Overview & Current Events

Lennox International is a leading HVAC (heating, ventilation, and air conditioning) manufacturer and distributor, with 100% of its sales now coming from North America following the divestiture of its European operations in 2023. The U.S. accounts for 94% of revenue, while 6% comes from Canada. Lennox operates through two segments: Home Comfort Solutions and Building Climate Solutions. With about 75% of sales powered by replacements and only 25% related to new construction, Lennox is less reliant on new home sales than many of its competitors. The company generated $5.2 billion in total revenue last year, and currently trades at a market cap of $14.4 billion.

On May 21st, 2026, Lennox raised its dividend by 4.6% to a quarterly rate of $1.36.

On July 29th, 2026, Lennox International reported its Q2 results for the period ending June 30th, 2026. Revenue was $1.5 billion, up 3% year-over-year, driven by completed acquisitions. Total segment profit rose 2% to $355 million, while segment margin declined 30 basis points to 23.0%. Results included $39 million of mix and price benefits and $17 million from acquisitions, partially offset by lower volumes, inflation, factory under-absorption, and higher costs.

Home Comfort Solutions revenue fell 7% to $936 million, while profit fell 12% to $222 million and margin contracted 130 basis points to 23.7%, mainly due to lower volumes. Building Climate Solutions revenue rose 24% to $610 million, including 15% organic growth and 9% from acquisitions. Segment profit grew 29% to $155 million, while margin expanded 100 basis points to 25.5% on higher volumes, favorable mix and pricing, national accounts, emergency replacements, and acquisition contributions.

Adjusted EPS was essentially flat at $7.72, while operating cash flow improved to $172 million from $87 million. Management lowered its full-year 2026 adjusted EPS guidance to $23.00 to $24.00 from $23.50 to $25.00, while reaffirming about 8% revenue growth, including a 5% acquisition benefit, and free cash flow of $750 million to $850 million. Lennox also agreed to acquire Heat Controller for approximately $205 million, adding the Comfort-Aire and Century brands and about $140 million in annual revenue, with closing expected later in 2026.

Updated August 1st, 2026, by Nikolaos Sismanis

Over the past ten years, the Lennox International has grown dividends at 13.8% annually, and over the past five years, the company has grown dividends at 9.0% annually. Over the next 5 years, we forecast that the business will grow dividends at 11% annually. Lennox International has increased its dividend payments for 18 consecutive years.

We expect the business to leverage its investments in e-commerce and in more streamlined factory operations as the business continues to focus on growing its higher-margin Residential Heating & Cooling business. Recent improvements in Lennox's distribution network should keep improving fill rates and costs, though remain cautious regarding tariffs.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	20.5	22.2	22.3	22.8	24.7	25.2	17.0	17.9	21.7	23.3	17.7	22.0
Avg. Yld.	1.1%	1.1%	1.2%	1.1%	1.3%	1.1%	1.7%	1.5%	0.9%	0.9%	1.3%	1.1%

Over the past 10 years, Lennox International has averaged a P/E ratio of 21.8. We have set our fair P/E ratio at 22.0 due to Lennox continuing to grow earnings-per-share at a fast clip balanced with rather elevated interest rates. Shares are currently trading at a P/E of 17.7, implying a discount to our fair value estimate. The stock offers a low dividend yield of just 1.3%, but investors might be more interested in this business's expected earnings and dividend growth.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	23%	24%	26%	25%	31%	28%	29%	24%	20%	22%	23%	23%

The business has averaged a very low payout ratio of 25% since 2016. We believe that the dividend is safe today and will continue to be over the intermediate term. The business doesn't have the strongest balance sheet because they have a lot of debt. The business has a negative shareholders' equity, but this really shouldn't be too concerning for investors, because the company has ample liquidity to pay off current liabilities, and the business can manage its long-term debt. The business has competitive advantages, including having a national presence and being a leader across many different industry verticals (including supermarkets, restaurants, discount stores, etc.) in the commercial space.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Lennox International offers investors an opportunity to invest in a growing business that serves an evergreen and ever-expanding market. Since the bulk of the company's revenue comes from replacing residential HVAC systems, they are not directly tied to new home sales, and they serve an industry that will always be in demand. At today's price, we rate the stock as a buy coming from a Dividend Risk score of "A" and our total return estimate per annum of 16.9% through 2031. Total return prospects are derived from earnings-per-share growth of 11% annually, the 1.3% yield, and a 4.4% annual valuation tailwind.
