Overview & Current Events

The Andersons, Inc. (ANDE) is an agriculture company that conducts business in North America. It operates through the following segments: Agribusiness segment (which includes former Trade operations) and Renewables. The Trade segment includes commodity merchandising and the operation of terminal grain elevator facilities. The Agribusiness segment contributed approximately 75% of revenue in 2025. The Renewables segment produces, purchases, and sells ethanol and co-products. The Nutrient & Industrial segment manufactures, and distributes agricultural inputs, primary nutrients, and specialty fertilizers, to dealers and farmers, along with turf care and corncob-based products. The $2.3 billion company was founded in 1947 and has about 2,050 employees.

On August 3rd, 2026, the company reported its second quarter results for the period ending June 30th, 2026. Revenue was $3.10 billion, compared to $3.14 billion in Q2 2025, reflecting strong second quarter performance driven by record Renewables results and improvement in Agribusiness. Net income attributable to Andersons was $56.6 million, or $1.65 per diluted share, compared to $7.9 million, or $0.23 per diluted share, in the prior year. Adjusted net income was $73.6 million, or $2.15 per diluted share, up from $8.4 million, or $0.24 per diluted share, respectively.

The Renewables segment delivered strong operational performance, posting pretax income of $65 million and adjusted pretax income attributable to Andersons of $88 million, compared to $16 million and $15 million, respectively, in Q2 2025. Results benefited from record second quarter ethanol production, strong ethanol export demand, healthy domestic consumption, improved merchandising, and the recognition of $24 million in 45Z producer tax credits during the quarter. The Agribusiness segment recorded pretax income and adjusted pretax income attributable to the company of approximately $20 million each, compared to $19 million and $17 million, respectively, in the year-ago quarter. Segment results reflected higher fertilizer margins and improved merchandising, partially offset by lower fertilizer volumes and fuel surcharges.

Management maintained a positive outlook for 2026, citing supportive ethanol fundamentals driven by strong export demand, increasing global blend rates, favorable domestic blending economics, and healthy bio-based diesel demand, while above-average corn acreage is expected to support fall fertilizer demand and favorable growing conditions in the eastern Corn Belt could support harvest volumes and grain ownership opportunities. The company also continues to focus on long-term growth initiatives, including soybean-meal export capabilities at the Port of Houston expected to become operational in Q4 2026 and the Clymers ethanol facility debottlenecking project.

The Andersons Inc. (ANDE)

Updated August 10th, 2026, by Sure Dividend Analyst

The Andersons' long-term earnings growth track record has been volatile due to its industry (commodity trading) and due to the COVID-19 impact. Over the last five years, the average EPS growth rate is 15.7%.

We expect the company to grow its earnings-per-share by 10% per year on average over the next five years. Looking ahead, earnings visibility improves meaningfully with the ramp-up of 45Z tax credits and the full consolidation of Renewables operations. As a result, 2026 represents a structural earnings reset rather than a typical cyclical increase, with growth expected to normalize to approximately 10% annually thereafter. The company has a long history of paying dividends and has increased its payout for 30 consecutive years. In December 2025, the quarterly dividend increased by 2.6% from $0.195 to $0.20 per share. Over the last five years, the average annual dividend growth rate is 2.4%.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	82.9	11.3	23.5	50.5	81.0	15.3	11.2	30.3	11.6	25.0	10.7	20.0

During the past decade shares of The Andersons Inc. have traded with an average price-to-earnings ratio of about 34 times earnings and today, it stands at 10.7. We are using 20 times earnings as a fair value baseline, implying the potential for a valuation tailwind. For context, the average industry price-to-earnings is ~20–22x. The company's dividend yield is currently 1.2% and the dividend raises in the last few years have contributed modestly to total returns.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	154%	21%	46%	125%	304%	24%	21%	26%	23%	28%	13%	9%

During the past five years, the company's dividend payout ratio has averaged around 24%. Earnings growth will be supporting continued dividend growth with a payout ratio under 25%.

The Andersons operates a diversified agribusiness platform spanning grain merchandising, ethanol production, and plant nutrients. Its balanced Agribusiness and Renewables segments provide cyclical resilience, with Renewables emerging as a key earnings driver following full ethanol plant ownership and the ramp-up of 45Z tax credits. While grain results remain sensitive to commodity cycles, the company's integrated supply chain, export reach, and disciplined capital investment support long-term earnings growth and improved visibility.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We believe that the company's earnings and revenue could continue to grow modestly in the coming years. Revenue is predominantly dependent on the Trade segment, which has a volatile profile. The 30 consecutive years of dividend growth are comforting. We estimate a total return potential of 25.2% per year for the next five years, driven by 10% earnings growth, the dividend yield of 1.2%, and a valuation tailwind. Shares earn a hold rating due to the weak dividend growth over the long-term.
