Overview & Current Events

1st Source was founded in 1863 and since that time has grown into a regional bank with about $8 billion in total assets. The company is headquartered in Indiana and has about 100 locations to serve its customers. 1st Source's market capitalization is $2.1 billion, and it is expected to produce over $400 million in revenue this year. 1st Source also has an exceptional dividend increase streak that stands at 40 years, which very few banks can match.

1st Source posted second quarter earnings on July 23rd, 2026, and results were better than expected on both the top and bottom lines. Earnings-per-share came to $1.95, which was 24 cents ahead of estimates. Revenue was up 8.8% year-over-year to $118 million, beating estimates by $3.87 million.

Net income was $47.54 million, up $7.6 million, or 19%, from the prior quarter. It was also higher by 27% year-over-year. Average loans and leases were up $120 million, or 1.7% from the prior quarter, and up by 2.5% year-over-year. Average deposits were up $236 million, or 3.3%, from the prior quarter. They were higher by just over 1% from the previous year's Q2.

Net interest income was $93.3 million, 3.3% higher than the previous quarter and up 9.2% from the year before. Net interest margin was 4.24%, essentially flat to Q1 but 23 basis points higher than the year before.

We now see $7.25 in adjusted earnings-per-share for this year after a very strong Q2 report. This would easily be a record year, if achieved.

Growth on a Per-Share Basis

Earnings-per-share growth has been robust since the bottom in 2009. Recent growth has been fueled by gains in the company's asset base, averaging 5%+ in the past decade. 1st Source's strong balance sheet growth has been accompanied by expanding margins at times and prudent operating expenditures, allowing for a rise in returns on its asset base. We're estimating earnings growth of 3% going forward, as it appears some recent struggles with growing earnings are abating. 1st Source is trying to build more fee revenue, but its business is still heavily dependent upon lending margins, and we think growth will be tough to come by because of the unfavorable interest rate environment with respect to deposit costs against lending rates. We note NIM growth has slowed of late, but remains at extremely high levels.

Our expectation for the dividend is now $1.99 in 2031 as we see 1st Source facing headwinds in its ability to grow earnings. However, we don't expect the bank to end its very long streak of dividend increases. We see the bank as being hesitant to boost its payout ratio much higher than it is at the moment given its propensity to repurchase shares.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	15.3	18.4	16.4	13.1	11.2	9.9	11.0	10.9	10.5	9.3	12.1	11.0
Avg. Yld.	2.1%	1.6%	1.9%	2.4%	3.1%	2.6%	2.4%	2.4%	2.4%	2.4%	2.0%	2.1%

1st Source's price-to-earnings multiple has been steady, all things considered, for the past decade. It is currently trading for 12.1 times earnings, which is just above our estimate of fair value. Therefore, we see a modest negative impact to total returns from the valuation in the coming years. The yield should remain around 2% for the foreseeable future. The increase in earnings estimates has the valuation moderating, boosting the attractiveness of the stock.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	32%	30%	30%	31%	35%	26%	26%	26%	25%	23%	25%	24%

The payout ratio is around one-quarter of earnings and dividend raises will likely be somewhat modest in the coming years. 1st Source, interestingly, has tended to produce two small raises annually, rather than the typical one. We see the dividend as safe and with a lot of room to grow given 1st Source's commitment to raising the payout, as well as the low payout ratio. We see the payout growing even if 1st Source is not able to produce strong earnings growth, and indeed, that is what we're forecasting.

1st Source's competitive advantage is in its clean balance sheet, strong profitability metrics and robust market position in the areas it serves. The advantage of a community or regional bank is that it can generate sizable market share in lots of small markets, creating a sustainable competitive advantage. It is obviously not immune from recessions but did perform well in 2020, all things considered.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

We believe total returns for 1st Source investors could be 3% annually, consisting of the current 2% yield, 3.0% EPS growth, and 1.9% valuation headwind. Given that the bank's growth outlook is modest, and the fact that it has struggled to grow loans and leases organically, we think this will keep a lid on growth rates. We are reiterating the stock at a hold rating.
