Overview & Current Events

Portland General Electric is an electric utility based in Portland, Oregon, providing electricity to more than 950,000 customers in 51 cities and towns. The company owns or contracts more than 3.5 gigawatts of energy generation, between gas, coal, wind & solar, and hydro. Portland General trades on the NYSE under the ticker POR and has a market capitalization of $5.3 billion. POR has nearly 3,000 full-time employees. In 2025, the corporation generated $3.6 billion in revenue. The utility company is diversified by customer, with 34% of retail deliveries going to residential customers, 31% to commercial clients, and 35% to industrial clients.

In July 2025, Portland General submitted an application to OPUC for approval to reorganize into a holding company.

On April 24th, 2026, Portland General Electric announced a 5% increase in the quarterly dividend to $0.5513 per share.

On February 17th, 2026, Portland General announced its acquisition of PacifiCorp's Washington state operations for $1.9 billion, expanding into Washington, and increasing its total client base by approximately 140,000 customers. It is partnering with Manulife Infrastructure Fund III, L.P and its affiliates, who will own minority stakes. The transaction is expected to close in 2027.

Portland General reported Q3 2026 results on October 29th, 2026. The company reported net income of $119 million for the quarter, equal to $1.00 per diluted share on a GAAP basis, compared to $0.94 in Q3 2025. Adjusted EPS was $1.06.

During the quarter, commercial and residential deliveries declined by 4.8% and 8.9% over the prior-year period, respectively. Meanwhile, industrial energy deliveries rose 6.0%.

Leadership reduced its adjusted EPS guidance in 2026 to a new midpoint of $3.23 (from $3.43 prior), assuming approximately 1.5% annual growth in energy deliveries.

Portland General has established a track record of steady growth in per share earnings. Over the past nine and five years, POR has grown adjusted earnings per share by 3.9% and 2.1% per year on average, respectively. In October 2022, management upgraded the company's long-term EPS growth guidance to 5% to 7% (from 4% to 6% previously), and as of the most recent quarter, it maintains that guidance. From here we expect 6% earnings growth through 2031. Leadership also estimates that the company can increase the dividend by 5% to 7% over the long term, for a 6% mid-point, which is consistent with the trailing 10-year average dividend growth rate of 5.7%.

We expect that Portland General will generate this earnings growth through increased annual energy deliveries, as a result of commercial growth, and strong growth in industrial energy demand due to customer expansion and data centers. Rate increases, customer additions, and completion of construction projects will all further fuel Portland

General's earnings growth. Furthermore, its upcoming acquisition of WA Utility will expand its presence in Washington, enhance scale nearby, and generate new customer growth and investment opportunities.

The company has increased the share count over the last decade, though not at an alarming rate (2.5% per year over the last nine years). A rising share count is common among utility companies with constant capital expenditures that pay out a large portion of earnings to shareholders in the form of dividends.

Valuation Analysis

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	Now	2031
Avg. P/E	19.1	20.0	18.4	22.3	26.6	24.5	19.1	19.7	19.1	14.3	15.3	18.0

The current PE ratio of 15.3 is a discount to Portland General's average historical PE ratio. Over the past ten and five years, POR has traded at an average valuation of 20.3- and 19.3-times earnings. We estimate the company can grow into the valuation of 18 times earnings. This PE ratio increase from 15.3 to 18.0 would result in valuation gains of 3.3% annually due to multiple expansion. With a lower-than-average valuation today, the dividend yield is elevated at 4.5%.

Safety, Quality, Competitive Advantage, & Recession Resiliency

Year	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	2024	2025	2026	2031
Payout	58%	59%	60%	64%	58%	62%	65%	78%	63%	68%	68%	68%

Portland General's payout ratio has remained within or below its target payout ratio of 60% to 70% for most of the last decade. Going forward, we estimate that Portland General will likely remain within its target payout ratio as the dividend grows in line with earnings-per-share.

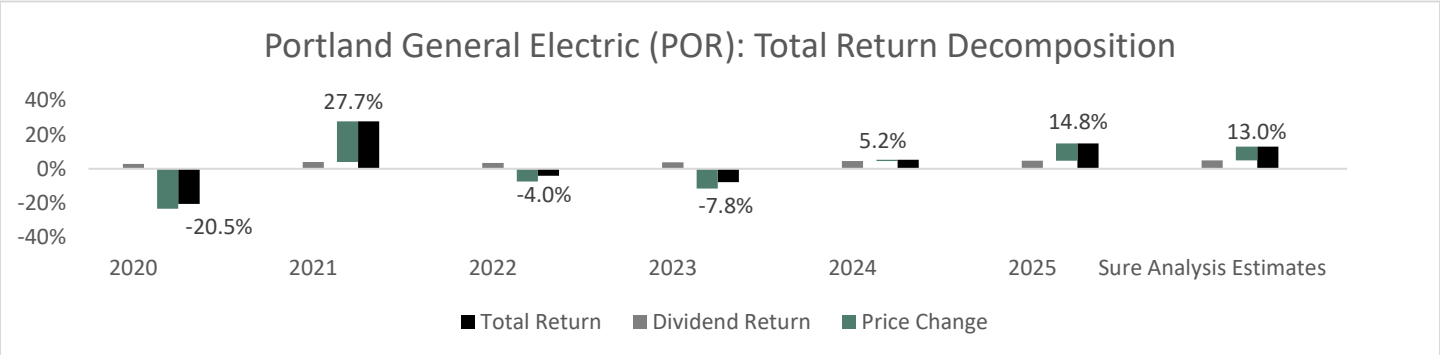

During the great financial crisis, earnings fell roughly 44% from peak to trough. However, the dividend was fairly well covered throughout the entire ordeal, and it kept growing year-after-year, resulting in a 20-year annual dividend increase streak. It's worth noting too that if we ignored the year 2007 where POR generated significantly higher earnings than on average (the peak), the financial crisis had little impact on Portland General's earnings, which had been rising steadily since 2006.

We don't see POR as having a significant competitive advantage in its business among its peers, though it does dominate in its geographical area of Oregon, and serves roughly half of the residential population.

Final Thoughts & Recommendation

Portland General Electric is a consistent earnings grower and dominates in its geographical location. The corporation has generally kept within its target payout ratio, which has enabled it to grow its dividend for twenty consecutive years. We believe Portland General is trading at a 15% discount to fair value, with the potential to generate 13.0% of total annualized returns. POR earns a hold rating.
