at 10.9 times this year’s expected EPS. We have set our fair multiple at 10 times EPS estimates, which we feel better reflects the company’s earnings growth prospects and overall ability to compound its equity. Further, while the dividend doesn’t provide a substantial yield, payouts are likely to keep growing.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	26%	23%	19%	18%	17%	15%	11%	10%	17%	23%	25%	25%

Oak Valley Bancorp stands out for its notable regional presence and consistent earnings growth, supported by accretive acquisitions like those of FNB Bancorp and National Bank of the Redwoods, which have expanded its market reach. The bank's strengths are evident in its strong net interest margin, which has hovered between 3.5% and 4.2%. In turn, this has been driven by prudent lending practices and effective reinvestment strategies.

However, as a regional bank, Oak Valley faces inherent competitive pressures from larger players in the space and other regional banks with similar offerings. Generally, its performance can be impacted by local economic fluctuations and credit risks, making it less insulated from future recessions compared to larger, more diversified banks. In any case, we believe the company’s dividend remains well covered, and is unlikely to be cut unless catastrophic events take place. Note that the stock is highly illiquid, with roughly 50K shares traded, on average, on a daily basis.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Oak Valley Bancorp has delivered decent returns lately. The company posted solid net interest income margins during the rising-rates environment of past few years, which resulted in notable earnings growth. While we believe that the company lacks any notable competitive advantages and its risk profile is increased as a regional bank, we believe the stock can achieve an annualized total return of 8.4% over the medium-term. This is to be powered by strong earnings growth prospects and the dividend, offset by the possibility of a valuation headwind. Thus, shares earn a hold rating.
