Overview & Current Events

Westamerica Bancorporation is the holding company for Westamerica Bank. Westamerica Bancorporation is a regional community bank with 79 branches in Northern and Central California. The company can trace its origins back to 1884. Westamerica Bancorporation offers clients access to savings, checking and money market accounts. The company's loan portfolio consists of both commercial and residential real estate loans, as well as construction loans. Westamerica Bancorporation is one of largest banks headquartered in California. It has annual revenues of about $260 million.

On April 23rd, 2026, Westamerica Bancorporation announced that it was increasing its quarterly dividend 4.2% to $0.48, extending the company's dividend growth streak to 32 consecutive years.

On July 16th, 2026 Westamerica Bancorporation announced second quarter results for the period ending June 30th, 2026. For the quarter, revenue fell 2.9% to $63 million. GAAP earnings-per-share of $1.17 compared favorably to $1.12 in the prior year, but this was $0.08 ahead of estimates.

Average total loans declined 10.4% to $682.9 million. Commercial real estate loans, which make up more than half of the total loan portfolio, were lower by 4.9%, consumer loans decreased 30.1%, and commercial loans were down 7.1%. As of the end of the quarter, nonperforming loans totaled $808K, which was a significant improvement from $4.96 million in the prior year. This represented just 0.1% of total loans. The company's allowance for credit losses was $10.8 million, less than both the prior year and preceding quarter. Net interest income was $52.7 million, which compares to $54.6 million a year ago and matched the result from the first quarter of 2026. Net interest margin of 3.74% compared to 3.85% in the second quarter of 2025 and matched the figure from the first quarter of 2026. Average total deposits increased 0.5% year-over-year to $4.77 billion. The company repurchased 753K shares during the quarter. Previously, the company had announced that it had authorized a share repurchase of up to 2 million shares.

We now expect that the company will earn $4.64 per share in 2026, up from $4.45 and $4.26 previously. We have updated our forecast accordingly.

Earnings-per-share for Westamerica Bancorporation more than doubled from 2008 to 2009, an accomplishment that few banks can claim. Earnings-per-share had declined in what is essentially a straight line until 2018, which was just the second year since 2009 that earnings increased year-over-year. The company had seen flat or higher earnings-per-share each year since before returning to growth in 2022 and 2023. Our previously expected earnings decline occurred in 2024 and 2025, with further decreases likely to take place this year. Still, we anticipate an annual earnings-per-share growth rate of 2% through 2031.

Westamerica Bancorporation has increased its dividend for 32 consecutive years. The dividend has compounded at a rate of 1.7% annually over the last decade. Note that the company doesn't often raise its dividend on a predictable schedule, with investors occasionally going more than four quarters without seeing an increase. However, the company has raised its dividend for the August payment date in each of the last two years.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	21.7	25.7	24.3	22.7	18.6	17.9	13.0	8.3	10.2	10.6	13.1	13.0
Avg. Yld.	3.1%	2.6%	2.8%	2.4%	3.0%	2.9%	2.8%	3.0%	3.4%	3.8%	3.1%	3.2%

Westamerica Bancorporation's stock has gained $7, or 13.0%, since our April 20th, 2026 update. Using the expected earnings-per-share for the year, the price-to-earnings ratio (P/E) is 13.1. The stock has seen its average P/E multiple vary dramatically over the past decade. Eliminating the years where the average P/E was above 24 (2017 and 2018), shares of Westamerica Bancorporation have averaged a multiple of 15.4. We reaffirm our target valuation of 13 times earnings as we believe this is a better representation of the company today. If shares were to revert to our target P/E, valuation would reduce annual returns by 0.2% through 2031. Westamerica Bancorporation trades with a forward yield of 3.1%, which is just above the long-term average for the stock.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	68%	68%	60%	55%	55%	51%	37%	28%	34%	40%	41%	41%

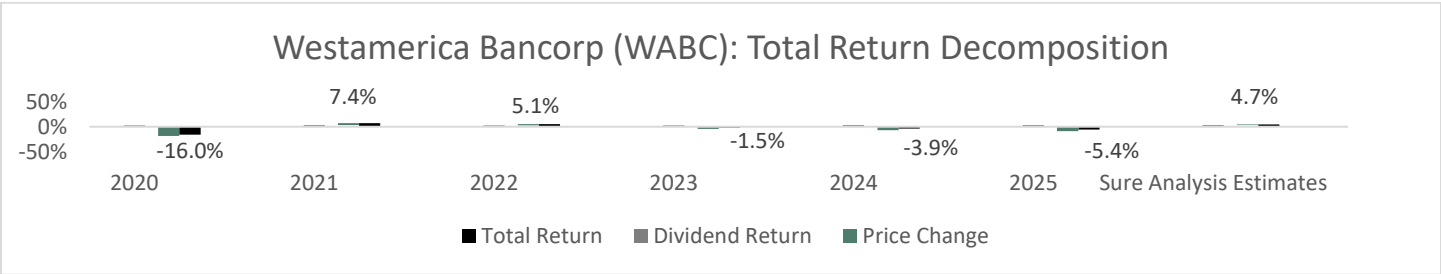

While earnings-per-share increased significantly during the last recession, this does not make Westamerica Bancorporation recession proof, or even an attractive investment. The company has proven that it cannot be a reliable source of earnings growth. Despite this, the company's dividend payout ratio has been relatively stable. The payout ratio for 2026 is projected to be less than 50%.

Westamerica Bancorporation's key competitive advantage is its ability to see an improvement in net interest income as interest rates were increased. This should lead to a higher net interest margin as rates are not likely to be reduced significantly in the near-term.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

After second quarter results, Westamerica Bancorporation is projected to return 4.7% annually through 2031, down from our previous estimate of 6.4%. Our projected returns stem from a 2% earnings growth rate, a 3.1% dividend yield, and a small headwind from multiple contraction. Loan growth remains stalled, but the bank's loan book remains in very strong shape. We continue to rate shares of Westamerica Bancorporation as a hold due to projected returns and a middling dividend risk score.
